Day 1:

Day Itinerary

Day one (L)

Gather at the Fort Lauderdale International Airport 2 hours prior to your scheduled departure time for your short flight to Havana. Arrive at Jose Marti Airport and meet your guide.

Venture to the FOCSA building, known as the “Windows of the World in Havana”. Learn the history of the architecture. It’s a perfect first stop to get an aerial view of Havana’s Vedado section and the Old City in relation to the Atlantic.

View the magnificent classical mansions of the Paseo and the Avenue of the Presidents and learn how this neighborhood was designed in the 1920s to accommodate both the wealthy and middle class.

Stop at the Hotel National. Tour this incredible icon loaded with design and American History.

Check into your boutique hotel and prepare for dinner and a night filled with music and dancing on Opisbo Street with surprise entertainment.

Expert Tips

- Please wear good, comfortable walking shoes. The historical streets are old and can be uneven and have potholes.
- Please, do not wear open-toed shoes or flip flops!!!
- Please apply plenty of sunscreen as the tropical sun is strong.

Activities

Havana

As the capital of Cuba, Havana is a remarkably vast, sprawling metropolis. The city's compelling history is reflected in the astonishing diversity of its architecture, its multicultural inhabitants, and its exotic and eclectic cuisine. The Old Town remains a remarkably well-preserved colonial centre. It is characterised by an exquisite hotchpotch of architectural styles, of opulence and decay, socialism and capitalism, the past and the present. Imperial mansions have been converted into modern tenement buildings, government agencies find homes in eighteenth-century convents and the nostalgic classic American cars for which the city is known share Havana's lively streets with the latest models of BMW and Mercedes. While the UNESCO-funded restoration programme has introduced a modicum of modernity into the city, Havana has managed to retain its wonderfully quirky cultural heritage, its unique character, and its undeniable charm.

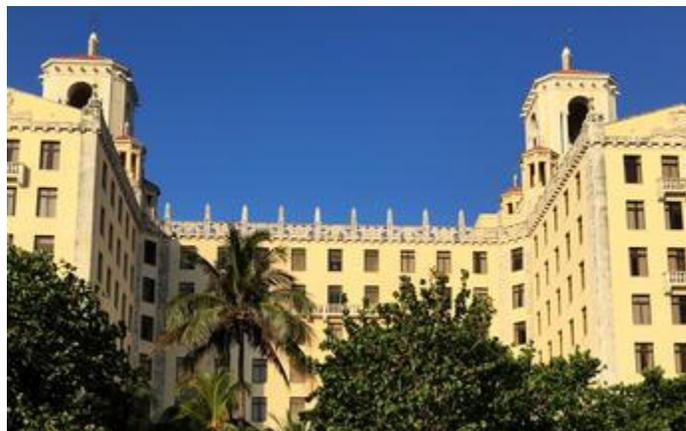

FOCSA Building

The FOCSA Building is placed in Havana, Cuba. Standing 121 metres tall, this building was built from 1954 to 1956 where today, it is used as a residential building.

Hotel Nacional de Cuba

The Hotel Nacional de Cuba is considered a symbol of history, culture, and Cuban identity. The guns that made up the old Santa Clara Battery are on exhibition at the garden, they were declared part of the World Heritage Site. The Hotel Nacional de Cuba was declared a National Monument and it was inscribed in the World Memory Register. With its privileged location in the middle of Vedado, the center of Havana, it stands on a hill just a few meters from the sea, and offers a great view of the Havana Harbor, the seawall and the city. The Hotel stands out due to its refined elegance and its ancient splendor, which since 1930 has attracted a large number of personalities from the arts, science and politics, such as British Prime Minister Winston Churchill, artists Frank Sinatra, Ava Gardner, Johnny Weismuller, Maria Félix, Jorge Negrete, and scientist Alexander Flemming.

Day 2:

Day Itinerary

After Breakfast, enter the UNESCO Heritage City of Old Havana. There will be an extensive walking tour through cobblestone streets to view the magnificent architecture and many courtyard gardens.

Lunch at one of the favorite paladars on the square. Then get a glimpse of Central Havana with a surprise. Visit to the recently renovated and reopened Capitol Building before returning to the hotel for some free time.

Gather for dinner at a special hideaway.

Optional night at Tropicana. Our guide will arrange for tickets and transportation.

