THE LAZY GAL'S GUIDE TO COUPONING!

A store promotion specifies “Spend $20, Receive $5”, does the $20 have to be my total after I present my coupons?

This varies by store. Most promotions only require that you reach the minimum spending threshold before presenting any manufacturer coupons. Certain stores or promos require that you maintain the minimum spend value, even after all coupons and discounts have been deducted. Please read the fine print or ask customer service for more information.

How do I "Stack" Coupons?

You may only use one manufacturer coupon per item. A manufacturer coupon and a store coupon may be used together to purchase one item if neither coupon prohibits it. This is called stacking coupons. Please read coupon very carefully. Manufacturer coupons will state "Manufacturer Coupon" across the top of the coupons.

- Newspaper coupons: About 95% of the time these are Manufacturer Coupons. Sometimes, Target or Walgreens will have store coupons in the insert.
- Printable coupons: Mostly all printable coupons are "manufacturer".
- Blinkies Manufacturer Coupons
- Tearpads: Manufacturer Coupons
- Peelies: Manufacturer Coupons
- eCoupons: eCoupons are manufacturer or store coupons. Most stores do not allow stacking an eCoupon with a clipped paper coupon.
