FADE IN:

OPEN COUNTRY - DAY

Endless green hills bisected by a ribbon of highway. A gang clearing brush by the side of the road... Twenty-five men in prison fatigues sweating through their mid-afternoon labor.

THREE GUARDS

Flank the working prisoners... Mountie hats, shotguns, sidearms, sunglasses; they look like they mean it.

HIGHWAY

A battered pickup appears...approaches. Suddenly, it coughs, shudders, stalls. A big Blackfoot Indian named BILLY BEAR gets out and starts cursing and kicking the vehicle. Then he begins walking toward the road gang...

ROADSIDE

BRADY is the Guard near the center of the work gang; he smiles at the oncoming man, pokes a prisoner beside him.

BRADY

Wonder what reservation they let him off of...

The prisoner is GANZ who looks up, grins at Brady...

GANZ

Yeah, there goes the neighborhood.

Brady laughs as Billy Bear closes in on him.

BILLY

Say, buddy, my engine's overheating and I got 30 miles before the next station... Could I get some water out of your cooler?

Ganz leans on his hoe, speaks as Billy passes...
GANZ
Maybe you shoulda stole a better truck, Tonto.

BILLY
You got a real big mouth, convict.

BRADY
It's okay, chief. He's just joking...

BILLY
How about the water...

GANZ
Firewater, Tonto? Is that what you...

Billy whirls, swings at Ganz. Both men roll to the ground.

BRADY
Hey! Jesus Christ!

THE OTHER GUARDS
Seeing the commotion, they run toward it.

GANZ AND BILLY
As they struggle, Billy slips a pistol into Ganz' hand.

BRADY
That's a state prisoner, asshole...! Back off...

ROADSIDE
Brady pulls Billy away from Ganz just 'as one of the other officers arrives... Ganz suddenly whips out a pistol, Brady at point-blank range. Before the other Guards can react, Billy comes out with his own pistol, caps the Second Guard.
THIRD GUARD

Still forty yards away... In mid-draw, be howls as a bullet from Ganz breaks the nearby ground. He fires, then turns and runs for the prison bus.

GANZ

Smiling, fires twice. but the range is too great for pistol work...

THE OTHER PRISONERS

Watching....Then they all scatter in different directions...

GANZ

Hefts his weapon...

GANZ

Come on...

He and the big Indian run to the pickup, climb in and roar away.

INT. BUS

The THIRD GUARD making a call on the police radio...

OFFICER

APO 657, Unit 25 to APO 478. APO 657 Unit 25 to APO 478.

RADIO RESPONSE

Go ahead, Unit 25.

OFFICER

Escape in progress. Two officers shot off rail crossing 31. Prisoners escaping. Two men, one six-four, 200 pounds, dark, an Indian, the other, Albert Ganz, five-ten...

FURTHER DOWN THE HIGHWAY

Several miles from the escape... A big semi parked by the side of the road; back doors to the closed trailer open. A station wagon parked across the road. The pickup appears, approaches the semi, slows down and drives up the ramp into the van. Ganz and Billy jump out, shove the ramp up inside the truck and close the big doors.

STATION WAGON

Ganz and Billy climb inside and roar off, back in the direction of the road gang.

BILLY BEAR

Takes off his hat, puts on a baseball cap and sunglasses...

BILLY

Get ready to duck.

Ganz dives for the floor. Three police cars go by, sirens blaring, lights flashing. They pass the road gang. Ganz reappear, smiles...

GANZ

You know something? I'm having a real good time.

HIGHWAY

The station wagon blasts down the pavement... Becomes a small dot on the landscape.

TRANSITION.

A DOORWAY - NIGHT

the portal slams open revealing a man holding a huge pistol, Jack Cates, S.F.P.D., a large and powerful man... He stealthily moves up a stairwell.
CORRIDOR

He stops at the top of the stairs... Listens gun still ready.
A continuous sound of running water... Cates moves toward the bathroom. Rips the door open.

BATHROOM

The shape behind the shower curtain freezes. Cates, gun held level, moves forward... Rips the shower curtain open. Revealing a young and very beautiful woman, ELAINE MARSHALL.

CATES
Inspector Jack Cates, S.F.P.D.... And you're wanted.

Elaine stares at him as Cates turns off the water.

ELAINE
What am I wanted for?

CATES
I don't answer questions, I ask 'em...

A moment as she continues to stare at his pistol.

ELAINE
I don't think your gun's loaded...

CATES
This is a .44 Magnum, the most powerful handgun in the world. You gotta ask yourself just one question. Are you feelin' lucky?

ELAINE
I still don't think it's loaded.

Elaine shakes her head and smiles, folds her arms over her breasts, shivers a little... Cates looks at the cylinder, spins it...

CATES
Hey, you're right.

ELAINE
You're hopeless.

CATES
That's the way I see it, too.

Be puts the gun down on the edge of the sink, embraces her.

ELAINE
I'm all wet.

CATES
What's wrong with that?

They both smile.

TRANSITION.

BEDROOM

Cates in bed with Elaine. She wears his shirt.

ELAINE
A guy in the bar called me a dumb bitch today.

CATES
What'd you do?

ELAINE
Irrigated his face with the shot of J and B I'd just poured him. Then I tried to deck the sucker.

CATES
I guess he got the message...

ELAINE
Then I sit back and I think, I mean, who's to say I'm not a dumb bitch. I work in a bar, right? I can't read a list of my academic credentials to every booze-hound that comes in the place... You are what you do...

CATES
Positive self-image problem all over again ... You are who you decide you are unless you're the type that lets assholes decide for you.

ELAINE
Aren't you the one that thinks all psychotherapy is bullshit?

CATES
I do think all psychotherapy is bullshit. But just because I think it's bullshit doesn't mean I don't know something about it.

ELAINE
If this is your idea of sympathetic interest in my problems, I'll take brutal indifference.

CATES
Hey, you know what I really think?

ELAINE
Tell me--I'm dyin' to hear it.

CATES
I think you're ashamed to tend bar which is sad because you look great in that outfit they make you wear... You pull down four bills a week which is damn good, and you mix the best Pina Coladas I've ever had... I think that if you need bigger and better things ... then go for em.
She smiles at him after this. It looks like they'll kiss.

Their faces are close. Then she lightly moves back.

ELAINE

You oversimplify every...

He stops her in the middle of the sentence by kissing her, then pulls back...

CATES

Some things are simple, right?

Their faces are very close ... but they don't touch for another second.

ELAINE

Right...

TRANSITION.

SAN FRANCISCO - DAWN

Titles continue.

Tugs churning across the bay... Quiet city streets.

Parked cars covered with early morning dew... A newspaper truck slowly grinds by, drops a bundle and moves on.

EMBARCADERO - DAWN

The station wagon pulls up to a young punk, HENRY WONG, on a motorcycle.

Billy Bear smiles and leans out the driver's side window.

BILLY

You got somethin' for us, Henry?

Henry produces some credit cards. Billy passes them to Ganz for inspection.

GANZ
How hot are they?

HENRY
Hot? Hey, they're not even room temperature.

Ganz snorts derisively.

GANZ
How ya doin'?

HENRY
Can't complain.

GANZ
We got a lot to talk about.

HENRY
Yeah, old times.

GANZ
We'll follow you. Take it slow, okay?

HENRY
Sure, right.

Ganz pockets the credit cards as Henry wheels away.

INT. STATION WAGON

GANZ
I want to drive awhile.

BILLY
I ain't tired yet.

INT. STATION WAGON

GANZ
Maybe after we get done with him I'm gonna buy us some girls.

BILLY
Whaddya mean, buy?

GANZ Pros.

Ganz stares at Billy.

BILLY Pay money?

GANZ
Yeah, dummy. Money.

BILLY
I never paid for it in my life.

GANZ
It's better when you pay... they let you do anything.

BILLY
They always let me do anything. I don't want to pay for it. I never paid for it in my life.

GANZ
Just do what I say, okay? We'll pay for the girls and have a good time... Don't you trust me?

Billy smiles.

BILLY
Sure, I trust ya.

They drive off.

NORTH BEACH - RESIDENTIAL STREET - DAWN

First light breaks over Telegraph Hill. A quiet row of Victorian townhouses now converted into apartments.

APARTMENT BEDROOM - EARLY MORNING

Cates is sprawled across the double bed; Elaine is on the verge of falling off the edge. Cates' eyes snap open. A second later, his wrist watch alarm goes off. He turns it off, gets out of bed and begins pulling on his pants. Elaine sits up in bed, still wearing Cates' blue shirt... Cates picks up a robe as Elaine gets out of bed on the opposite side, throws the robe to Elaine... She takes off the swaps it for the robe and throws the shirt to Jack.

ELAINE
You know, if you let me come over to your place once in a while, you could put on a clean shirt in the morning.

CATES
What makes you think I have any clean shirts at my place?

He buttons his shirt and heads for the kitchen.

KITCHEN
Cates brushing his teeth at the sink, Elaine making coffee.

ELAINE
You know, that's my toothbrush, Jack.

He keeps brushing.

CATES
Maybe you ought to buy me one.

ELAINE
Maybe I would if I knew when you were coming back.

He stops brushing, turns and looks at her.

CATES
I'm here. And I've been coming back for quite awhile... Let's not hassle, okay? And can I have a cup of coffee? Please.

She pours some coffee, hands him a cup and saucer...

Cates pours some whiskey into it from a flask.

ELAINE
That's a fairly crummy way to start a morning.

CATES
Maybe I got a fairly crummy day ahead.

ELAINE
Maybe that makes a nice excuse.

CATES
Maybe you don't know what the hell you're talking about.

Cates picks his holstered .44 off a chair back and begins strapping it on.

ELAINE
When you start with that attitude... it's like I don't know who you are.

CATES
What do you want to know? What difference does it make? I'm the guy in your bed the last three months. I make you feel good. You make me feel good. What the hell else do you want from a guy?

ELAINE
I wish you'd stop trying to make me mad so I won't care for you... I wish you'd give me a little more of a chance.

He turns away, moves into the corridor near the stairwell.

CATES
I don't have time for this. I gotta go to work.

She stands frozen... He turns back and looks at her;
hard to apologize.

CATES
(continuing)
Look, I'm glad I'm in your life... and hell, with an ass like yours,
I figure anything might be possible.

She is warmed up by the first part, amused by the second; she approaches...

ELAINE
You know something, Jack, you really are hopeless.

CATES
That's the way I see it, too.

ELAINE
Call me later.

CATES
You sure you want me to?

ELAINE
Yeah, for some reason, I'm sure...

He moves closer, kisses her...

CATES
Thanks for the coffee.

ELAINE
I think you forgot this. Hands him his wallet and badge...

CATES
Guess people ought to know who I am...

He turns to go down the stairwell...

ELAINE
Jack, wait. Here...
She puts a scarf around his neck.

ELAINE

(continuing)
It's cold as hell out these mornings, and you know what the man said, the coldest winter I ever spent was the summer I spent in San Francisco...

They don't kiss. He nods appreciately, the scarf in hand as he turns and goes.

STREET - NORTH BEACH - MORNING

Cates comes out of Elaine's apartment building, crosses to his whipped and battered 64 Cadillac convertible, notices a parking ticket stuck under the windshield wiper...

