

Excite @ Home – New York, NY

This broadband leader selected BGA to design the renovation of two pre-built connecting floors for its New York Sales Office in the HSBC tower. Project features include:

- The reuse of the perimeter offices and the creation of open plan space at the center of the floor
- The addition of glass openings in the drywall partitions, along north-south and east-west axes sight lines, to facilitate views from any location in the space
- The design of a custom, indirect lighting and ceiling system to foster the sense of a sculptural, and loft-like feel to the space
- The use of color, texture and form in a bold manner to create a young, energized working environment for this early internet pioneer
- Improvements to the existing connecting stair, including new colors and finishes to complement the new buildout