Activities

Old Havana

Old Havana is the central area of the original city of Havana. The city walls of the original city are the modern boundaries of Old Havana. Founded in 1519 by the Spanish, Havana features superb architectural structures, with many treasures from the city's long and colorful history. The old center of the sprawling metropolis retains a fascinating mix of historic buildings, museums, galleries, churches and lively plazas.

Plaza Vieja (Old Square)

Originally named Plaza Nueva, Plaza Vieja was created in 1559. The square was originally use for military exercises and later as an open air market. Today Plaza Nueva features bars restaurants, a microbrewery, a beautiful fountain and more.

El Capitolio

El Capitolio or the National Capitol Building is located in Havana, Cuba. Formerly the seat of the Cuban Congress, the building has housed the Cuban Academy of Sciences since 1959. Completed in 1929, El Capitolio was constructed using white Capellanía limestone and granite. It modeled after the American Capitol building in Washington DC. One of the tallest buildings in Havana until the 1950's, the building houses the world's third largest indoor statue. The distance between Havana and other cities in the country, is estimated from the point of the El Capitolio building.

Tropicana Club (OPTIONAL ACTIVITY AT AN ADDITIONAL COST)

Since the early years in the last century, at the entrance to the Marianao municipality in the province of Havana, next to the Zanja-Marianao railroad, was Villa Mina, the beautiful suburban property once owned by Regino Truffin, surrounded by a luxuriant tropical forest and now a fairy-tale dream for a nightclub that became a legend in the history of world musical and variety shows, the mythic Tropicana Nightclub. Tropicana Nightclub boasts the most spectacular cabarets to the open sky. It is a unique place to enjoy the music, Cuban folklore and the Caribbean in all its colourfulness, musicality and rhythm.

Day 3:

Day Itinerary

After a late breakfast, Adventure to Regla, a small suburb of Havana.

Visit the Presidential Palace for a historical perspective on the pre and post the Revolution.

Then take in the National Belle Arts Museum.

Stop for lunch in town and then visit some recognized artist studios, before visiting the San Jose Arts and Crafts market. The market is home to hundreds of artisans who show off their art, crafts, jewelry in a building right on the Havana Bay.

Some time to freshen up before dinner.

(B, L)

Activities

Museum of the Revolution

The Museum of the Revolution is housed in what was once the Presidential Palace, the headquarters of the Cuban government for 40 years. Finished in 1920, the building's design combines Spanish, French and German architectural elements. It became the Museum of the Revolution during the years following the Cuban revolution.

Museum exhibits cover the rise of Cuba, its history, archaeology, weapons, paintings and sculptures. Housed in a special pavilion, is the museum's Granma Memorial, displays the ship used by Fidel Castro and more than eighty soldiers of the revolution to return to Cuba from exile in Mexico.

The National Museum of Fine Arts of Havana

The National Museum of Fine Arts of Havana is located at Calle Trocadero in Havana, Cuba. Completed in 1953, the museum opened in 1954 with an amazing architectural structure that was designed by the architect Rodriguez Pichardo. The building provides a permanent seat to the National Museum, and exhibits Cuban art collections from the beginning of Cuban history up to contemporary generations. Included are works from France, Spain, Italy, Holland, Britain, Asia, the United States, Flanders, Latin America and Germany. There is also an ancient art collection that features Greek, Roman and Egyptian sculptures and artifacts.

Day 4:

Day Itinerary

After breakfast, the first stop will be to the historic Hemingway Estate.

Stop in town for lunch.

Then visit the famous El Morro Fort with spectacular views of the harbor.

There will be some free time before getting ready for a surprise, farewell dinner and fabulous evening at Fabrica de Arte Cubano, Havana's new hot spot of multi-media arts and music.

(B, L)

Activities

Finca Vigia

Finca Vigía was the home of Ernest Hemingway in San Francisco de la Paula, in Cuba. Built in 1886, the house was acquired by Hemingway in 1939 and was where he lived until 1960. A tower was built next to the main house in 1950, overlooking the expansive landscape, and was where the author would retire to write. Finca Vigia now houses the Ernest Hemingway Museum, where the author's personal effects, books, clothes, desk, American furniture, typewriter and hunting trophies can be seen.

Morro Castle

Designed by Juan Bautista Antonelli, Morro Castle was built in the late 16th century. Perched on a natural rocky elevation at the port entrance, it was built to protect the mouth of Havana Harbor. Captured by the British in 1762, the castle was damaged and underwent restoration work after it was returned to the Spanish under treaty terms. The castle features a lighthouse, an exhibition on the lighthouses of Cuba, an archaeology exhibition, a moat, barracks, cannons, dungeons, church and the office of the harbormaster.