CATES

Son of a bitch.

Shoves the ticket in his coat pocket, gets into the Caddie puts the scarf around the rear view mirror, starts the engine and guns away...

CITY STREET

Cates driving the convertible; he comes down a hill and turns toward the East Bay...

TRANSITION.

GOLDEN GATE PARK - MORNING

Henry Wong, seated on a park bench. Now very dead, a bullet hole in the middle of his forehead. Billy Bear is seated next to him on the bench reading the race form.

GANZ

Using the telephone at an outdoor booth a few feet beyond the STREET - BROADWAY DISTRICT - DAY

LUTHER and ROSALIE, a young couple, turn a corner. A dark parody of all-American young marrieds. They are bickering as usual.

    ROSALIE
    I liked that carpet we saw.

    LUTHER
    We can't afford it.

    ROSALIE
    Don't remind me.

    LUTHER
    Whaddya want me to do, go out and steal for the money? I hated the color anyway; the color sucked...

Suddenly, Billy and Ganz descend on Luther and Rosalie and pull them into their station wagon.

INT. STATION WAGON

Billy has Rosalie by the mouth, gagging her with his big paw... Ganz has his gun at Luther's neck.

    GANZ Surprise, Luther.

    LUTHER
    Whaddya want? I thought you were locked up-

    GANZ
    I want the money, asshole, what do you think? The money that Reggie hid...

    LUTHER
I don't know what you're talkin' about.

GANZ
You want that Indian to snap her neck?

He mimes the gesture... snap...

GANZ
(continuing)
Instead of worryin' about Reggie, you better worry about me...

LUTHER
Don't give me this, we were partners.

GANZ
Billy, go ahead, break it...

LUTHER
No! Don't kill her. I can get you the money.

GANZ When?

LUTHER
I can't get it until Monday. Honest.

GANZ
You chickenshit punk...

LUTHER
Honest. The place we stashed it opens Monday morning. I can't get it till then. Monday morning, that's when it opens. After that, I'll get the money to you right away...

Ganz finally takes the gun from the neck.

GANZ
I always liked you, Luther. You were always a lotta fun to hang out with...

Rosalie is rubbing her neck now that she's been released...

Ganz gestures to Billy.

GANZ
(continuing)
We're gonna keep her.

Luther desperately doesn't like this.

LUTHER
Come on, you can trust me. Please.

GANZ
You try to mess with us or go to the cops, I promise you, I'll put holes in her you wouldn't believe.

He smiles at Luther, pinches him on the cheek, shoves him out of the car.

LUTHER
Stands shivering as it powers away.

WALDEN HOTEL - DAY
A small hotel on one of the quiet streets behind Union Square.

A GREEN COUGAR
Pulls up across the street.

INT. CAR
Tha car arrives in front of the hotel.

GANZ
Nice place, huh?

Rosalie is very nervous.
ROSALIE

What are you gonna do to me in there?

Ganz gives her a casual smile.

GANZ

Maybe that's where I'm gonna cut your throat.

BILLY

He's just kiddin', you just keep doin' what I tell ya, you'll be okay.

They move out of the car, head for the hotel.

LOBBY

A FRIZZY YOUNG BLONDE sits behind the desk in a mirrored entrance hall. She reads a lurid paperback. Morning traffic streams by outside as Ganz, Billy and Rosalie enter and approach the desk.

GANZ

We need some rooms for a couple of nights...Okay?

She smiles at Ganz.

FRIZZY

Sure. We don't get many real customers, ya know? Most people only stay an hour or two...

Passes a form across. Ganz signs it, Frizzy glances at his signature then takes a key from the rack behind.

GANZ

I want her young. And tall. Nice legs. Legs are important. Then, real thin. Yeah. NO jeans-A dress? a nice summer dress. You know I want her fresh... I'll tell you why, because I been hoein' weeds and makin' license plates for a couple of years... Yeah, I know you don't get it...
BILLY BEAR

Sees a couple approaching, he shoves the dead man down on the bench and spreads the newspaper over his head. The body now looking like a typical park bum who has spent the night. Billy walks over to Ganz.

BILLY

Hey, what about me?

GANZ

And I need one more for my pal.
Yeah. Make her an Indian. No, not a turban, you know, a squaw.

Billy smiles, takes the Polaroid...

POLAROID

A close shot of the dead man with the bullet hole in his forehead.

GANZ

Takes the photograph back from Billy and slips it into his jacket pocket...

GANZ

Walden Hotel. Third near Broadway.
Tell them to ask for ... uh...

He takes the hot credit cards out of his pocket, the name embossed on the plastic..

GANZ

(continuing)
G.P. Polson...P.O.L.S.O.N....Just be a couple of hours.

Hangs up. The two men head for a green Plymouth...

TRANSITION.

FRIZZY

Number twenty-seven, Mr. Polson.
GANZ
Put them next door, okay.

She gives him a slightly knowing look.

FRIZZY
Sure, hey, you got the whole floor to yourself...

Ganz sends her back a sharp look.

GANZ
Keep your filthy ideas to yourself, lady.

Ganz picks up his suitcase, walks over to the nearest stairwell. Billy and Rosalie follow...

TRANSITION.

STREET
Bars starting to fill up with mid-day customers... A black Chevy cruises past and stops further up the block. Two Plainclothesmen, VANZANT and ALGREN, get out of the car.

As they start toward the Walden...

THE CADILLAC CONVERTIBLE
Pulls up near the two men. Cates climbs out of his car and walks over to them.

CATES
Hey, fellas, what's happening? Radio said you guys had something on...

ALGREN
Not much, Jack ... Salesman named Polson had his credit cards lifted...

Algren nods over to the parking lot opposite.
ALGREN
(continuing)
One of Polson's cards rented that green coupe.

VANZANT
Not too much for a big rough tough gunfighter like you to do on this one...

Cates smiles at the verbal positioning he's used to with his colleagues.

CATES
Suspect packed or is this a laughter?

ALGREN
Five and dime stuff. Polson said a kid with a switchblade mugged him and drove off on a motorcyle.

CATES
Yeah, well, I guess you two are experts at taking boy scout knives away from teenagers...

VANZANT
Yeah, we are, that means you can stay outta this one. We don't have any big need for the artillery.

Vanzant's turn to smile.

CATES
Hey, I'm just offering to help out... I like to watch real pros work.

VANZANT
Help, huh? Sometimes your kind of help tends to leave the suspect in bad shape.
Algren...mediator... soothes the competitive situation.

ALGREN

Hey, relax ... Jack, you wanna come inside, fine... You can stake out the lobby...

Cates, a bit disgusted at the politics of this moment, nods...

CATES

Fine, it's your show...

The three men move toward the Walden.

WALDEN HOTEL LOBBY

Frizzy Blonde still behind the desk. Still reading the lurid paperback. Unaware as Vanzant and Algren approach... She looks up as they flash their badges.

FRIZZY

Aw, you guys were in last week. You better ask around. I'm not supposed to be hassled... I got friends.

VANZANT

Hey, park the tongue for a second, sweetpants, we just want to search a room.

FRIZZY

Not unless you got a warrant.

CATES

Maybe you should of been a lawyer instead of a dumb skirt workin' behind a register.

Frizzy turns to find Cates standing beside her. He nudges her aside. Starts going throught the register book.
FRIZZY
Aw, come on, what the shit is this?

ALGREN
We're looking for a guy going under the name Polson...

Frizzy sits back down in defeat.

FRIZZY
Okay, big deal. Get it over with.

Cates finds the name.

CATES
Mr. Polson, room 27...

ALGREN
Is he alone?

FRIZZY
Naw, his sister went up an hour ago.

Vanzant turns to Cates.

VANZANT
Okay, like we said, you stake out the lobby.

CATES
Sure. Great. Whatever.

VANZANT
You're not missing out on Dillinger. This punk just stole some credit cards.

Cates watches the two Detectives head for the elevator.

SECOND FLOOR CORRIDOR

Vanzant and Algren move down the hallway. Stop at the far end.

Both Detectives draw their pistols and approach a door.

ROOM

Summer dress and undergarments scattered on the floor. LISA, lies naked under the covers.
She matches Ganz's earlier requirements. Smoking a cigarette, staring at the ceiling. Ganz remains on top of the blanket. Still in his shirt and pants watching TV. Three sharp knocks at the door. Ganz reacts as if he's received an electric shock. His hand goes under the pillow... Comes up with an automatic. Shoves it hard into Lisa's stomach.

LISA
Hey...

GANZ
Shut up.

LISA
What the hell's wrong? I didn't do anything.

Another knock. Ganz makes her move to the door.

LISA
(continuing)
What do you want? What's goin' on?

GANZ
Shut up.

She grabs her dress and tries to pull it on.

GANZ
(continuing)
Now ask who it is.

Shoves harder with the pistol.

GANZ
(continuing)
Come on, ask.

She calls out.

LISA
Who is it?

CORRIDOR
Vanzant and Algren stand back from the door. Guns held ready.

ALGREN
Police... open up.

ROOM
Lisa looks from the door back to Ganz. Then at the gun held against her. She's petrified.

GANZ
Stall.

LISA
What do you want?

VANZANT
Police business. Come on, open up.

A smile on Ganz' face. Almost as if he's enjoying the moment.

GANZ
Keep stallin'.

LISA
Alright, I'm coming...hold on. I'll just be a minute.

CORRIDOR
Vanzant and Algren waiting. Sounds of movement from within the room.

LOBBY
Cates moves toward the foot of the stairwell. Looks across at mirror on the wall opposite. The entire lobby covered from this spot. Every angle, including Frizzy.

ROOM

Ganz gestures to Lisa.

LISA

Just a second.

Ganz belts her with his gun; she falls. Ganz goes through the connecting door. Slips into the adjacent room.

BILLY'S ROOM

Another Hooker cowers in the corner, pulling on her clothes.

She's a Mexican girl in a ridiculous 'Indian' outfit.

MEXICAN GIRL

Que paso? Que esta pasando? No entiendo...

BILLY

Shut up.

Billy goes to where Rosalie is awkwardly tied to a chair with an electric dord. He pulls her to her feet as Ganz moves by.

BILLY

(continuing)

When I say jump, girl, you better jump.

BILLY

(continuing)

CORRIDOR
Vanzant reaches down, tries the knob. Locked. Algren moves back, preparing to kick the door down.

ADJACENT ROOM

Ganz opens the door behind the two cops. Raises his pistol and fires. Billy's shots follow immediately. Hits Vanzant. Algren rolls just as Ganz fires again. Wounded, he gets off three shots, then moves inside Ganz' room. Ganz and Billy run for the elevator... Exchange two more shots with Algren. The Mexican Girl begins screaming in Spanish...

LOBBY

Cates draws his .44. Races up the stairs three at a time. Frizzy starts to frantically call the police.

CORRIDOR

Cates stops at the landing. Vanzant's body sprawled across the hallway. Algren back in the corridor, still losing blood... Leans against the wall for support... Lisa staggers out of the room, screams. Algren points the gun toward the elevator. Indicating where Ganz and Billy have just fled. Cates starts back down toward the lobby.

ELEVATOR

Ganz and Billy, guns ready as the carriage jolts downward. Rosalie is terrified, sobbing...

