Other		Restrictions on entry to remote Aboriginal Communities remain in place.	Establishment of a 'low community transmission zone' comprised of the Northern Territory, Tasmania, Western Australia and Queensland. The critical detail is that a person arriving in South Australia must have arrived direct from the low community transmission zone; and must not have been, at any time during the period of 14 days immediately before their arrival in South Australia, in a place other than South Australia or the low community transmission zone.	The only current hotspot is Victoria. Travellers from hotspots must quarantine. Hotspots are defined here  Please note Land Councils are maintaining a 14 day quarantine period for interstate arrivals prior to entry to ALRA land.	Penalty for not following Public Health requirements of $11,000 or imprisonment for 6 months for an individual, or both and a further $5500 penalty may apply for each day the offence continues with on-the-spot fines of $1000 for an offence. For corporations, up to $55,000 and a further $27,500	Penalties for breaching the Stay at Home requirements includes up to approximately $20,000 in fines, or up to approximately $100,000 for corporations	*Critical resources sector employee means a person that:  - is required to be appointed under the Coal Mining Safety and Health Act 1999; the Mining and Quarrying Safety and Health Act 1999; or the Petroleum and Gas (Production and Safety) Act 2004 and the position is mentioned in the list published on the Queensland Health website; or - has been approved by the Chief Health Officer as a critical resources sector employee.	All travellers arriving in to Tasmania must complete a Tasmanian Arrivals Form and quarantine for 14 days. Essential Traveller (as listed on the Tasmanian Arrivals Form) need to comply with the Quarantine conditions for essential travellers. Further information for FIFO workers