Fábrica de Arte Cubano

Set within the beautiful area of Havana, Fábrica de Arte Cubano is a great interdisciplinary creation laboratory that exposes the best of contemporary art in Cuba, with a strong social and community approach. From an old oil factory, the building transformed into a space that is open to exchange between the various artistic manifestations.

Day 5:

Day Itinerary

After breakfast and check out take a trip to the famous Fuster Mosaic City. Fuster is known as the “Picasso” of Cuba. Learn how he kept his neighborhood full of hope and energy during the Special Period.

After lunch, head to the airport. Say Farewell to “our amigos” in Cuba until next time!

(B, L)

Activities

Fusterlandia

Located just twenty minutes outside of the city centre of Havana lies Fusterlandia - a hidden wonderland of mosaic tile and recycled art created by the famed Jose Fuster. The Cuban artist reclaimed his impoverished neighbourhood as a dreamy folk art kingdom, encompassing bus stops, fountains, benches and gateways in vibrant colours and childlike shapes.

End of Itinerary

Travel Information

Cuba’s turbulent past and defiant political stance have imbued it with an undeniable mystique - but beyond its historical intrigue, there’s plenty more to discover and enjoy about this unique travel destination. The island is like one of its ubiquitous vintage cars - shabby but chic, erratic and unpredictable, and ultimately loveable. Fine cigars, salsa dancing, Afro-Latin beats - all these things and many more contribute to Cuba’s one-of-a-kind flavour. Highlights include the glittering capital city, Havana, where you can dance the night away in salsa clubs, or marvel at the crumbling beauty of colonial buildings on a stroll through town; the laid-back little town of Vinales, surrounded by tropical landscapes studded with bulbous limestone karsts; the terracotta buildings of historical Trinidad; and picture-perfect beaches at Varadero, and on the islets of Cayo Guillermo and Cayo Largo del Sur.

Entry Requirements

Visa: A Cuban Visa is required and only for specific dates of the Tour, which will be provided as part of your package.

Passport: A valid passport valid for 6 months after the end of the trip date is required. If you need to renew your passport in short order, it can be done through <http://www.rushmypassport.com/?gclid=CPq-sp6Z5LYCFYyi4AodZBgAvQ> (877) 503-9838. Information regarding getting passports and passport renewal expedited is also available at travel.state.gov on the Internet. The process takes 2-4 weeks. Before leaving the U.S., make a copy of your passport's data page and put it in your checked luggage. Leave your passport in the hotel room safe deposit box and carry the photocopy.

Banking and Currency

Currency:

- As of January 1, 2020, Cuba is only accepting dollars. Although most services are included in the program, there is some independent time to pursue individual activities.
- We recommend bringing small denomination of US dollars for incidentals and souvenirs. and gratuities
- CREDIT CARDS AND TRAVELER'S CHECKS DRAWN ON US BANKS ARE NOT ACCEPTED.

How much money should I bring with me?

How much money you choose to bring is an individual matter. Items made by the people are permissible to purchase and bring back under this license which includes, art, sculpture, jewelry, crafts, woven products, linens, books, CD's, etc. that are all made in Cuba. These will be an additional expense and you will want to purchase these items!

Please consider your purchasing habits and plan accordingly. The artwork ranges from $10 - $2,000 and more. Many good pieces of art are in the $200- $300 range. We cover the tips for baggage handling, meals that are provided, and local musicians at meals. We do not cover your guide, driver, or chambermaid gratuities, bar gratuities, meals and entertainment you purchase.

We recommend you bring a minimum of $100.00 US per person per day. it is better to have more than less when there is no means to get more cash.

FYI - Cubans working in the tourism sector have the advantage of earning hard currency and often are economically better off than doctors, State scientists, engineers, and educators. It is not unusual for a bartender to be trained as one of these professionals.

Cubans expect a tip for services as this is often more valuable than their State salaries.

Gratuities are always your personal expression of appreciation for good service.

A tipping and cost guide is noted below:

- Chambermaid tip $1 per day
- Tips for bartenders - wait staff 10%
- Public Restrooms (always staffed) .50
- Cost of Drinks $3-7 average per drink
- Lunch on your own $10 - 15
- Dinner on your own $25 – 40.00
- Taxis $7.00
- Tropicana Show $85-95.00
- Other Shows $10 – 30.00
- Guide tip $10 per person/per day
- Driver tip $5 per person/per day
-  When available, other shows include baseball game, ballet, Buena Vista Social Club, and other famous entertainers.