CATES

Arrives at the halfway turn of the second staircase. He takes the next flight in two jumps.

ELEVATOR
As the doors open, Ganz gestures for Billy and Rosalie to wait as he heads for the lobby.

LOBBY

Cates literally flies into the lobby just as Ganz appears. He slams Ganz against a column, belts him across the neck with his pistol. Ganz screams with pain, drops his gun... again slams him with his pistol, felling him...

GANZ

Slides across the floor.

CATES Senses something ... moves just as Billy appears and fires at him. The bullet takes out a window. Cates dives over the desk. Another bullet chews up the wood.

LOBBY

Frizzy has been standing beside her desk, screaming... move and the accompanying bulletspanic her. She dashes for safety... Cates gets to his feet behind cover. Sees holding Rosalie by the throat. Frizzy begins to scream.

GANZ

He'll blow her goddamn head off.

Cates doesn't miss a beat. He slowly levels his .44. Takes careful aim and starts to fire at Billy.

ROSALIE

No. No.
Cates' shot narrowly misses Rosalie. The bullet smashes into a mirror above Billy's head. Cates keeps moving closer, gun pointed straight ahead. Billy pushes the pistol against Rosalie's temple. For the first time, Cates hesitates. They face each other across the length of the lobby.

ALGREN

Struggles down the remaining steps into the lobby. He still holds his revolver. Dares not raise it towards Billy and Rosalie.

BILLY BEAR

Covers Algren from near the entrance. He's confused, doesn't know what to do... He keeps hold of Rosalie.

GANZ

His eyes catch Algren's...

GANZ

You. Drop it and we won't kill her.

Algren tosses his gun to the floor.

GANZ

(continuing)
Now, tell him to drop his Goddamn piece.

ALGREN

Do it, Cates.

No response.

ALGREN

(continuing)
Do it, Cates. Goddarn it, do it.
Cates lowers his gun. Finally lets it drop to the floor.

GANZ

Kick it over here.

Cates does; Ganz picks it up, smiles, looks at Billy.

GANZ

(continuing)

Get the car.

Then back to Cates as Billy runs out the entrance with Rosalie.

GANZ

(continuing)

Your gun's just like mine.

He's going to kill Cates. But first be glances at Algren. Then, almost casually, shoots him twice with Cates' .44. Algren staggers back. Dead before he hits the floor. Cates twists sideways just as Ganz fires. The bullet misses. Frizzy starts screaming and struggling. Ganz swipes the woman across the head with the gun. Her body slumps to the floor. Police sirens can be heard in the distance. Cates makes an attempt for Algren's gun. A bullet splatters against the floor only inches from his outstretched fingers. The gun skitters out of reach.

CATES

You lying son of a bitch...

GANZ

What are you talking about? We didn't kill her ...

Ganz smiles. With your own gun, cop. How does it feel? Cates leaps into a wooden phone booth. Ganz leisurely blasts away at the booth with both his and Cates' gun. Two bullets crash into the booth. Ganz moves to check inside the booth but sirens are ominously near. Ganz finally retreats out the entrance.
STREET
Billy and Rosalie weave their way across street to the Cougar. They make a U-turn. Ganz runs out. Car pulls out, then the police cars and vans begin to arrive.

PHONE BOOTH
Chunks of wood on the floor. Shafts of light through a dozen bullet holes. Shattered receiver dangling from a cord. Cates, wedged tight into the very top of the cubicle. He drops the floor.

LOBBY
The police arrive. Swarm into the hotel. All eyes on Cates as he rushes to Algren. Too late... Cates realizes Algren is dead. He cradles Algren's head as he stares at the TAC Squad and Patrolmen.

TRANSITION.

SQUAD ROOM DAY
Cates walks in. Several Detectives gather around him.

FAT COP
What happened?

CATES
Read the report.

OLD COP
Two cops blown away by a credit card booster... that don't figure.

CATES
No shit.

FAT COP
They were good cops.

CATES
They were good cops who fucked up and got careless.

A snotty YOUNG COP paces.

YOUNG COP
That's what you say, Cates...

CATES
Yeah.

YOUNG COP
But that's what you say about all of us all the time ... we're always the ones fucking up when you tell it...

CATES
The truth hurts, doesn't it, buddy?

Cates looks at the Old Cop.

OLD COP
It don't figure.

CATES
I need to borrow a piece.

The OLD COP shrugs... looks in his desk...

YOUNG COP
Somebody steals your gun, you're supposed to file a report.

CATES
Are you gonna tell me about police procedure? Do me a favor, don't give me a bunch of crap.

YOUNG COP
I guess when two cops die on account of your fuck up you want to keep it as quiet as possible...

Cates loses it for a second, lands on him with both hands, pushes him against a wall... The room goes quiet. Cates downs.

CATES
Just shut the fuck up.

The other cops don't intervene. They just watch. Cates cools down, straightens up. HADEN walks by, or, rather, speeds by.

HADEN
Cates, I'll need to see you in five minutes, exactly five.

The Old Cop hands Cates a gun, a traditional Army .45...

OLD COP
Best I can do.

HADEN
D'you read me, Cates...

Haden continues moving away.

CATES
Five minutes. I heard you, your voice carries...

As Cates is examining the gun, RUTH, a lab technician, enters and drops three 8 x 10's on the desk near Cates.

RUTH
They're still wet.

Cates lifts the blow-ups, each one showing a different aspect of a spent bullet.

RUTH
Lots of people getting shot with .44's lately ... Last year, it was Saturday Night Specials...now it's heavy stuff. People must be getting madder about something.

Cates starts pinning the blow-ups onto a large bulletin board on the wall. Nearby, at the same time (within Cates' line of sight, within earshot), Lisa, the Hooker, is being interrogated by a POLICE-WOMAN who pulls the statement off the typewriter. Nearby, the Indian Hooker is being interrogated in Spanish.

POLICEWOMAN
You're an accessory to Murder One, so you're going to have to do a whole lot better than what we got down here, honey...

LISA
Gimme a break, huh? ... Look, I got there. He was a trick just like any other for all I knew. That's all there is. He didn't feel like sitting and talking. He was in a big hurry to get laid. I was with him about an hour...

Cates has gotten interested in the last part of this ... drifts toward her... A DETECTIVE comes through, begins distributing I.B.M. printouts to Cates, the other nearby officers..

DETECTIVE
We got a print from the hotel room. Guy's real name is Ganz, Albert Ganz. A hitter from back East but he worked out here a few years back. Armed robbery. Broke out of prison two days ago and capped two of the guards. A real animal. Wait'll you see this...
Cates reads the printout, then smoothly, imperiously, he takes over the questioning of Lisa.

CATES
Did he give you a return match?

LISA
He wasn't interested.

CATES
Maybe he didn't like your performance.

LISA
Fuck you.

CATES
I'll take a raincheck...

From the side, Ruth is pointing at the photos...

RUTH
This'll interest you, Jack... we've got something here from your gun... and these are from the first weapon Ganz used...

CATES
I don't get it.

RUTH Here.

CATES
She turns, produces the third photo. Pins it beside the one from the Walden Hotel.

RUTH
A perfect match for the markings from the first gun he used... but not from the Walden Hotel... fired at least six hours earlier... at point blank range... right between the eyes. Found him on a park bench...

She shows him two more pictures. Police forensics shots of Henry Wong ... very dead on the park bench...
RUTH
(continuing)
Ya know, there are some very bad people out there in the world.

CATES
Look at it this way, Ruth. If there weren't, what would there be for us to do?

Lisa continues with the Policewoman.

LISA
Anyway... so I got there and took him down. He started watching television and then you sensational people started banging on the door... that's all... except ... he's gonna give you guys a hard time.

CATES
Cates looks up as he hears that remark. Notices KEHOE, another Detective, entering with a long suitcase.

POLICEWOMAN
What makes you think so?

LISA
I think he liked shooting cops a lot more than getting laid.

Cates watches Kehoe unpack the box.

CATES
Is that what this guy Ganz had in the hotel?

KEHOE
Every last bit of it. The big guy's room was empty.
CATES
I'll help you out.

Cates and Kehoe start going through the suitcase. Kehoe produces a speed loader for a .44...

KEHOE
This guy must have had a .44 like yours, Jack. Now he's got yours.

CATES
Shit.

Kehoe next produces several boxes of shells.

KEHOE
This cat was real serious about his artillery.

An Attendant comes through, hands Kehoe a file. He opens it, shows the file to Cates who reads the name under the mug shot.

CATES
Billy Bear...

KEHOE
Backup man from the East Bay.
Worked with Ganz a few years ago and sprung him from the road gang.

Kehoe opens the second file. Four mug shots are inside.

CATES
Who are all these?

KEHOE
They all pulled a bunch of jobs with Ganz about four years ago.

CATES
Wait a minute, wait a minute... who's this?
KEHOE
Uhh ... Wong, Henry Wong. He was in on the same job.

Cates spins the file around so that both Ruth an Kehoe can see it, throws the forensic shots down beside it.

CATES
Tell me that's not the same guy.

KEHOE
Hey ... Dick Tracy.

RUTH
Did Ganz have a grudge against his old friends?

Haden comes out of his office.

HADEN
Get in here, Cates.

Cates ignores him.

CATES
I think I wanna have a discussion about it with any of the ones still walking. Can we find them?

KEHOE
Here's the file. Cates checks the file.

CATES
One of em's in the slam.

HADEN
Damn you, Cates ... Get in here.

Cates walks into Haden's cubicle.

CATES
I want to be left alone on this one. Algren was killed with my gun.
HADEN
Yeah, I read the report...

Haden shuffles some papers, seems to ignore Cates.

CATES
Hey, the bastard's got my gun. I want it back.

HADEN
Jack, come on, there is an official department policy about cop killings. Cop killers represent a special priority because any man crazy enough to kill a cop is a greater threat to an unarmed civilian... In other words, we can't seem like we're in the revenge business... I know, we all know the truth's a little different.

Cates almost smiles at Haden.

CATES
Yeah...

HADEN
Anthing botherin' you besides losin' your gun?

CATES
Yeah. It bothers me when cops get hurt while I'm makin' a play. I don't like it.

HADEN
You might be more of a team player and a little less of a hot dog on this one, Jack.

CATES
Being a hot dog's worked pretty well for me so far... Besides, I got a lead...

HADEN
Okay. You're not a team player. You gotta do things your own way. Fine. Nail this guy and make us all look good. But you better watch your ass. If you screw up, I can promise you, you're goin' down.

CATES
You really know how to send a guy out with a great attitude. He starts to go.

HADEN
Jack?

CATES
Yeah?

HADEN
Try not to get your ass shot to pieces. We got enough dead cops on this one.

CATES
I'll keep it in mind.

Leaves.

TRANSITION.

CITY STREET

Heavy vehicle and pedestrian traffic. Cates stands near a hot dog stand. Elaine joins him. Cates is eating a hot dog and studying a police file.

ELAINE
Great place for lunch.

CATES
Yeah, one of my favorites.

ELAINE
You made the front page.
He hands her a dog.

CATES
Yeah, Guess it must have been a slow news day...

ELAINE
Jack, are you okay?

CATES
Sure, okay, fine, no problem... See, there's this kid in jail ... First thing I got to do is go up and see what he knows ... He points to the file.

