Cleveland Metroparks Builds New Play Area in the Tremont Sideyard

Cleveland Metroparks has been hard at working at instilling a new nature play area in the Tremont neighborhood. The new play area is located in the greenspace named as the “sideyard” across Abbey Avenue from Sokolowski’s. This greenspace was constructed as a neighborhood amenity as part of the innerbelt bridge project and is easily accessible not only for Tremont residents, but for visitors to the Ohio & Erie Canal Towpath Trail as well. The new play area includes a large log, tree stumps, a cargo net, and grassy mounds for climbing and free play. The plan for the new play area was designed by Cleveland Metroparks Landscape Architect and the playground was installed and will be maintained in the future by staff from Ohio & Erie Canal Reservation under the direction of the Park Manager.

Cleveland Metroparks would like to thank the Tremont Treks for their support of this project. Education and recreation are two pillars of the Park District’s mission and we hope that this play area will connect more children to the outdoors and be a place of enjoyment for the families and visitors to the Tremont neighborhood for many years.

Great marketing ideas can come from a magnitude of different influences, but at Tenlo, Kip Botirius and his specialized team of marketers create customized pipeline marketing solutions for local businesses. Tenlo, born from its parent company, AMG, just moved from Solon to the old Tremont General Store location at 2418 Professor Avenue and the agency has big ideas for their new home. The purchase of the building was completed this past July. Since 1973, AMG has worked to gain an intimate understanding of their customers in order to align sales and marketing to drive and focus on results. AMG established Tenlo as an incubator of multiple marketing approaches at once. The business model was so successful that Tenlo became its own agency. With their new location in Tremont, Tenlo feels closer to their clients and the community than ever before.

As CEO, Botirius and his team work with Cleveland companies to build digital marketing campaigns that specifically address sales issues. This includes online content, lead generation, and targeted email. Each teammate has a unique and focused skill to bring to the table. This allows each employee to grow expertise in a defined role and gives customers like Nestle and Sherwin Williams the comfort of knowing who they are working with. The goal of each campaign is to align sales and marketing in a strategic focused manner that drives results. According to Botirius, “70% of information about a company is spread through its salespeople - this highlights the importance of integrating sales and marketing,” he said.

Now in Tremont, Tenlo’s new location exemplifies their commitment to Cleveland based companies. Their new building offers a 2nd floor space to host meetings as well as being functionally easier due to customer proximity. Botirius believes closer proximity will allow for more opportunity to gain intimate knowledge of their customers while also enjoying Tremont’s restaurants, amenities, and most importantly cultural diversity. “Cleveland is a diverse community and to be part of it you have to hire and promote diversity,” said Botirius. “Fostering diversity leads to new and exciting ideas,” he continued.

Botirius and Tenlo also have big ideas for the building’s first floor. Much like the incubation process that launched Tenlo from AMG, the ground floor could be the future home for up to 3 new incubator businesses to get their start. That is because Botirius understands the importance of testing and tweaking a business plan before launch.

“We take pride in our ability to create fast, short, and flexible plans that allow for rapid testing. The business incubator will allow for local business owners to do the same,” said Botirius. Tenlo also takes pride in rooting every decision they make in facts and data which could be a very useful learning point for incubator businesses just getting their start. The company also has plans to utilize the yard as a community garden or another shared public space.

As the building’s floor-plan begins to take shape, Botirius looks forward to new challenges and opportunities that face Tenlo. “We don’t have a fear of failure, we have a fear of not knowing,” he said. “Learning is more valuable and we are constantly learning and evolving,” he continued. Tenlo believes Tremont will offer countless opportunities to learn, get better, and grow.
TWO SHOWS ONSTAGE IN SEPTEMBER AT THE LIMINIS THEATER ON SCRANTON RD.
RUNNING THURS-SAT THRU SEPT 21: SHAKESPEARE’S R&J
ONE WEEKEND ONLY, SEPT 26-28: HEIRLOOM

SHAKESPEARE’S R&J
A wild and unrestrained adaptation by Joe Calarco.

In a repressive Catholic boys’ boarding school, four students discover the forbidden text of Shakespeare’s play Romeo and Juliet and secretly enact the play, taking turns reading the play aloud. The words and story are thrilling to the boys, and they become swept away in an athletic deluge of adolescent agitation, terror, and fierce desires that parallel their own lives. Although they had been taking turns playing all the parts, two eventually emerge playing Romeo and Juliet exclusively, bringing a whole new dimension to the proceedings.

