We are Here to Help with Your Questions

A Message from Larry Levin

The Bulldog Lawyers sincerely hope that you and your loved ones are well and staying safe. We and our dedicated staff are, as always, here and available to respond to and address any work-related and/or accidental injury questions or concerns that you may have. These are trying times, to say the least, but we know that together we will defeat this hidden enemy and come out stronger on the other side.

As you well know, the Bulldog Lawyers have been hosting an annual Client Appreciation Day at Knoebels Amusement Resort for many years. There is nothing that we would rather do than to be able to honor Bulldog Lawyer Nation once again later this summer. This would be an even sweeter celebration because it would double as a victory celebration over the diabolical hidden enemy that we are battling. We will keep you posted. In the meantime –

*Take care and take care of each other,
– Larry Levin*

Workers' Compensation and the Hidden Enemy

We are at war. We are fighting an enemy that we can't see, we can't hear and we can't touch. And this enemy is ruthless. This hidden enemy is taking us places to which we have never been and fighting this enemy is requiring us to do things that we have never done. We have never, in our lifetime, had to practice, "social distancing" or "voluntary quarantining" or "self-isolation" or anything resembling these things.

This hidden enemy has waged war upon all of us and has particularly affected the way that we work, how we work, where we work, with whom we work and whether or not we even work at all. It has affected the way we are paid, how much we are paid, by whom we are paid and whether or not we are even paid at all.

Accordingly, workers' compensation has been affected as well. There are a host of new issues and situations regarding the worker and the workplace that have not previously been encountered and in many cases, have never even been addressed or considered by workers' compensation rules and regulations.

Navigating through the workers' compensation process has never been simple, but it has certainly never been more complex than it is now. So many new questions have arisen.

- Can you collect workers' comp if you get sick at work?
- What happens if you must work at home but you slip and fall on your kitchen floor?
- What if you are injured while working for yourself?

Workers' compensation claims involving these issues and others are not cut and dried. Receiving a favorable decision will require now more than ever having experienced, competent and tenacious workers' compensation lawyers; lawyers that have the knowledge and insight to craft convincing and compelling arguments for issues and situations that may not have ever arisen or been addressed before; lawyers that will fight tenaciously and non-stop for you.
