

For Immediate Release
Chicago, Illinois
June 14, 2021

CONTACT:
Gena Vasbinder
312.254.5962

Jim Rushing Joins Energy Distribution Partners
A Leader in Sustainability Set to Change the Way Energy Is Perceived

Chicago, Illinois— As the Vice President of Sustainability Strategies for Energy Distribution Partner’s (EDP), Jim Rushing is responsible for Leading the organizations efforts in educating customers and other parties within the industry about the environmental benefits of utilizing our products as their choice for energy. Rushing will also help develop other products that will complement our existing offerings.

Jim Rushing

Jim is originally from Peoria, IL and graduated from Southern Illinois University at Carbondale. He brings over twenty-two years of industry experience with various Leadership positions that involved acquisitions, successful management of large P&L, operations management and support, project management, and effective implementation of safety training, policies, and procedures. Along with his extensive and impactful career, Jim is also a Veteran of the U.S. Marine Corps. Reserve and served in The First Gulf War as a Combat Engineer.

EDP welcomes Jim Rushing and is eager to have him join our efforts in continuing to provide clean, efficient, and reliable energy to our customers, while educating them on the positive impacts of using our products.

About Energy Distribution Partners

Energy Distribution Partners (EDP) is a rapidly growing company with the deep experience in retail and commercial propane sales, operations, and finance. We provide safe, reliable propane service to residential, commercial, industrial, and agricultural customers from New York to California.

We service more than 160,000 customers in 11 states, with a presence in rural America as well as in major metropolitan areas. We have become a significant player in the propane industry, recently recognized as one of the 7th largest independent multi-state marketers, selling more than 120 million gallons of propane and light fuels in 2020.

Since our inception in 2012, EDP has helped more than 25 owners of well-run propane businesses transition to their own “next chapter” while benefiting everyone involved.