There's a reason Penn State consistently ranks among the top one percent of the world's universities. Across 24 campuses, our 100,000 students and 40,000 faculty and staff know the real measure of success goes beyond the classroom – it's the positive impact made on communities across the world.

Their ideals stem from their origins as Pennsylvania's sole land-grant institution, which allow them to continue to bring positive impact to humanity through our teaching, research, and engagement mission. And across the world is a community of Penn Staters – more than half a million strong – driven by that same spirit to serve local and global communities.

At Penn State, passion is met with collaboration in an environment that is rooted in shared pride for the accomplishments of fellow students, faculty, staff, and alumni. Penn Staters cheer each other on to build a culture committed to service and engagement. The University values represent core ethical aspirations for all daily activities and actions as students, faculty, staff, and volunteers at Penn State. Values are as follows: Integrity, Respect, Responsibility, Discovery, Excellence, and Community.

The Pennsylvania State University is committed to and accountable for advancing diversity, equity, and inclusion in all its forms. ABOUT PENN STATE

As Pennsylvania's only land-grant university, Penn State has a broad mission of teaching, research, and public service. The University was chartered by the Commonwealth in 1855 as one of the nation's first colleges of agricultural science, with a goal to apply scientific principles to farming.

Penn State began offering systematic advanced-degree programs in 1922 with the formation of the Graduate School. Graduate education and research evolved hand in hand. By 1950, the University had won international distinction for investigations in dairy science, building insulation, diesel engines, and acoustics, and other specialized fields.

The College of Medicine, with a teaching hospital, was established in 1967 with a $50 million gift from the charitable trusts of renowned chocolate magnate Milton S. Hershey. In 1989, the Pennsylvania College of Technology in Williamsport became an affiliate of the University. Penn State has two distinct law schools, known as Dickinson Law (in Carlisle, Pennsylvania) and Penn State Law (on the University Park campus). Penn State's online World Campus graduated its first students in 2000 and now enrolls more than 12,000.

Today, Penn State has twenty-four campuses, 17,000 faculty and staff, 100,000 students, a teaching hospital that has more than 1 million patient visits a year, more than 500,000 active alumni, an online World Campus that empowers anyone to pursue an education—anytime, anywhere, and the largest student-run philanthropic organization on the planet.

SCRANTON, PENNSYLVANIA

Penn State Scranton is one of more than 20 Penn State campuses state-wide. It is a student-centered campus of approximately 1,000 students. The campus offers 13 baccalaureate degrees and 4 associate degrees as well as the coursework for the first two years of more than 160 Penn State baccalaureate majors. Students and faculty at Penn State Scranton have the resources of a major research university at their disposal, but in a small college atmosphere.

Class sizes are small, and the student/faculty ratio is low which provides students with individualized attention. Our faculty members are committed to providing a high-quality educational experience to their students and are actively engaged in research. Steeped in tradition and enriched through advancement, Penn State Scranton provides an excellent education in an active-learning environment where a variety of engaged scholarship opportunities are available. Our students receive a world-class education delivered in a small campus setting where they have opportunities to participate in undergraduate research projects supervised by faculty members.