Banking

Banking hours: Mon-Fri 08h30-12h00 and 13h30-16h00, Sat 08h30-12h00. Hours may vary and banks may be open all day in larger cities.

MasterCard and Visa credit cards are increasingly accepted, provided they are not issued by a US bank, or a bank with links to the USA, but hefty fees are often added. ATMs are fairly common but not ubiquitous. However, cash can be obtained in banks and Cadecas with non-US Visa credit and Visa debit cards.

Travellers cheques in US Dollar, Pounds Sterling and other major currencies are accepted; US Dollar cheques issued by US banks are not accepted but American Express travellers cheques issued by non-US banks can be exchanged, though not everywhere. It is recommended to take cheques in a currency other than US Dollars.

Travel, Transport and Getting Around

Perhaps one of the most important parts of planning a trip to Cuba involves figuring out exactly how you'll get around once you're there. TREE provides all transportation to and from scheduled itinerary activities. We cannot be responsible if you are late for our scheduled meeting time.

Taxis We suggest using taxis to get around if you have to travel independently There are certainly plenty available for hire, but should you choose this particular mode of transportation, take into account the following so that you do so safely. First and foremost, avoid taking rides with unlicensed taxis. They are often driven by thieves who are out to pick up and rob passengers. Be particularly careful of fare amount when hiring a taxi, especially in Havana. If possible, ask someone who is native or at least familiar with the system how much the fare should be prior to heading to your destination. This way you will know beforehand how much the driver should be charging you and can avoid be scammed out of an exorbitant fee by a dishonest driver. If you can't confer with a local, insist that the meter be used to remove any doubt.

One of the more unique types of transportation in Cuba is the "Co-Co" taxi, a three-wheeled vehicle that is generally yellow in color and contains a flimsy hood. These are basically just glorified motorcycles that have been modified to carry passengers. Because they can reach speeds of up to 40 mph and lack any sort of safety features, including seatbelts, "Co-Co" taxis can be pretty dangerous. They are, nevertheless quite popular with tourists so if you choose to ride on one, be aware of the risk.

Health and Medical Information

Health, Inoculations, Medications, and Treatments:

As of this writing, no inoculations are required for entry into Cuba. To obtain a current listing of any further information, call the Center for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) free at 1-888-232-3299. The CDC reports no risk of malaria in Cuba. We advise you to pack a kit with an ample supply of your medications and basic first aid items, insect repellent, sunscreen, etc. Replacing medications may be very difficult on the island as many items are in short supply or non-existent. These items along with travel shampoo and soaps can be donated to a needy organization when we leave Havana. In general, be aware of the general discomforts of travel – change in diet, sunburn, dehydration, etc.

Medical insurance is included for treatments while in the country. However, we are not responsible for any prior medical problems and/or conditions and nor can we be responsible for any treatment there. The requests for information regarding personal medications taken and pre-existing conditions is for the Cuban medical staff in the event of an emergency. We keep all records confidential.

The island is very unique and full of history, but not ADA compliant. Broken pavement, ground holes, old stairwells, and other potential walking hazards exist. Wear comfortable shoes and be aware of your surroundings. Participants are responsible for being insufficient good health to undertake the trip. Travelers are expected to be able to climb 2 flights of stairs, walk a ¼ mile, and stand for 15-20 minutes at a time.

Visitors are sometimes susceptible to “traveler’s diarrhea” caused by unfamiliar bacteria. Be sure to bring along medication for this, just in case. We strongly recommend you drink only bottled water. Packaged drinks are fine. Ice at most reputable places is filtered water. If there is any doubt as to your physical fitness to travel, a consultation should be sought with your doctor. While Cubans go out of their way to assist travelers, there are few allowances for handicapped access. In case you need medical treatment, hospitals and clinics are conveniently located. At the larger hotels, medical staff is available on site.

Safety Notices

Security:

Cuba has less street crime than any world capital, but there is always one in the bunch! So, take your usual precautions. Undercover state police can be found anywhere there are foreigners. They are instructed to leave visitors in peace but will question any Cuban who seems to be in close contact with a visitor. It is best to avoid “jineteros” or street hustlers offering cheap cigars or anything else to sell you on the street. Many hotels have safety deposit boxes at the front desk or in the rooms for your valuables and documents. Be very careful with your passport, money, and camera, as you would in any foreign country.

