Pre-evaluation of 2007 Synodical Convention

The 2007 Convention of The Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod (LCMS) will be held July 14-19, 2007 at the George R. Brown Convention Center in Houston, Texas. The Synodical Convention is made up of one layman and one pastor elected from each circuit of 7 to 20 congregations. The Convention meets every three years. The Synod meeting in convention determines the official public profession of the LCMS. In between conventions, those who are the elected officials run the Missouri Synod.

Decisions and actions by elected officials and elected and appointed commissions following the 2001 Convention were contrary to the Scriptures and the Confessions. Our congregation spoke up against these decisions and actions, but needed to wait until 2004 to see how the Synod would respond. The 2004 LCMS Convention did not discipline or correct those errors; instead the LCMS changed her historic public profession to include these new false teachings. Following the 2004 Convention on January 9, 2005, Trinity Lutheran Church entered a State of Confession in order to bear witness to these errors and not commune with error. Since that time we have been following the Synodically-mandated three-step Dissent Process in order to correct these false teachings. The Synod's response to our dissent will be seen in the actions of the July 2007 Convention in Houston. If the Synod returns to her former Scriptural and Confessional position, we will drop our State of Confession. If the Synod does not, then we will vote to sever our association with the heterodox LCMS.

As I mentioned in the April 2007 newsletter, there have been some indications as to the expected future outcome of the Synod in July. The Commission on Theology and Church Relations (CTCR) has issued a report entitled, "CTCR Response to Expressions of Dissent (2004-2006)," as well as reports on "In Status Confessionis," "Public Rebuke of Public Sin," and "The Service of Women in Congregational and Synodical Offices." In looking at the public reports and response of officials in the LCMS, I made it clear that we ought to be prepared to leave the LCMS, because I had seen no indication that there would be a positive response to even one of our six points. With this newsletter article, I offer my final report before I go to Houston in order to witness the proceedings. On Sunday, July 22, I will report to you the outcome of the 2007 LCMS Convention.

Before I can give you my pre-evaluation, we will need a short lesson in our LCMS church governance. Congregations and certain boards within the Synod are allowed to submit overtures to the Synodical Convention. We passed a series of ten overtures on January 31, 2007. The Synod as a whole submitted 271 overtures. These overtures along with Synodical reports are printed in a book called the "Convention Workbook" and sent out to

(Continued from page 1) every congregation. The Synodical President appoints members to ten floor committees. These floor committees examine the overtures. Through combining, rewriting and declining, the floor committees present somewhere around 90 resolutions to the convention floor for action. Due to time constraints, not all of those 90 make it to a vote, but of those that do, usually over 90% of those proposed resolutions pass. Those proposed resolutions are printed in the first edition of Today's Business and mailed out to every congregation. By looking at the submitted overtures in the Convention Workbook and then examining the proposed resolutions of the floor Committees, we can get a pretty good idea of the agenda for the upcoming Convention.

Our congregation's dissent lists six points in which the LCMS is teaching and/or tolerating falsehood. The first point is that although the synod's official position on paper is closed communion, "widespread open communion practices are not disciplined." We submitted an overture asking that the District Presidents visit each congregation in their District to assess whether closed communion is being practiced. Our District submitted a similar overture(3-46), which also asked that "extraordinary situations and circumstances" be discussed and defined.

Floor Committee #3 declined to consider(See Res 3-13, line 13-14) our overture(also sent in by the Southern Illinois District(SID) and Greater Egypt Circuit Forum) because they said that the duty of District Presidents to visit congregations was already included in the bylaws. Our response: If District Presidents were doing their job, then we wouldn't have the practice of open communion practiced by many congregations. By passing Res. 3-13 (dismissing our concern), widespread open communion practices will not be addressed.

A related resolution(3-09), "To Address Administration of the Lord's Supper" commends a 1999 CTCR document for study and asks the CTCR to prepare practical guidelines for responsible pastoral care in administering Lord's Supper. There were 12 overtures which address the topic of the proper administration of the Lord's Supper. This resolution asks only for more study, but does not address our concern for practicing the correct doctrine. We do not need more study, we need to practice the doctrine we have.

