Jose Cardenas Joins Energy Distribution Partners
An Experienced Marketing Specialist Joins the Energy Sector

Chicago, Illinois—A new Marketing Manager joins Energy Distribution Partners' (EDP) elite team. Jose Cardenas is responsible for leading Marketing efforts to achieve consistent and impactful messaging. As a proven leader in promoting business growth, Cardenas states, "There are many options for any given product, promoting the culture that stands behind that product is what is really important. EDP sets a premiere standard for taking good care of their customers and I support that mentality." Jose previously worked for one of the largest mechanical engineering firms in Chicago, bringing them up to date on their marketing efforts and helping build revenue across all business units.

Jose Cardenas

Over the last 10 years, Cardenas has held marketing and design roles with ownership of the strategy and execution of integrated marketing plans that include brand awareness build, lead generation, and sales support. He is knowledgeable in creating branding strategies and is a digital marketing expert.

"Our rapid growth organically and in acquisitions has driven the need to bring on a dedicated marketing resource to build on and expand our marketing presence. We are very pleased to have Jose join the EDP team. Jose will have a meaningful role and his expertise and professionalism will propel our marketing strategies across the company in all areas," said Tom Knauff

About Energy Distribution Partners

Energy Distribution Partners (EDP) is a rapidly growing company with the deep experience in retail and commercial propane sales, operations, and finance. We provide safe, reliable propane service to residential, commercial, industrial, and agricultural customers from New York to California.

We service more than 120,000 customers in 10 states, with a presence in rural America as well as in major metropolitan areas. We have become a significant player in the propane industry, recently recognized as one of the top 10 independent multi-state marketers, selling more than 100 million gallons of propane and light fuels in 2019.

Since our inception in 2012, EDP has helped more than 25 owners of well-run propane businesses transition to their own "next chapter" while benefiting everyone involved.