Food, Drink and Cuisine Advice

Tap water is not safe to drink. Bottled water is ubiquitous, but boiling water is recommended to limit plastic waste. Milk is pasteurized and dairy products (with the exception of some cheap ice creams) are safe for consumption. Local meat, poultry, seafood and fruit are generally considered safe to eat.

Surprisingly for an island so rich in marine life, fish and seafood rarely top the menu - most seafood is exported. The cuisine is a mix of Spanish and Afro-Caribbean, heavily reliant on rice, beans, chicken and pork. Depending on the season, fresh vegetables may be hard to come by - as a rule, the hotter the month, the more limited the selection. Furthermore, flavors are limited by the lack of available herbs and spices and many visitors are surprised that Cubans shun spicy food of all kinds. Food preparation relies heavily on the frying pan and deep fat fryer. Some of the best cooking, and often an illegal lobster or two, is found in paladares (small, private restaurants). In state-run establishments, service can be painfully slow and sometimes even surly.

A 10% tip on restaurant bills is common.

Climate and Weather

Climate and Clothing: The climate is generally warm and tropical. The rainy season lasts from May to November and the dry season from December to April. Midwinter can sometimes be cool in Havana resulting from cold fronts. Cuba lies within the hurricane belt, but the season is strongest between August and October. It is advisable to pack lightly and simply. Cuba has a very casual atmosphere. We require that you bring a pair of closed-toed, non-skid shoes. We suggest packing a light rain jacket, comfortable clothing, and sun hat. Remember to pack memory sticks and batteries for cameras. There will be soaps, shampoos, and hairdryers provided in most hotels. Cubans are informal in general. It is customary for men to wear long pants (jeans and chinos - ok) in the evening, and three quarter length slacks for the women are fine. Women should pack one casual dress/skirt and gentlemen bring one pair of long pants for the night. Jackets and ties are not necessary. Jeans are fine. In order to minimize risk, it is recommended that visitors avoid conspicuous displays of wealth and that they dress and behave conservatively. Don't bring any valuable jewelry. While it is safe, it is not appropriate to display wealth. Do not leave your belongings unattended. Weather forecasts are available on weather.com.

Clothing and Dress Recommendations

Cuba is a sub-tropical country so pack for summer. shorts, short-sleeved cotton dresses and shirts are the order of the day. But, bear in mind that Cuban men would never wear shorts in the City! A night out at Tropicana or La Guarida restaurant needs something smart if not overly formal.

If you are coming in the winter don't assume that it will be hot all the time, especially in the evenings. Bring some warm clothing (long sleeves, a sweater or fleece), since there is nothing more frustrating than being frozen to death in a tropical country! Lightweight rain gear is suggested.

Electricity and Plug Standards

Electric Current: The electric current in Cuba is 110 volts AC: 60Hz. Some of the newer hotels are 220 volts and would require a voltage adaptor and round prong Caribbean converter or plug. Plan to bring a transformer that converts 110 to 220 if you have special needs.

General Guidance

US Customs: You may bring back anything made by the people, which includes art, sculpture, jewelry, crafts, woven goods, linens, crochet, books, and CD's. Licensed travelers are now allowed to bring back up to $100.00 cigars/rum and a total of $300.00 of products made by the government (coffee, chocolates and perfumes). This was changed in January 2015.

For specific information on Cuba sanctions, visit the website: www.treas.gov./ofac.

Packing NOT ALLOWED: Leisure drugs, walkie talkies, drones, GPS or satellite telephones. Possible prison sentences! Please do not pack the following items in your checked luggage: money, sunglasses, electronics, cameras, cigarettes, cigars, expensive sneakers, CD's, expensive jewelry, and watches. You can bring a backpack/large bag on board the plane. We recommend leaving the fashion show home! TSA locks are highly recommended.

Photography/Cameras: Cuba is a haven for photographers. Do not expect to be able to purchase batteries, memory cards, or film in Cuba - Come prepared! Have your photographic equipment in good working order, extra batteries along with the charger, and have extra photo cards. Some museums require an additional fee for taking pictures that you will be required to pay upon entry if you wish to take pictures. It is forbidden in Cuba to photograph military or police installations, personnel, ports, rail, or airport facilities. When photographing local residents, be courteous and ask permission. Never leave your camera equipment unattended.