The second point of our dissent is that "the widespread use of revivalistic is not disciplined." We submitted an overture asking the Synod to rescind 2004 Resolution 2-04, which directed the Commission on Worship to "initiate a process leading toward the development of diverse worship materials." This overture was rejected by the Synodical President and was not printed in the workbook at all. The Synodical President claims, "This overture contains information that is materially in error and is an apparent misrepresentation of truth and character." Though the Synod didn't see it, the overture was given to the floor committee, along with the President's comments. Included in the workbook were 5 overtures supporting and encouraging contemporary worship and 3 overtures asking for study of "our theology of worship." The SID Board of Directors resubmitted their overture(which was also rejected by the President) with changes and it was printed as a late overture(L2-26).

Floor Committee #2 has proposed two overtures. Resolution 2-01 asks that the Commission of Worship(COW) and the CTCR organize a theological conference on worship and asks that Bible studies be prepared for use. Resolution 2-02 asks the COW to develop "diverse worship resources," provide conferences to educate and build on the diverse worship that already exists, and develop a contemporary composers. In other words, the very opposite of what we desired is proposed.

The third point of our dissent is that the "renunciation of unionism and syncretism of every description," is no longer practiced or disciplined. We submitted overture 3-17 asking the Synod to rescind 2004 Res. 3-06A and 2001 Res. 3-07A, because they did not unambiguously renounce syncretism and unionism. We also asked for guidelines to be produced that would rule out any repetition of LCMS participation in syncretism and unionism in the future. 2001 Res. 3-07A was used to give approval for LCMS participation in government-sponsored events. 2004 Res. 3-06A denied the possibility of unionism and syncretism for serial prayers in which clergy take turns. Our district submitted a similar overture(3-20), which asked the synod to recognize that 2004 Res. 3-06A and 2001 Res. 3-07A was ambiguous and asked the Council of District Presidents with others to produce new guidelines.

Floor Committee #3 has proposed two overtures. Resolution 3-04 resolves "that there is no salvation apart from Jesus and that it is impossible to worship the one true God properly apart from saving faith in Jesus Christ" and it resolves that the CTCR study "the natural knowledge of God" and its implications for our public

Pre-Evaluation

(Continued from page 2) witness. One of District President Benke's justification for his participation at Yankee Stadium was based on the natural knowledge of God, that Muslims also worship God, but improperly. Resolution 3-05 resolves that the CTCR provide "further guidance for participation in civic events that includes the offering of serial prayer." Although the first part of Res. 3-04 sounds promising, the adjective "properly" allows a loophole which Benke's opinion concerning "the natural knowledge of God" will use as an excuse for more syncretism and unionism. We declared that serial prayer is wrong, if passed, Res. 3-5 is going to provide guidelines in which serial prayer is allowed.

The fourth point of our dissent is that "the unscriptural office of 'lay minister'(lay deacon) is not being removed, but recognized, affirmed, and encouraged." We submitted an overture asking that 1989 Res 3-05B, which established licensed lay deacons, and 2004 Res. 5-09, which affirmed District programs that equip laity for ministry, be rescinded. The Southern Illinois District submitted a similar overture(3-55) to rescind 1989 Res. 3-05B and direct all district programs following 2004 Res. 5-09 keep a clear distinction between the service of laity and pastors. Floor Committee #5 has proposed two resolutions. Resolution 5-02 (and the almost identical resolution from committee #3 Res. 3-12) asks the Board for Pastoral Care and the Council of District Presidents to study the current situations served by lay deacons to determine if there is still a need for lay deacons and report in 2010. Simply put, the unscriptural office established in 1989 is being studied for another three years—not to determine if it is Scriptural or not, simply whether we still need it.

Resolution 5-01 establishes the Specific Ministry Pastoral Program(SMPP), a new alternate route program to bring men into Word and Sacrament ministry. Applicants would be given a minimal level of preparation, and then would be ordained. After ordination, they would take the remainder of their SMPP curriculum. These men would be restricted to a specific "ministry" under the supervision of a general ministry pastor and the District President. There are many practical problem with this proposal, including whether the SMPP Pastor is "apt to teach" after only 5 required seminary-level theological courses before ordination and 5 seminary-level theological courses after ordination. Nevertheless, this program does include a call and ordination, unlike the present lay ministers.

that the present proposal (Res 5-01) does not do away with the present lay ministers or the District programs that are producing them. Concordia Seminary St. Louis submitted a similar overture(5-03) to Resolution 5-01, but their proposal included a resolve to do away with the lay ministers created under 1989 Res. 3-05B. It is too bad that Committee #5 didn't choose this proposal. As it is, the present proposals do nothing to address the unscriptural office of lay minister.