ELAINE
I thought you might come over to my place to recuperate. I don't have to go to work until the day after tomorrow.

They begin to stroll down the street.

CATES
I got nothing to recuperate from. There's a guy out there with my gun, and I want it back.

She's not happy with this attitude.

ELAINE
Look, spare me the macho bullshit about your gun...

CATES
Bullshit? I'll tell you about bullshit. My gun's a real weapon in the hands of a real maniac who knows how to use it. It isn't my macho bullshit that's killing people, my gun is ...

ELAINE
Look, Jack, if you make everything your personal responsibility, you'll turn into a bad cop. It's not a practical way to function...

CATES
I didn't get burned, two cops did. Listen, I'll tell you about personnel responsibility. I like to get the job done right. And if I don't get my job done right... I'm for shit.

ELAINE
Here it comes again ... the sacred job...

CATES
That's right. I'm not like you. I'm not gonna sit on my ass wondering what's right and what's wrong... There's a psycho out there killing people with my gun and I'm gonna get him. Because it's my job. And if you don't get that...

ELAINE
I get that. The job first. Everything else, especially me, second. I get it. I don't like it.

Pause.

CATES
No one asked you to like it... But that's the way it is.

TRANSITION.

PRISON CELL BLOCK - DAY

Cates and a GUARD on the upper deck approaching the door to the cell block... The Guard shouts upward.

GUARD
Open Nine.
With a huge metal clatters the door to the cell block opens.

CELL BLOCK - NEAR ENTRANCE

Cates and the Guard go through the door.

GUARD

Close Nine.

They move forward together.

GUARD

(continuing)

It's Number Twenty-two... You want company?

CATES

No, no thanks.

The Guard shrugs, stays by the door.

CATES

He walks down the cell block. Inmates stare at him from inside the stark cells. They don't know who he is, but they can smell a cop. Cates stops at Twenty-two, looks inside... a bit startled. Obviously, Reggie Hammond has connections and taste. The paint is fresh; there's framed prints on the wall instead of pin-ups, and the overall feeling is that of a graduate school dorm rather than a prison. Cates turns, nods switch to the Guard at the end of the cell block. He throws a and the door opens.

HAMMOND'S CELL

Cates steps inside. Hammond is at a table wearing a Sony Walkman and writing in some detailed ledgers with a fountain pen. He's boogeying in his seat to the music. Sprawled on a bunk nearby is LEROY, another black inmate close to age. Leroy is leafing through a copy of a skin magazine. He doesn't even look at Cates.

CATES
Hammond.

Cates steps inside the cell.

CATES
(continuing)
Hammond!

No answer. Cates leans over, hits the override button on the Sony.

CATES
(continuing)
Hammond!

Hammond jumps, grabs his ears in pain ... He pulls the headset off and glares at Cates.

HAMMOND
You got a name, cop?

CATES
Try Cates. And let's talk in private, okay?

HAMMOND
Sure, anything you want.

He tosses the Walkman to Leroy who dutifully puts it on.

CATES
Look, convict, I know all about you. Single. No fixed address. No known relatives.

One previous conviction. Armed robbery... six months to go on a three-year sentence.

HAMMOND
You here to write my life story?

CATES
Not likely, Reggie. Maybe I just need some help.

Cates takes the forensic photo out of his pocket, passes it across the table to Hammond. He looks at it, hardly reacts.

HAMMOND
Henry Wong... My old pal. He's looked better...

He passes the photo back.

HAMMOND
(continuing) Look, I got just six months before gettin' out of here. Six months between me and freedom after bein' here three years... And I'm not gonna do anything to screw it up, includin' pee in the prison yard, knock up the Warden's daughter or rat on my old partners...

Cates swings the cell door back open.

CATES
Too bad, Reggie. I thought maybe you were a smart boy. But I guess if you were real smart you wouldn't be a convict.

He smiles, decides to play his card.

CATES
(continuing) I can see a second-rater like you wouldn't be any help at all goin' up against a real hard case like Ganz.

Hammond jerks his head around.

HAMMOND
Ganz?

Pause.

HAMMOND
(continuing)
Ganz the one who shot Henry?
Cates, I asked you a question...

Cates smiles.

CATES
Yeah, I noticed...

HAMMOND
Ganz is in jail. He's gonna be there two years after I'm on the street.

CATES
Didn't work out that way. He busted out with a big Indian. They capped two guards on a road gang. Nice meeting you Reggie.

He turns, goes out. The door clangs behind him. Hammond jumps up and bangs on the bars, shouts at Cates' back...

HAMMOND
Cates, Come back here.

Cates turns, saunters back, leans against the door.

CATES
Yeah?

HAMMOND
I can deliver Ganz. But you gotta get me outta here first.

CATES
You're crazy.

HAMMOND
I can help you, man, but you gotta get me out. I got to be on the street. Get me outta here.

CATES
What's the big deal about you bein' on the street?

HAMMOND
I got a lot to protect.

CATES Bullshit.

HAMMOND
It's the only way you're gonna get Ganz.

CATES
I'll think about it.

TRANSITION.

Cates typing several of official looking documents while seated across from a rather dour-looking bureaucrat named BOB.

CATES
Let me borrow your pen, Bob.

Handed over by Bob.

BOB
You going to use your own name?

CATES
Shit, no.

CANDY
He begins signing the documents.

BOB
Jack, just remember one thing. If all this comes down, you don't know me. I'm not gonna burn for you. And I'll tell you something else. If it all comes down, your ass is new-mown grass.
CATES
  Right. Hey, no sweat.

He hands over the papers. Smiles.

BOB
  BOB You got him for 48 hours.

Bob studies the sheet.

BOB
  (continuing)
  You got a big career as a forger
  if you decide to go that way,
  Jack... I'll ring security.

TRANSITION.

PROCESS ROOM - PRISON - DAY

The GUARD leads Hammond to a steel cage. Harmond's now wearing a beautifully tailored plaid suit.

The Guard shouts to ANOTHER GUARD on the far side.

GUARD
  Prisoner G21355 ... Hammond.

SECOND GUARD
  Okay. Send him through.

The gate slides open. The Guard geztures for Hairmond to enter. Hammond walks to the far side of the pen. The first gate closes, the second one opens.

Hammond turns and walks over to Cates. The Guard comes up to Cates, double checks his orders then unlocks Hammond's cuffs.

GUARD
  Gotta sign for him.

CATES
Sure thing...

He looks over at Hammond who smiles at him. Then looks at Harmond's clothes...

CATES
(continuing)
This prison gives out $400 suits?

HAMMOND
What are you talkin' about? This suit's mine. It cost $900.

Hammond dusts off a sleeve.

CATES
We're supposed to be after a killer, not a string of hookers...

HAMMOND
Listen, it may be a little out of date. You know, I got a reputation for looking real sharp with the ladies...

Cates hands some papers to the Guard.

GUARD
He's all yours.

The Guard walks away as Hammond feels Cates' lapel.

HAMMOND
We could change this for something good...Get you lookin' sharp for pussy.

Cates gives him a look.

CATES
I don't need to hear your jive. I already got that department taken care of...

HAMMOND
You got a girl... shit... the generosity of women never ceases to amaze me.

Cates slaps a cuff on Hammond's outstrethand, then puts the other on his own wrist.

HAMMOND
(continuing)
Hey, no way. Take off the bracelets or no deal.

CATES
You just don't get it, do your Reggie? There isn't any deal. I own your ass.

HAMMOND
No way to start a partnership.

CATES
Get this. We ain't partners. We ain't brothers. We ain't friends. I'm puttin' you down and keepin' you down until Ganz is locked up or dead. And if Ganz gets away, you're gonna be sorry we ever met.

HAMMOND
Shit. I'm already sorry.

Cates yanks on the cuffs. They move away.

TRANSITION.

OUTSIDE THE JAIL - DAY

CATES LEADS HAMMOND OUT. THEY HEAD FOR CATES' BATTERED CADILLAC.

HAMMOND
This your car, man?

CATES
Yeah.
HAMMOND
It looks like you bought it off one of the brothers.

As they approach the car...

CATES
Okay, let's get down to it. I did my part and got you out. So now you tell me where we're goin'?

HAMMOND
Don't worry, I got a move for ya. An awesome move. A guy named Luther. Ganz'll be paying him a visit. We go to him right away.

CATES
Luther was part of the gang?

HAMMOND
What gang you talkin' about, Jack?

CATES
I can read a police file, shithead, and quit calling me Jack.

HAMMOND
Just an expression man, don't mean nothin'.

Cates gets behind the wheel and kicks the engine over.

CATES
I don't give a damn. It happens to be my name.

HAMMOND
Then what're you complainin' about? At least nobody's calling you shithead....

CATES
I may call you worse than that.

Cates drives off.
EXT. STREET - MISSION DISTRICT - DAY

Cates' Cadillac purrs into view, entering a deserted street within a rundown neighborhood.

INT. CADDY

Hammond seated next to Cates.

HAMMOND
Just up the street, the other side, over there ... Now, don't bother knockin' on the door. Luther ain't the kind of guy that looks for company.

CATES
Your pal nuts enough to take a shot at me?

HAMMOND
Luther ain't the reliable type. I don't want you shot yet, Cates ... not before you been a help to me.

CATES
I'm helpin' you, huh?

Hammond smiles.

HAMMOND
Yeah. Didn't you know that?

STREET
The Caddy pulls to a stop.

HAMMOND
Over there...232...

Cates double-checks his .38.

HAMMOND
(continuing)
You better let me borrow one of those.

Cates smiles.

CATES

Sure thing, asshole.

Handcuffs Hammond to the door handle. Grabs the car keys.

CATES

(continuing)

You just hang on. And hope this big move of yours turns out to be something. Opens the car door.

CATES

(continuing)

---

LUTHER'S VICTORIAN

Cates knocks at the door. Nothing. Knocks again ... no response.. From inside, he hears a faint noise but no response to the knock. Holding the .38 in one hand, Cates tries the knob with the other. The door opens. Cautiously, Cates steps inside.

INT. LUTHER'S VICTORIAN

Long corridor ahead. No sign of Luther.

CATES

Moves down the corridor, checks the rooms off to one side.

LUTHER LUTHER

as he slips into the hallway behind Cates... Cates turns just a get to the kitchen. Luther holds a gun. Cates drops to crouch and aims the .38. Luther whirls and fires at wood and plaster fly out all round him, Cates makes a dive for the floor. Luther runs out before Cates has regain his feet.

STREET

Luther rushes out the front door and heads toward the Cadillac.

HAMMOND

Watches as Luther heads down the sidewalk toward him. As he starts to pass by... Hammond steps out suddenly...

Flattens him with the car door. Luther drops, stunned. Hammond, still restricted by being cuffed to the door handle, reaches and grabs his pistol.

CATES

Hammond, Drop the Goddamn gun.

Hammond looks up. He sprints across the pavement. Aims his gun at Hammond.

HAMMOND

Quit playin' cop and undo this cuff, Jack, I need to talk to this man.

CATES

I'm tellin' you to drop the Goddam gun.

HAMMOND

I got a whole thing about people pointin' guns at me.