Shakespeare’s R&J runs Thurs-Sat at 8 pm through Sept 21 at the Liminis Theater 2438 Scranton Rd. Tremonters are admitted free for R&J Thursday shows on Sept 5, 12 and 19. Call ahead to make reservations.

HEIRLOOM: ONE WEEKEND ONLY. THU-SAT, SEPT 26-28
Heirloom, a world premiere by local playwright Mike Geither, is a non-fiction theatrical solo performance piece exploring four generations of an extended family. Probing into the family’s social and emotional inheritance of alcoholism, violence and incest, Heirloom attempts to shed understanding on how any one person may affect the generation of family members that follows.

Tickets for both shows, available at 216-687-0074 and convergence-continuum.org, are $20 general admission, $15 seniors (65+) and $10 students. Thursday discount tickets are $15 gen. adm., $12 seniors and $8 students.

Convergence-continuum’s production of Shakespeare’s R & J is supported in part by the residents of Cuyahoga County through a public grant from Cuyahoga Arts & Culture.

Gabriel Gonzalez was born in Arecibo, Puerto Rico, and moved to Cleveland, Ohio at age 3 where he grew up in the W. 25th Street and Clark area neighborhood. He attended Cleveland. After graduating, Gabriel exhibited his photography in many galleries throughout Cleveland. In 2002 he became an Artist in Residence at Cleveland School of the Arts and honored as a gifted educator by the SchoolArts Award. Gabriel continued his education at Ohio University where he studied Art and Photography, and was voted president of the Hip-Hop Congress - a nonprofit grassroots organization that helps join the community through the arts. After returning to Cleveland, he continued to educate at the Cleveland School of the Arts and in his community. In 2009 Gabriel received The Representative Marc F. Hodge Distinguished Citizens Award, which recognizes those individuals who have made valuable contributions to the community through their profession. Most recently, Gabriel was commissioned to display a mural at Hilton Hotel Downtown Cleveland, and exhibited at MOCA with Arts Collective. He is currently working on a body of work that explores his Puerto Rican roots, while capturing images of the spirit of his people. Gabriel returned to Puerto Rico in the summer of 2016 to document the devastation of Hurricane Maria a year later, but also to reconnect with his homeland. In this search Gabriel explores how to reconcile preserving a sense of history and pride with his Puerto Rican lineage, and his Puerto Rican identity, through his lens and in his current American surroundings. Gabriel regards this work as crucial to representing Puerto Rico and preserving his cultural identity.

Jill Lackey is a graphic designer (https://jill.dunked.com) and artist at heart with many years’ experience in branding, marketing, and management. In 2014, she decided to leave her corporate life, and focus on freelance design full-time. Since then, she has been working with several clients on a variety of projects ranging from website development to public murals, as well as commissioned drawings and paintings. Before starting “Groove & Marketing,” Jill spent six years as a founding member of a clean-tech startup company called Tremont Electric, which developed and launched the nPower technology. Jill also has 13 years of design and marketing experience with an international, household electronics company where she developed and launched new products, including a disruptive technology that’s used to administer insulin to diabetic pets without a needle. Jill is the founder and original editor of Mode, a magazine for women in direct sales. Out of college, Jill had the opportunity to work with the art directors at Walt Disney in the design and development of Disney-licensed products. She has a B.A. with a major in Visual Communication and Design from Purdue University, and an M.S. in Management from Indiana Wesleyan University.

Convención Hispana ‘19

Presents

José Feliciano

Featuring

Emmy winning guitarist and singer

José Feliciano

Saturday, September 28, 2019 | 2:00 - 4:00pm

The Cleveland Public Library Photograph Collection and Cleveland Digital Public Library are seeking donations of family photographs for the Hispanic Families Photograph Collection.

You may donate physical prints or scan your own photos for the Digital Gallery available through the Cleveland Public Library. Your submissions will help create a collection of images of the Hispanic/Latino community in Cleveland and Ohio. These images will help researchers and students gain a better understanding of the rich history of this community.

Photos will be digitized and preserved and available to you. For more information, contact the Photograph Collection at photos@cpl.org | 216.623.2871
