1. SHARING

Some people think I don't like sharing, but that isn't true at all. I love sharing. I mean, what's not to love about being able to go up to someone and say, "Hey, can I have some of that candy?" And then you get to ride their bike! Sharing is awesome. Sometimes you have to be careful, though. Like if someone comes up to me and says, "Can I have one of your cookies?" Well, if I give them a cookie, then I might not have any cookies left to share with other people and that would be, like, the opposite of sharing. So I have to say no. Because sharing is really important.

2. WAITING

(Your character is staring at the clock, waiting for the end of the school year.)

The last five minutes before the end of the school year has to be the longest five minutes in the world. Seriously. Entire planets have been formed and exploded in less time. And it doesn't help that this clock is definitely broken. Look at how slow the second hand is moving. Tick.....Tock.....Tick. Why doesn't somebody fix that thing? Come On! It's not like the janitor has anything better to do. Good grief--I think I just saw the second hand move backwards. Hold on. Was that.....? Yes! The minute hand just moved up one minute!

(Stare at the clock for an extended moment.)

Sheesh. The last four minutes before the end of the school year has to be the longest four minutes in the world.

3. PIANO LESSONS

Last month, I started taking piano lessons with Mrs. Uletsky up the street and already I can tell I'm above average. Like way above average. If I just play a song maybe two or three times, it sounds PERFECT. I mean, not to everybody--and definitely not to Mrs. Uletsky. But without hardly practicing at all, I can make almost any song that only takes one hand sound amazing. Seriously, almost every note is almost exactly right. And the notes that aren't almost exactly right, I can just totally ignore. It's like they never happened. Mrs. Uletsky says that if I don't start applying myself, I'll never get anywhere, but not everyone recognizes talent when they see it.

4. NORA

I always tell people I have two sisters--Nice Nora and Nasty Nora. Nice Nora is the best sister in the world. Nasty Nora...isn't. And it's tricky, because I never know which one is going to show up. Plus, they look exactly the same, so I don't even know which one I'm talking to until she opens her mouth. Even worse, all I want to do is be nasty back to a Nasty Nora, but if I do, then she won't go away and I don't get to hang out with Nice Nora. It's a problem. Sometimes I wish I was an only child.