CATES

Just throw me the Goddamn gun.
Long moment. Then Hammond smiles and tosses him Luther's pistol. Luther groans. Cates puts his foot on Luther's belly and pulls himself into a standing position, cuffs him.

HAMMOND
Luther, I always told you the physical side of life wasn't your gig. Look at you, all messed up... Course you never were much in the snappy dresser department, were you?

Cates now has Luther ready to be questioned.

CATES
Come on, talk to him.

Hammond turns to smile at Luther.

HAMMOND
What's happening, Luther?

LUTHER
I thought you were inside...

HAMMOND
Meet my travel Agent.

Luther leans forward, looks straight at Cates.

LUTHER
A cop...

CATES
I sure ain't his fairy godmother... now I'm looking for Ganz...where is he?

LUTHER
Haven't seen him for years. That's the truth.

CATES
You just took a shot at me, asshole. I think you do know where he is.

LUTHER
Who gives a fuck what you think?

Cates grabs the still open Cadillac door, slams it into Luther. He falls backwards. Cates looks at Hammond.

CATES
Hey, this works pretty good.

HAMMOND
Thank you.

CATES
Want to try it again?

Luther sits up again, glares at Cates.

LUTHER
Ganz and Billy got my girl, Rosalie.

CATES
I think I met her. Now tell us something we don't know, like where they stashed her.

LUTHER
I don't know.

Cates slams the car door agains him again.

HAMMOND
I gotta tell you he's having a ball with this car door, Luther... You'd better think of somethin' to tell him.

Luther hesitates...flashes a look at Hammond, who sends him a silent fleeting reply. Maybe Cates sees this. Maybe not.

LUTHER
He ... he wants me to help him skip town.

CATES When? How?

LUTHER
I dunno ... he's gonna call me...

Another look at Hammond.

LUTHER
(continuing)
He's gonna call me on...Tuesday.

Something's wrong with all this. Cates isn't sure just what.
Not yet. He looks at Hammond.

CATES
What do you think?

HAMMOND
I think you better put him on ice, man.

CATES
He's gotta take that call ... if there is one.

HAMMOND
If you let him run around till Tuesday, he's gonna run right to Ganz and warn him. Ain't you, motherfucker?

Luther makes a play toward Hammond, who laughs, doesn't even flinch.

HAMMOND
(continuing)
Luther, are you angry with me?

Cates wrestles Luther into the back seat, turns to Hammond.

CATES
I don't know what the hell you're smiling about, watermelon. Your big move turned out to be shit.

HAMMOND Just stares at Cates, keeps smiling...
TRANSITION.

BOOKING - POLICE PRECINCT - NIGHT

Two Uniforms follow a sullen Luther, Cates and Hammond to the DUTY SERGEANT... Cates speaks to him through the small window.

CATES
Assault on a police officer with a deadly weapon. Carrying a concealed weapon. Resisting arrest, Disturbing the peace. Public nuisance...

The Sergeant begins typing out an arrest form.

CATES
(continuing)
I'll think up a few more and file the report tomorrow.

Cates looks back at Hammond as Luther is hauled away.

CATES
(continuing)
Come on, I gotta make a phone call.

As they move through the honeycomb of office partitions.

CATES
(continuing)
You stay with me.

Cates picks up the phone on the other side of the booking desk. Dials ... waits for a response as TWO HOOKERS are led past by an Arresting Officer. Hammond gives them the eye.

CATES
(continuing)
This is Jack Cates. Any messages?

ELAINE'S APARTMENT
Elaine is on the kitchen phone, speaking while putting her coat on over her uniform for the evening. One look at the way it is cut and you know why she hates her job.

ELAINE
Just one. Some lady called. Said she's a little hot-headed sometimes... But she still wants her occasional roommate. She'd like to talk it over after she gets off work tonight... if it's humanly possible....

CATES
Elaine, look, I'm in the middle of some stuff right now... I'm not gonna have time to come by. I don't know when I can get there.

Her face falls. Making the offer was hard enough.

ELAINE
Come on, Jack ... you're making me work too Goddamn hard at this...

Jack is very irritated by this turn of events.

CATES
Listen, Goddamn it if you think I'm happy about it, you're nuts. I just gotta take care of a few things, okay?

ELAINE
This is not the way people who care for each other are supposed to behave.

Cates says nothing. She hangs up angrily.

BOOKING
Hammond is working on the girls.
HAMMOND
Excuse me, ladies, you seem to be in need of assistance.

HOOKER TWO
Look, we got enough problems, we don't need no tight-ass court-appointed lawyer trying to bullshit us!

HAMMOND
Sweetheart, I'm not trying to bullshit you. I don't know whether or not you ladies heard but the city is coming down real hard on people practicing unlawful carnal knowledge.

HOOKER ONE
So what are you trying to say, fella?

HAMMOND
I'm trying to say that you're not just walk in that courtroom and get gonna slapped with a $50 fine and be back on the street turning tricks tonight. You both are going to do some time. About 30 days each... Unless, of course, we talk real business.

HOOKER TWO
So where do you want to do it, honey? You wanna hop up on the counter?

HAMMOND
No, we can go to the back room.

Cates walks over and pulls him by the shoulder.

CATES
We're on the move. Let's go. As they walk toward a corridor.

HAMMOND
Do you know how close I was to getting some trim. And you fucked' it up.
CATES
Yeah, well, my ass bleeds for you. And I didn't get you out so you could go on a Goddamn "trim" hunt... stop moaning.

HAMMOND
Speakin' of moans my Stomach is startin' to growl.

CATES
We eat when I say we eat.

HAMMOND
Bullshit ... I ain't moving till I get something to eat. You've been treating me like shit ever since I came out here. If you don't like it, you can take me back to the penitentiary and kiss my hungry black ass good-bye. And I want some food some place nice. Some good people, nice music...

CATES
Yeah, I'm hungry too. I know of a place. Let's go eat.

HAMMOND
Yeah, I want mandolins, flowers... They move off down the corridor.

TRANSITION.

UNDERGROUND PARKING LOT - NIGHT

INT. POLICE HEADQUARTERS

Cates and Hammond at a candy machine. Cates drops in a quarter, throws Hammond a candy bar...

CATES
There's your God-damn dinner. Now, let's go.
They move toward a row of parked cars.

AT THE CADDY

HAMMOND
Who'd you call on the phone back at the booking station?

CATES
Just get in the car and keep your mouth shut.

Hammond gets in the car as Cates readjusts Elaine's scarf on the mirror.

HAMMOND
Must of been your lady friend...

Cates frowns at him.

HAMMOND
(continuing)
You really do have one, huh, Jack... what's her problem besides you?

CATES
She's got the same complaint as half the Goddamn population. She can't get the job she's trained for and it pisses her off...
Anyway, what the fuck do you care?

Cates climbs in behind the wheel of the Cadillac.

HAMMOND
No, man, tell me about her. In jail they got me surrounded by guys wearin' blue suits twenty-four hours a day. And I ain't built for that. Really? With the clothes you got on you look like you'd love it.

Cates takes a belt from his flask.
CATES

Now, where we goin', convict?

HAMMOND
Mission District. Gonna find us an Indian.

Cates starts the motor, slams it into gear. Accelerates out to the street.

TRANSITION.

EXT. CITY STREET NIGHT

Cates and Hammon booming along in the Caddy.

HAMMOND
Come on, Jack. I want to hear about your girl. When were you with her last... You get what I mean?

Smiles. Cates smiles back at him, almost cruelly

CATES
I don't give out the details.

HAMMOND
Last night, two nights ago, three?

Cates keeps smiling.

CATES
Last night.

HAMMOND
You have a good time?

Pained expression on Cates' face as he comes back to reality.

CATES
Sure. Then we had a fight this morning.

HAMMOND
At least you took care of business and got the important part in before she came down on you...Tell me a little about her. She got great tits?

Cates gives him a hard look.

CATES
I get the feeling it's going to be real long night.

They keep driving.

TRANSITION.

MISSION DISTRICT - STREET - NIGHT

The Cadillac drives slowly past a bar called Torchie's.
Stop at the end of the block.

CATES
Well?

HAMMOND
It's a long shot, but...Billy used to tend bar here a few years back.
I heard him talk about it.

CATES
This part of town, they'll make us for heat the second we walk in.
Just back me up like you've got a piece...

HAMMOND
Back you up? Now why would I wanna do that?

CATES
If they kick my ass, they'll sure as hell carve yours up...

HAMMOND
But you can handle it all right, huh? Real amazin' how far a gun and a badge can carry some cats...
Cates

Bullshit. Attitude and experience get you through...

Cates and Hammond step out, glance toward the bar.

Hammond

I been in a lot of bars where a white cop rousted me and some of the brothers. All those clowns ever had going for 'em was a gun and a badge...

Cates

You need five years training to handle a joint like...

Hammond's had enough of this debate.

Hammond

Hey, you wanna bet?

Cates

I got two problems. Number one, I'm not playin' games. Number two, you got nothin' to bet with.

Hammond

If we come outta this joint with Ganz' phone number, or a dead Indian, or anything else useful, then you could turn the other way for half an hour while I get laid...

Cates

Why? Anybody that talks about women as much as you do probably can't get it up anyway.

Hammond

That's never been one of my problems.

Now, stop stallin', man, or else admit all this professional stuff you're talkin' about is a crock of shit.

CATES
I'll tell you what happens if you lose... you tell the truth for once.

HAMMOND
What are you talkin' about?

CATES
You tell me what Ganz busted out for, he's after a lot more than just gettin' out of jail. And whatever it is, you're part of it.

HAMMOND
I don't know what you're talking about. I just wanna see Ganz nailed.

CATES
The bet's off.

Hammond thinks it over..

HAMMOND
Okay, if I lose, I'll tell you anything you want to know...

Cates reaches into his pocket.

CATES
I'm gonna enjoy this ... here, I'll even loan you my badge.

HAMMOND
I thought you said bullshit and experience are all it takes.

He takes the badge anyway as they head for the entrance.

TORCHIE'S WESTERN BAR

They step inside. Hammond reacts to...

REDNECK CITY

Longhorns mounted over the bar, Rebel Flags, Lone Star Beer, armadillo posters. Even the waitresses wear Stetsons. Rockabilly pounding from the jukebox. A Cowgirl Stripper is doing the grind on a small podium.

HAMMOND
This place don't seem real popular with the brothers.

CATES
My kind of place. I always liked country boys.

Cates smiles, finds a table in the corner. A Cowgirl comes over to take his order.

HAMMOND
Takes a deep breath, moves toward the bar. Smiles at the good ol' boys. They don't smile back. He sits down at the bar.

BARTENDER
Yeah.

HAMMOND
Vodka.

BARTENDER
Maybe you better have a Black Russian.

HAMMOND
No, man, I think I'll have a vodka.

Hammond looks around the room.

THE BARTENDER
places a glass in front of him, picks up the dollar as Hammond flashes Cates' shield.

HAMMOND
You know a big Indian named Billy Bear? He used to work here.
The Bartender shakes his head, gives him a scowl.

BARTENDER
Never heard of him.

Hammond lifts the shot glass and throws it through the mirror behind the bar. Sudden silence throughout the room.

HAMMOND
Now how's your memory doin'?