The fifth point of our dissent is that "the 'order of creation' (that a woman is not "to have authority over a man," 1 Timothy 2:12), has been removed in order to allow a woman to serve as elder and congregational chairman." We submitted an overture to reject the unapproved 1994 CTCR report, "The Service of Women in Congregational and Synodical Offices," to rescind 2004 Res. 3-08A, which affirmed the conclusions of the same unapproved 1994 CTCR report, and to direct the LCMS to apply the Scriptural teaching on the Order Creation to both the pastoral office and all humanly established offices. The SID sent a similar overture(3-76), which also asked that the CTCR complete the 1995 (Res. 3-10) convention directive to prepare a complete study of the scriptural relationship of man and woman.

Committee #3 proposed Resolution 3-07, which commends the Synod to study Section 3 of the "CTCR Response to Expressions of Dissent (2004-2006)" and asks the Synod to wait until 2008 when the CTCR will issue its comprehensive report. Section 3 of the first report states, "the Synod has concluded in 2004 Res. 3-08A that women may hold all humanly instituted offices in the church because we have no 'thus says the Lord' about the order of creation for service in these offices." If passed, this proposed resolution would confirm that the Synod no longer applies the order of creation to humanly established offices.

The sixth point of our dissent is that "Ecclesiastical Supervision and Dispute Resolution now allows human councils to overrule the Word of God." We submitted several overtures to address some of the problems.

--We submitted overture 8-26 asking the Synod to rescind 2004 Res. 8-01A, which changed the Ecclesiastical Supervision and Dispute Resolution Process. The SID submitted overture 8-20 to modify 2004 Res. 8-01A to require an appeals process for the accused and remove the requirement for a face-to-face meeting. In response, Committee #7 proposed Resolution 7-09, which "reaffirms the use of Synod's system of dispute resolution for the exclusive and final remedy for those in disputes” and condemns “the use of secular remedies, such as lawsuits.” It should be noted that Committee #8 has proposed that there be a special task force to study the composition of hearing panels for the Dispute Resolution Process and report in 2010. We expressed concern about the composition of hearing panels in our overture 8-26. However, committee #8 has also proposed Resolution 8-05 in which it “affirms the importance of face-to-face meetings” and encouraged the study of the CTCR document “Public Rebuke of Public Sin.”

--We submitted an overture to rescind 2004 Res. 7-02A, which amended the synodical articles of incorporation so that the Synodical Board of Directors would not be allowed to overrule the opinions of the Committee on Constitutional Matters(CCM) in between conventions. This overture was rejected by the Synodical President and was not printed in the workbook at all. The Synodical President claims, “This overture contains information that is materially in error and is an apparent misrepresentation of truth and character.” Floor Committee #8 has proposed Resolution 8-01, “To adopt amendments to the Article of Incorporation and Bylaws re Resolution 7-02A” at the recommendation(See LR 8-01) of the 7-02A Committee formed at the request of the 2004 Res. 7-02A, the very resolution we sought to rescind.

--We submitted an overture(8-02) to rescind 2004 Res. 7-21 which sought to amend Article XI F 2 of the Constitution in order to limit the authority of the Board of Directors. Floor Committee #8 declined to consider it(See Res 8-12, lines 25-28). They said it had an incorrect premise.

--We submitted an overture(7-22) to change bylaw 3.1.6.2c so that instead of the President of the Synod determining which overtures should not be printed in the Workbook because they are materially in error or a misrepresentation of the facts, that power would be given to the Secretary of the Synod. The SID submitted a similar overture(7-21), except the authority was to be given to the Praesidium of the Synod. Floor Committee #7 declined to consider both our overture(See Res 7-13, line 29) and the SID overture(See 7-13, line 26) because “2001 Res. 7-04A is still adequate.” The very reason we submitted these overtures is because we didn’t think it was adequate.

The work of the Floor Committees makes it quite clear that our dissent has made little, if no progress toward calling back our Synod to her formerly true teaching and practice.
