Serra Center Art Workshop News Flash

Serra Center art students are “staying in place” at their various home sites. Due to the corona virus the OHAG sponsored SC Art Workshop had to be canceled but a way was found for the SC artists to continue with their painting. Using the COF Recreation Services stock of art supplies purchased for the art workshop early this year, Gloria Kim, with a little help from her daughter Frankie, assembled 24 art kits. Each art kit has an assortment of drawing and mixed media papers, colored pencils, pallets and disposable pallet paper, and watercolor paint sets. The kits have been delivered to Leslie McGarry at Serra Center for distribution to the individual artists. Leslie will offer some guidance to SC staff at the different homes on how to proceed so the artists can get painting.

Thank you Gloria & Frankie!

Art Scholarship Olive Hyde Art Guild (OHAG) announced its annual scholarship winners for the year 2020 at a virtual ceremony held on May 29th, which was attended by many art enthusiasts and supporters. It almost didn't happen this year because of the COVID-19 shelter-in-place orders, but with the creative insight of the Scholarships Chair, Dina Robiolo and her team, unique ways were devised to carry out the program that has been in place since 2000.

Thirty students submitted applications for the scholarship this year. Each applicant was required to submit portfolios of their best artwork for the competition. Artists Adriane Dedic and Simone Archer served as the judges and they felt that the students' work covered a wide range of abilities, hours of experience, and practice of skills. According to the program chair, the finalists were selected on the basis of "technical craft, expressive and conceptual content, originality, and what the artists wrote in their applications," as well as letters of recommendations from teachers and professors.

Members Simone Archer and Adriane Dedic served as judges this year. Among this year's finalists were Hanbyul Oh and Jaiminy Qiu, both from Mission High School, Alan Henriquez from Kennedy High School and Sakina Damani, Isa Eugenio, and Sophie Lin from Ohlone College. All of the work submitted for consideration was exceptional at all levels. The complexity and the depth of the work exhibited a high level of maturity. The students clearly have a promising career ahead of them, and the Guild is proud to be helpful in their pursuit of arts.

Alan Henriquez of Kennedy High School was the 1st place winner, recipient of $2000 scholarship. He will be attending Cal Poly this Fall for graphic communications, where he hopes to learn "state of the art methods and principles of design" to enrich his knowledge. Alan's dream is "to create works of art that empower and speak to the minority groups," such as the Latinx community that he is a part of. Alan is involved in several clubs at school, for example, the National Honors Society, Interact (public service club), and many cultural clubs including the Vietnamese, Korean, and South Asian. He is also the president of his school's GSA, Prism.

The other 1st place award of $2000 went to Isa Eugenio, who is concurrently taking classes at Alston Montessori High School and Ohlone College. Isa will attend California Institute of the Arts in the Fall to pursue graphic design and continue to explore fine art mediums. She feels that "attending an art school would be the best approach to access high-quality facilities and supplies and professors who work in and are well-connected with various art fields." Her current art instructor at Ohlone College is highly impressed with Isa's "willingness to integrate technology" with her creative instinct, resulting in artwork that is "visually striking, rich in process, and bold in content."

Sakina Damani and Sophie Lin of Ohlone College, and Jaiminy Qiu and Hanbyul Oh from Mission High School, all received gift certificates from Blick Art Supply. Having received the Letter of Commendation from the National Merit Scholarship Program, Hanbyul Oh plans to develop his art by designing structures and building 3-D models in the architecture program at Syracuse University. Jaiminy Qiu plans to study animation at the School of Visual Arts in New York, as she would like to bring her many storytelling ideas to life.

Sophie Lin has already had a solo exhibition, titled "Dear Me," at the Louie-Meager Art Gallery and many of her paintings have earned Best of Show awards at various art shows on campus. Sophie will enroll in the illustration program at Cal State Long Beach later this year. Sakina Damani has received awards for Drawing and 2-D Design, and will be attending San Jose State University this Fall to pursue her BFA Degree in Graphic Design.

President's Message

Who would have believed three months ago that we'd still be "sheltering-in-place"? I, for one, thought that by June all would be back to normal. Now "normal" only seems like a dream. Our lives in the future, whether we like it or not, are going to be much different.

With all that has happened, especially in the past few weeks, I'm hopeful that life will be better for all.

That being said, the Olive Hyde Art Guild is quickly learning that we still can have an impact on our community. We have made our annual donations, awarded scholarships, participated in virtual meetings, adopted a budget for 2020-2021, and done some initial brain-storming about future events. The Board, this past Wednesday, did make the painful decision to cancel this year's Holiday Show and Sale. With deep concern for the health of our members, volunteers, artists, and patrons, the Board felt it was in all our best interests to cancel for this year and look forward to a bigger and better return event next year.

I want to express my personal appreciation to all our volunteers who have been working tirelessly since our last Holiday Show (December 2019) on what was to be our first Fall Holiday Show in September. Adeptly led by Co-Chairs Judy Anglin, Nancy Ruskin, and Joan Bobrink, they, along with the Committee Chairs, have been working for many months on a newly revamped Holiday Show and Sale moved from December to the end of September. Thank you to Roberta Moody who has been working tirelessly on securing artists and keeping them posted on the tenuous situation in Fremont. I would like to also thank Fremont Bank, the Anderson Family Foundation, the Mahuron Family Fund, and the Tri-City Voice who had signed on as sponsors of the event. And thank you to our many members who were ready to volunteer their time and talents to our annual fund raiser. A positive outcome from this experience has resulted in a number of wonderful suggestions and ideas for future events. This "out-of-the-box" thinking has exciting possibilities for the future, and I hope to keep this dialogue alive as we work through the challenges ahead.

As I mentioned earlier, the Board approved a new budget that will allow us to carry on our community activities in the coming year. Treasurer Kate Mills led the Board through the budget process and reported that the Guild is in good financial shape. We are fortunate, as a non-profit organization, to have a healthy reserve, the result of prudent decisions and sound financial management by the Guild's Boards of Directors over the years. To all past and present Board Members, we owe a huge debt of gratitude. And thank you, too, to the many Guild Members who have sent in donations in lieu of membership fees this year. Your support is incredibly meaningful and responsible for the amazing achievements of our organization.

While we wait for the next phase of life to unfold, I wish you a safe and healthy summer.

Gail Blalock, Guild President

OHAG Project Mini Art News Flash!

We have an exciting new opportunity for our Project Mini Art this year! Since the Holiday Show had to be canceled, later in September we are planning to put all the PMA artwork on the Olive Hyde Art Guild website and sell the pieces online. The purchase price of each mini-artwork will remain at $25, a donation to the Guild earmarked for the visual arts in local schools. Watch for more details to come. Think of this as OHAG's "PMA Online Show & Sale"!