BARTENDER
Fuck off. I don't know what the hell you're talkin' about.

HAMMOND
Maybe I better ask around, see what your pals think.

BARTENDER
I don't give a shit who you ask.

The Bartender walks down toward Cates.

HAMMOND
Moves away from the bar. He stops at a booth occupied by FOUR COWBOY PUNKS, pulls one a very big man. Hammond grabs him by the arm and him up.

HAMMOND
Up against the wall, cowboy.

The Punk breaks free, aims a massive haymaker at Hammond.

Gets a right to the stomach for his trouble.

HAMMOND
(continuing)
Now, I said get over there by that wall ... You hear me, motherfucker...

Looks at the others.

HAMMOND
(continuing)
Move it, rednecks. On your feet...

He grabs the next by the arm, yanks him up.

HAMMOND
(continuing)
Over there...move your ass. Some of you rednecks seem a little hard of hearing, so I'll repeat it for everybody... I need word on the whereabouts of an Indian that goes by the name of Billy Bear. It's a police matter and you all look like you'd just love to cooperate...

CATES Quietly sips his beer. The other occupants of the bar watch Hammond herd the four Punks to the end wall.

A BIG COWBOY

when Hammond isn't looking, he dashes toward the exit, Cates puts out a leg. Sends the Cowboy crashing into a crowdedtable.

HAMMOND

Turns around at the noise.

HAMMOND
(continuing)
That wasn't necessary, buddy. I got this under control.

CATES
Some of us citizens are with you all the way, Officer.
The Redneck Punks are now spread-eagled against the wall. Hammond searches the first. He drops a wallet on the floor and moves to the second. A switchblade, some credit cards and another wallet fall to the floor. The last Punk has only a roll of bills. Hammond holds the money up to his face.

HAMMOND

You're in trouble, big trouble, so you better start talking. Where'd a boy like you make a score like this?

PUNK

It's mine, what the hell...

HAMMOND

You must a rolled somebody. They don't let punks like you take jobs that pay this much ... you sure you don't know a dangerous Indian, because unless you start talkin' I may just have to start looking down your pants with a flashlight...

PUNK

What kind of cop are you, anyway?

HAMMOND

I am your most terrible nightmare ... a bad nigger with a badge that entitles him to kick your ass...

Hammond turns to the Bartender...

HAMMOND

(continuing)

One of them is under-age. Another attacked a police officer. And you know I ain't found what I came lookin' here for yet...

Walks back to the Bartender.
HAMMOND
(continuing)
The tall one had a weapon ... you want me to keep on makin' a list, or you got the picture yet?

He reaches for a towel under a pyramid of bar glasses.

Jerks

the towel, the pyramid capsizes onto the floor. Huge crash as the glasses break into a million fragments.

HAMMOND
(continuing) Looks like you're on your way to bein' outta business, redneck...
Now, let's see what can we fuck with next?

The Bartender doesn't have the look of a happy man.

BARTENDER
Okay, okay. The Indian hangs out with a girl down the block. Right where Chinatown starts. She lives on top of the hardware store.

Hammond turns, grins at Cates. As far as he's concerned, he's won the bet. Cates nods, slips out the door.

HAMMOND
I don't give a damn about his girl...

BARTENDER
Look, give me a break, you're going to have to settle for her place. It's the only thing I know.

He looks desperate.

BARTENDER
(continuing)
I'm tellin' ya, I'm giving you all
I know.

HAMMOND
Try obeyin' the law once in awhile, and I won't have to hassle you...
Turns to go, then turns back.

HAMMOND
(continuing)
But remember this, cowboy, there's a new sheriff in town.

Smiles, turns and goes.

TRANSITION.

STREET - ACROSS FROM TORCHIE'S - NIGHT

Hammond steps out of the bar. He crosses to Cates by the car.

CATES
I think you got something for me.

Pause.

CATES
(continuing)
The gun you took off that redneck in there.

Hammond smiles.

HAMMOND
You made that move, huh?

CATES
While you're at it, You can give me the switchblade, too.

Hammond reluctantly takes out a .22 automatic, slams it down on the hood of the car.

CATES
(continuing) Credit cards?

Hammond hands them over with the knife.

HAMMOND
You already got a gun and you owe me a piece of ass. I'll settle for the gun you just took.

A long moment. Then Cates slowly lifts the .22 automatic.

CATES
You did a real good job... Guess you deserve a reward.

Removes the clip. Throws it across the street. Hands the automatic.

HAMMOND
Motherfucker.

He throws the gun away.

CATES
I sure am. Now let's go get us an Indian.

They walk up the block.

TRANSITION.

STREET - CHINATOWN - NIGHT

Neon signs with Sino lettering.

CATES AND HAMMOND

Walk down the street, spot a shop with a window display of tools. Look up at the darkened apartment windows. They to the end of the block.

ALLEY

Stairwells lead to each apartment above the shops. Cates and Hammond move along the buildings... Arrive at the back hardware store. Quietly, they start to ascend the STAIRWELL

The metal steps extend onto a platform by the back door. Cates leans over the railings to look through the adjacent window. Between the drawn curtains, a flickering glimmer from a TV set. On the tube, various poses from stridently exercising women.

HAMMOND
What the shit is that?

Looks again. A female form passes by, goes out of the room.

CATES
There.

HAMMOND
Must be billy's girl.

CATES
Come on.

DOORWAY

Cates gestures to the door lock. Hammond fiddles with it for several moments. The door swings open. They step into a darkened room.

APARTMENT

Cates takes the .38 from his pocket. He stops near the open bedroom doorway. He looks at Hammond and then both men quickly into the room.

CATES
Police! Nobody move!

Hammond reaches for the light switch. Takes a heavy blow. Slumps against the door. A Woman's voice screams out.
The light goes on. Cates' gun points at a YOUNG WOMAN in a flimsy dressing gown. Saturday Night Special held between her palms, police style... A SECOND WOMAN stands beside Hammond at the light switch. Larger and slightly older than the first, she wears a man's shirt. Holds a baseball bat in her right hand.

SALLY
You better drop it or he's gonna get another one.

HAMMOND
Hey, talk to here jack. I don't feel like gettin' number two along side of the head.

CATES
I said police. Now drop the goddamn gun.

CASEY
Don't give me that police shit. You drop it.

Pause.

CATES
Okay, look, don't shoot. I'm just reachin' for my badge.

Cates takes out his badge—Shows it to Casey.

CASEY
I don't like this bullshit. I've seen fake badges before.

HAMMOND
I'll tell you something lady, this guy is a real nervous cop - He's just liable to pull the trigger.

Cates takes two steps toward Casey...

CATES
Naw, I'm the calm type. I know you don't want me to shoot you, and I know that you don't want to shoot me.

He takes two more steps toward her.

CATES
(continuing)
Shooting a cop puts you away for a long time.

Holds out his hand.

CASEY
You assholes better be real.

She hands Cates the gun. Sally prods Hammond with the baseball bat.

SALLY
Just wait a Goddamn second here, let's see your badge...

He snatches the bat out of her hands.

HAMMOND
Don't have one.

SALLY
I knew it. Call the cops.

Casey walks over to the phone.

CATES
Tell them it's Cates, Detective 31st District. Then put your clothes on. If you don't answer some questions I'm taking both your asses in.

After a moment, Casey puts down the phone.

CATES
(continuing)
Now, let's cut out the crap, which one of you sees Billy Bear?
SALLY
None of your business, cop. The son of a bitch isn't here, and he isn't coming back.

CATES
You can do better than that.

Turns to Casey.

CATES
(continuing)
How about it?

CASEY
I used to go with him...I don't know where the hell he is. I haven't seen him for two weeks. And I don't think I will. He owes me money...

SALLY
He's a Goddamn lowlife, the way he treated her.

CATES
Sounds like a real stormy romance.

CASEY
I don't much care what it sounds like to you, Cop. All I know is that I went a few laps around the track with him and I ended up with nothin' but the short end of the stick.

Cates looks over at Hammond.

CATES
Let's go.

HAMMOND
Wait a minute. Maybe these ladies would like to go a few laps with us. How about it? I been nearly three years in prison and...

SALLY
Fuck off.

CATES
Come on...

Hannond starts for the door with Cates.

CASEY
If you find that bastard, Billy, tell him to stay out of my life. I don't need any more of his macho bullshit.

TRANSITION.

STREET CHINATOWN - NIGHT

The two men walk among the bright neon lights. Neither of them very happy.

CATES
This sucks. A maniac gets hold of my gun and goes all over the streets killing people with it. So, instead of me being where I oughta be, which is in bed giving my girl the high, hard one, I'm out here doing this shit, roaming around with some overdressed, charcoal-colored loser like you.

HAMMOND
You wanna leave, man? Let me take care of Ganz all by myself.

CATES
You? Don't make me laugh. You can't take care of shit. You've been dicking me around since we started on this turd-hunt. All you're good for is games... So far, what I got outta you is nothin'...

HAMMOND
I'm impressed with you too, Jack you did a real good job of busting up a couple of dykes bedded down for the night.

CATES
Luther knew more than he told me and so do you...Now you better tell we what the fuck this is all about. I gave you 48 hours to come up with something and the clock's runnin' ...

A long look at Hammond.

HAMMOND
Maybe I don't like the way you ask.

CATES
Who gives a Goddamn what you think? You're just a crook that's got a weekendpass ... You're not even a name anymore. Just a spear-chucker with a Goddamn number stenciled on the back of his prison fatigues...

They walk past.

TRANSITION.

STREET ACROSS FROM TORCHIE'S - NIGHT

They two men walk toward the Cadillac.

CATES
Okay, Reggie, I'm done playing around. I want to know what's going on and I'm going to beat the living shit out of you until you tell me.
Hammond goes into a street rap.

HAMMOND

You beat the shit out of me?
Don't make me laugh, sucker. You don't know how I'd dance on your face? I'll hit you so hard, so many times, you'll wish you'd never been hatched. I'll turn your face into cottage cheese.
I'll make your girl think you been takin' ugly pills. She won't even know who you are, sucker.

They stop by the car. Cates takes the gun out, lays it on the hood. Hammond stares at him. Cates next takes out his wallet, shows Hammond his badge, then lays the badge on the car fender... Smiles.

CATES

I guess the first thing I ought, to explain to you, nigger, is I fight dirty.

Hits Hammond a tremendous right hand full in the face.
Hammond sags, grabs onto the car fender for support.

Cates hesitates ... and Hammond kicks out, sending the partially open car door slamming into Cates. Cates sprawls.

HAMMOND

So do I.

Hammond aims a kick at Cates' head. Cates blocks it with crossed forearms, grabs, twists. Hammond tumbles, rolls away from Cates. Both men struggle to their feet, circle each other.

Hammond moves in only to receive twoquick blows from a bit sooner than he expected. Cates smiles.

Hammond dances in and out... Cates' breathing becomes Cates labored. His windmill attack penetrates Cates' defense. clears his head, charges, bull-like ... His rush and bulk send both of them crashing into some trash cans and brick wall.

Hammond is faster...

Cates is much stronger; Both men on their knees. They look at one another. Silently, they move to their feet.
Hammond's back is to a wall... Cates keeps him there, negates the lighter man's agility. They slug away, each now arm-Exchange a dozen blows. Finally, Cates steps back, arms his side... Breath coming like a bellows...

Hammond has to hold on to the wall; one more punch would put him out.

CATES
Now, you bastard, you going to tell me what's going on...

Puffing away.

CATES
(continuing)
... Do I have to kick the shit out of you some more.

They stand facing one another. Hammond smiles. A black-and-white comes roaring up the street. Sirens howling, red flashing, it slides to a stop. TWO UNIFORMED COPS jump guns drawn.

FIRST COP
All right, you two. Don't move.
CATES
NO, no...it's okay...I'm police.

SECOND COP
Yeah, sure. Get your hands above your head.

He keeps his gun trained on Cates, and Hammond.

CATES
My gun and badge are over there. And I'm too fucking tired to raise my hands...

Hammond rubs the side of his face. Cates falls back against the patrol car. Still fighting for breath. The First Cop lifts Cates' wallet off the Cadillac and looks at his badge, shows it to the other cop.

FIRST COP
What the hell's going on here?

Cates walks over, pockets his gun.

SECOND COP
I've got a burglary call. Two women say a couple of hoods broke into their place posing as cops.

CATES
I was following a lead. We roused them... Go up and sweet talk 'em. You can straighten it out.

The First Cop checks out Cates' badge and I.D.

FIRST COP
Why don't you do it? We got better things to do than straighten out your messes.

CATES
So do I. I'll file a report tomorrow.

The First Cop takes out his book, starts writing. He's pissed.

FIRST COP
I gotta file a..Report tonight asshole...

CATES
Goes with the territory.

He grabs Hammond and they head for the Cadillac.

TRANSITION.

ALL-NIGHT GAS STATION

Cadillac parked behind the service area.

RESTROOM

Hammond looks' up at his bruised face in the mirror, then washes up. Cates is one step ahead of him. He rolls up a piece of the wet towel and inserts it over his bleeding gum.

HAMMOND
Too bad we got interrupted when we did. I was getting ready to finish you off.

Cates straightens up from the wash basin.

CATES
Yeah, right. You want to try again?

HAMMOND
Naw, you'd just call your pals back to bail you out one more time.

CATES
They saved your ass, convict.
HAMMOND
One thing's for sure, Jack.
That's how you'll tell the story.

Cates dries off his face, starts out of the washroom.

CATES
I'll even put it in my report that way.

The door closes behind Cates. Hammond leans back toward the mirror, nudges a tooth with his finger.

HAMMOND
Motherfucker.

GAS STATION PARKING LOT

Cates leans on the Cadillac as Hammond emerges. Hammond starts for the passenger side.

CATES
Wait a minute.

Hammond stops.

CATES
(continuing)
You come clean or we're going to go again. Right here, right now.

Pause.

A long moment; Hammond decides be has no choice.

HAMMOND
I been waiting a long time for some money.

CATES
How much?

HAMMOND
Half a million.

CATES
Jesus.

Hammond smiles his meanest smile.
HAMMOND
How's that for a number to give you heart failure? Guess you might start to get the picture after all. Maybe you're on the wrong side of the old law and order business..

Cates is unmoved.

CATES
Just tell me about the money.

HAMMOND
Me and my bunch hit a dealer in the middle of a sale. It's the kind of money nobody ever reports stolen. I was sittin' pretty, livin' in the high cotton, then somebody fingered me for another job. ... Some psycho who's out there capping people with some cop's gun.

CATES
He's after your money.

HAMMOND
You catch on real fast...Okay, Jack, let's talk deal. How much of my money you gonna let me keep?

Cates just looks at him.

HAMMOND
(continuing)
We split 50-50?

CATES
Not likely, convict.

HAMMOND
You gonna let me keep any of it?

CATES
Depends on how things work out. I believe in the merit system. So far you haven't built up any points.

He smiles.

HAMMOND
Okay, from now on, I'm gonna be real good, Jack.

Cates smiles back.

CATES
Where's the money?

HAMMOND
In the trunk of a car. A lot better than under a mattress, right?

Cates smiles.

CATES
Right, partner.

HAMMOND
Get this. We ain't partners. We ain't brothers. We ain't friends. If Ganz gets away with my money, you're gonna be sorry we ever met.

CATES
Yeah. Right.

They get into the Caddy. Boom away.

TRANSITION.

The Cadillac moving through the city... Clock on the dashboard showing 4 a.m. Cates at the wheel.

CATES
(continuing)
Where's the goddamn car?

HAMMOND
You're a real case, you know that, Jack?
Smiles.

HAMMOND
(continuing)
This'll show you how smart I am. I got it parked.

CATES
...For three years? Let's hope it wasn't a tow-away zone.

HAMMOND
You just drove by it.

The Cadillac makes a screeching U-turn, swings into the curb.

Cates leans out, looks at...

PARKING BUILDING

Narrow, multi-storied, with a garage-like opening and signals... proclaiming 'Weekly-Monthly-Long Term.'

CADILLAC

CATES
Okay, now what?

Hammond gets out of the car.

Stands on the sidewalk.

Stretches.

Then gets into the back seats.

HAMMOND
Since you're wired on benniest you get to stay up and stare at the building. I'm tired, so I'm going to sleep. They take Sunday off. Place opens at seven o'clock Monday morning. Wake me up at a quarter till...
Cates stares at the place.

CATES
You son of a bitch. You knew where the money was all along and all we had to do was come here and wait. I almost got my ass blown off twice tonight for nothing.

HAMMOND
I wasn't sure the money was still there until we saw Luther. You almost got your ass shot off for nothing once, not twice, Jack.

CATES
Shit.

THE CITY
Beyond the skyline, grey streaks of dawn etch the sky.

TRANSITION.
The Cadillac is pulled up facing the streets down the block from the parking sections Cates walks in through the lot entrance. Threads his way between the lines of parked vehicles Tired and haggard, he carries a paper bag filled with quick-order food.

CADILLAC
Hammond stretches on the back seat. Cates slams the door shut.

CATES
I don't want you sleeping on the job.

Hammond yawns, eases himself into a sitting position.

HAMMOND
The place opens in five minutes.
Ganz ought to be here soon...

Cates tears the paper bag open. Passes a cup of coffee and donut back. He sips his own coffee, adds some whiskey from his flask... pops another bennie.

CATES
You took a big chance, leaving this here all this time.

HAMPSOND
Not really. I figured Ganz was put down for a long time. And I knew Luther would never job me on his own. He's too chickenshit.

CATES
Guess what? Luther just got in line.

Hammond sits up.

HAMPSOND
What?

CATES
Musta got some primo bondsman.

HAMPSOND
Jesus Christ. That's a disgrace. The guy pulls a gun on a cop and he's out in 24 hours. I tell you some of the courts these days are just a fucking revolving door.

INT. PARKING LOT BUILDING

Luther walks up to the window where a bored ATTENDANT reads a comic book.

ATTENDANT
Yeah?
LUTHER
I want to pick up my car.

He passes across a faded form.

ATTENDANT Name?

LUTHER Hammond.

The Attendant examines the form, surprised.

ATTENDANT
This is three years old.

LUTHER
Yeah, I've been busy.

The Attendant opens a key file, begins rummaging in it.

ATTENDANT
We don't wash 'em, ya know.

LUTHER
How about chargin' the battery?

ATTENDANT
That we do. And we put air in the tires. I'll even sell you some gas if you need it.

LUTHER
Great, just great.

The Attendant finds the key, exits the booth. Luther follows to an elevated stack of cars. The Attendant throws a switch, and the stack of cars begins to move.

STREET
Luther drives down the exit ramp in a dated Porsche convertible.

The car is covered with a uniform coat of dust, except for the windshield which has been wiped hastily clean. Luther waits for a break in the flow of traffic, drives out.
Another street

Luther turns onto a side street and then suddenly Cate's Cadillac appears ... starts to tail the Porsche.

CADILLAC

Cates follows Luther through several turns.

The Porsche jerks whenever it speeds up or slows down.

HAMMOND

Jesus Christ, look at all the dust on my car...why in the hell don't he take it to a car wash?

CATES

Didn't know you darker people went in for foreign jobs.

HAMMOND

I had no choice. Some white asshole bought the last piece of shit skyblue Cadillac.

ANOTHER STREET

The Caddy follows the Porsche.

INT. CADDY

As they follow Luther.

CATES

You'd think the guy'd be smart enough to know he was being tailed.

HAMMOND

Tryin' to save his girl, man. He's in another world.

CATES

If I was his size and had Ganz on my ass, I'd just leave town.

HAMMOND

I'm tellin' you the man's in love... he wants to be a hero for his girl.

CATES

Oh, yeah, does bein' in love make you stupid?

ANOTHER STREET

The Caddy follows the Porsche.

As they follow Luther.

CATES

I suppose you'd never be like Luther and let a woman get to you...

HAMMOND

I let women get to me. The quest for pussy is the meaning of life ... I got my own personal philosophy about 'em. Keep women separate from guns, money and business ... women are for spending money. They got nothing to do with helping you make it.

CATES

That ain't philosophy. That's common sense.

ANOTHER STREET

The Caddy follows the Porsche.

INT. CADDY

As they follow Luther.

HAMMOND

Say, do you always work people over like you did Luther?

CATES

If they don't tell me what I need to know...

HAMMOND
Doesn't it get... Tiring?

CATES
I'm not in this 'cause it's fun.
I'm not into hitting guys 'cause it makes me feel good either... I do it 'cause it works-...

HAMMOND
You got a very depressing view of life, man... you gotta smile once in awhile...

ANOTHER STREET

The Caddy follows the Porsche.

INT. CADDY

As they follow Luther.

CATES
Maybe Luther hopes Ganz'll give him a piece of your money...

HAMMOND
If he's hoping that then he's dumber than I think he is, which would be amazin', cause I already think he's real dumb.

ANOTHER STREET

The Caddy follows the Porsche.

INT. CADDY

As they follow Luther.

HAMMOND
A long time ago Luther must of got the shit beat out of him so bad it just rattled his brain ... that would account for him making so many wrong moves in a row...

CATES
Yeah, it doesn't look like he's gonna make it as a dangerous tough guy...

ANOTHER STREET
The Caddy follows the Porsche.

INT. CADDY
As they follow Luther,

HAMMOND
You know, I'd be embarrassed if I let my wheels go the way you've done with this job.

CATES
What you don't understand is, I don't give a damn about how this thing looks.

HAMMOND
No class...

CATES
Class isn't somethin' you buy, punk. Look at you, five hundred dollar suit and you're still a lowlife.

ANOTHER STREET
The Caddy follows the Porsche.

INT. CADDY
As they follow Luther.

HAMMOND
We're getting too close ... Cates, what's the matter, you been takin' dumb pills?
CATES
Yeah, most cops are pretty dumb...
But since you're the one that landed in jail what's that make you?

ANOTHER STREET
Luther pulls over to curb and parks.

CADILLAC
suddenly swings over several lanes of traffic and parks in driveway of parking lot.

LUTHER - CATES & HAMMOND'S P.O.V.
He goes to the trunk. Rummages there ... picks up a flaming red suit.

INT. CADILLAC

CATES
That Goddamn suit is yours?

Hammond winces.

HAMMOND
That was in style a couple years back, man.

CATES Right. if you ever switch from armed robbery to pimping, then you're all set.

Under the suit is a nondescript attache case. Luther takes it, closes the trunk. Beads down the sidewalk.

CADILLAC

HAMMOND
That's the money, Jack.

They jump out of the car, follow on foot.
STREET

Luther hurries along the sidewalk.
He reaches the corner, turns quickly...

CATES AND HAMMOND

Following a little way behind.
They pause at the corner, watching the pedestrian move by. Then turn down the cross street after Luther. Follow him down a stairwell.

SUBWAY STATION - LOBBY

Escalators and open stairwells. Luther enters and pauses by the doorway. Commuters crowd the counters and congregate near the stairwells. More people are seated along hard plastic seats. But no Ganz. And no Billy.

Luther moves further into the station. Cates and Hammond enter. They keep Luther fixed between them, 50 feet ahead. Luther seems to be wandering. He walks through the shop area and back toward the escalator. Hammond remains near the arcade while Cates blends in with the commuters. Luther puts the briefcase down at his feet and leans against a counter. Next to him, a loud troop of Boy Scouts marches by. A crowd of people from the train area below flows through the lobby obscuring Luther from Hammond and Cates for a moment. Cates moves out to get a better view and suddenly spots Ganz through the crowd toward Luther. Be looks over at across the station and motions. Then they both start moving in on Ganz, trying to intercept him before he gets deeper into the crowd.

Ganz moves cautiously through the station. A crumpled newspaper held absently in his hand. He scans the faces of the commuters and spots Luther. Fails to notice Cates and Hammond closing in on him from two directions.

A PATROLMAN comes up. Starts chatting amiably with a Boy Scout next to Luther. Ganz hesitates in his approach. He motions Luther to move away, but Luther starts to panic when he sees Cates and Hammond closing in...

Ganz reacts to Luther, turns and spots the two men. He makes an immediate break for open ground. The Patrolman sees him start to run. The newspaper is thrown to the floor...

Ganz swings Cates' .44 toward Hammond.

PATROLMAN

Hey--you!

Ganz whirls, his feet slipping on the marble floor. His shot at Hammond goes plowing into the ceiling. The crowd starts to panic and run in all directions.

The Patrolman has already brought his own gun out. Levels it at Ganz.

PATROLMAN

(continuing)
Put it down.

BILLY BEAR

Suddenly appears, Rosalie at his side. Billy Bear's .44 blasts the Patrolman onto his back.
Ganz comes up and scrambles through the screaming patrons. He, Billy and Rosalie head toward the escalator. Cates has already brought out his .38... Can't get a clean shot through the chaos.

Hammond pushes his way through the crowd to Cates.

HAMMOND
Shoot the sons of bitches.

Cates can't risk it...

HAMMOND
(continuing)
You don't want to chance it, then give me the gun...

A moment.

HAMMOND
(continuing)
Bullshit. Then i'm staying with the money.

CATES
You stay with me...

HAMMOND
No way...

Hammond starts after Luther. Cates turns, starts to aim at Hammond. Hesitates...

PASSENGER WALKWAY

Panic has overtaken everyone as they try to escape the madman with the gun.

Ganz and Billy elbow and kick their way through the crowd, tugging Rosalie along...

Cates, gun in hand, creates further-panic as he moves after Ganz.
Ganz grabs a man beside him.

Shoves him hard into the passengers in back.

The man knocks over several more people creating a roadblock.

Ganz vaults over the railing and starts for the trains. Cates loses a few more precious seconds grappling through the terrorized passengers...

TRAIN AREA

The usually jammed area looks like an empty stockyard. The patrons huddle in fear against any available wall. Cates bursts out of the stairwell...

TUNNEL

Red and green signal lights. The light goes red, a train roars up and the doors hiss open.

Billy and Ganz fight through the passengers getting off the train, jump on board; Billy pulls Rosalie behind him.

CATES

Running for the doors...

Suddenly, a SECURITY OFFICER appears, riot gun in hand.

SECURITY OFFICER

Freeze!

CATES

No! No! There they are!

SECURITY OFFICER

Just put it down real slow.

The train doors close.

CATES

I'm a policeman, you asshole!
SECURITY OFFICER
Don't even try... now drop it or - you're all done.

He means it, points the riot gun even closer... The train in front of him moves away.

Cates carefully places the .38 on the pavement. Then raises his hands in the air.

CATES
Shit.

TRAIN STATION - LOBBY
Witnesses stand in nervous little knots. Give versions of what happened to notepad-toting patrolmen. Hospital Attendants minister to various and sundry complaints.

Cates sits on a passenger bench, obviously dejected. A voice comes echoing from behind.

HADEN
Cates.

Haden, silhouetted against the light from the street.

HADEN
(continuing)
What the hell happened?

CATES
I lost them, that's what happened.

HADEN
How did they get away?

CATES
They ran. As fast as they could. Caught a train.
Haden watches the Morgue Personnel wheel out the body of Patrolman.

HADEN
Which one pulled the trigger?

CATES
The Indian. I was about 30 yards away.

HADEN
You couldn't get to him?

Cates shrugs.

HADEN
(continuing)
What a screw-up.

CATES
Right. I screwed up. I fucked up. I messed up. Anybody could have done better, especially you. I bet you're real good at hitting targets through crowds.

Haden starts toward the street. Looks back at Cates.

HADEN
Don't duck the bullet Cates. Why didn't you call in for backup instead of makin' a grandstand play?

CATES
I didn't have the time.

HADEN
Too bad, it would've covered your ass. Now you're in the shit and so's the department. In case you haven't noticed, this wasn't our finest hour... I told you everyone was watchin' on this one. Maybe you better start thinkin' about writin' tickets off a three wheel bike.

Cates looks at Haden for a moment...

Turns and walks away.

TRANSITION.

PREDMORE HOTEL - NIGHT

Hammond across the street from Predmore.

Standing in a phone booth talking into the receiver...

He turns and looks again at the hotel...

Hangs up.

Walks into a nearby bar.

TRANSITION.

VROMAN'S ROCK CLUB

HAMMOND

Punk Dancers all over the floor.

A rock group blasting away...("NEW SHOES" - Vocal)

HAMMOND

At a back booth...

A MAN (SOSNA) approaches carrying a small suitcase.

HAMMOND

How you doing, man?

SOSNA

Not bad, not bad.

Puts the suitcase down on the table.

SOSNA

(continuing)
You want to go outside?

HAMMOND

Naw, right here's okay.

Dancers sliding and jerking in front of them.

SOSNA

You sure?

HAMMOND

I'm sure. Everybody here's looking at everybody else's ass.

Sosna pops open the suitcase. Lid shielding the contents from the patrons...

SOSNA

I got some real nice merchandise.
All of it's clean.

Suitcase arranged like a salesman's display case. Tightly spaced rows of handguns mounted in their holsters.

HAMMOND

I like this one...

Pockets a revolver with a deft move.

HAMMOND

(continuing)
How about some ammo?

SOSNA

It's loaded... I got some shells in here.

Opens another compartment. Hammond helps himself to two boxes...

HAMMOND

How much?

SOSNA

This is clean shit. No serial numbers and never been used...

HAMMOND

Don't mess with me. How much?
SOSNA
Five bills.

HAMMOND
Five. On credit.

SOSNA
This ain't a credit business.

You know that.

HAMMOND
Yeah, I know that, but this is me and we're old friends. I haven't got the money so what are you gonna do about it?

SOSNA
Give it back.

HAMMOND
Try and take it.

A long moment.

SOSNA
Fuck you. You got no right for this kind of play.

HAMMOND
I'll got your money to you. No sweat.

Hammonds heads for the bar.

Stands next to a good-looking woman (RITA). Nods to the barkeep.

HAMMOND
(continuing)
Vodka. With a twist. And I want to run a tab.

Served up. He knocks half of it back, turns to the woman.

HAMMOND
My name's Reggie Hammond.

Big personality smile.

RITA
So what?

She turns away as he takes a drink. He looks at another pretty girl (ANGELA).

HAMMOND
Hi there. I'm Reggie Hammond.

ANGELA
I'm with somebody.

She turns away.

HAMMOND
This ain't my night.

He drinks up.

TRANSITION.

SQUAD ROOM - NIGHT

Several Detectives are working at desks. Kehoe walks into the office. He moves slowly to Cates' desk and slumps down in a nearby chair.

KEHOE
You look awful.

CATES
So do you...been a long day.

KEHOE
Long night, too, from what I heard ... Word's going around that in addition to losing Ganz for the second time, and in addition to Haden busting you back to Patrolman, some jig beat the crap out of you.

CATES
Aw, bullshit, you heard wrong.

KEHOE
Doesn't look like it.

CATES
Nothing came in for me yet? No calls?

KEHOE
Nothing.

Kehoe's phone begins to ring. Cates watches hopefully.

KEHOE
(continuing) Kehoe... Okay, hang on.

Offers the phone to Cates.

KEHOE
(continuing)
It's for you... Ordinance.

Cates' excitement vanishes. He takes the receiver. Kehoe begins to clean off his desk.

CATES
Hello... Yeah, okay. I'll be in tomorrow. That's right, you can depend on it. Okay?

He slams down the receiver, leans back in the chair.

CATES
(continuing)
Bullshit red tape.

KEHOE
I'm heading out. How about you?

Cates shakes his head.
I got to wait for a call.

KEHOE
Okay. See you in the morning... you know, you ought to get some rest...

He walks out the door. Cates stares fixedly at the phone on the desk. Hoping Hammond will call... Across the room another phone starts to ring. Cates stares at the PLAINCLOTHESMAN who answers.

PLAINCLOTHESMAN
Yeah, he's here.

Cates stiffens.

PLAINCLOTHESMAN
(continuing)
Cates... line twelve.

Cates snatches up the phone, shouts into it...

CATES
You motherfucker, where are you?

ELAINE
In the Chronicle Restaurant and Bar, a well appointed establishment off Montgomery Street.

ELAINE
I'm at work, asshole. Where else?

CATES
Elaine! I... I'm sorry... I was expecting somebody else... police business.

ELAINE
No wonder you're so popular.

CATES
No, it's I'm just surprised you called.
ELAINE
So am I.

ELAINE                CATES
Jack, this afternoon... Hey, look, when...

ELAINE
You first.

CATES
Look, I'm sorry about ... the way things have been lately. I know I haven't been acting real great...

Behind Cates, Kehoe steps back into the room.

KEHOE
Hey, Cates...

Cates swings around.

KEHOE  (continuing)
I almost forgot. That pal of yours from the Vice Squad wants you to call him.

CATES What?

ELAINE
Jack, are you still there?

KEHOE
Yeah. He said he roustied a bar with you last night.

CATES
Jesus Christ. Why the hell didn't you tell me before?

KEHOE
I'm not paid to take your personal calls. He was in some bar... off duty.

Cates interrupts.
CATES
The number ... what's the Goddamn number?

ELAINE
Jack? What was that?

KEHOE
Find it yourself. It's on my desk.

Cates speaks back into the receiver.

CATES
Elaine, I gotta put you on hold...

ELAINE
Jack, wait...

CATES
Just a second, that's all!

He hits the bold button, starts rummaging through the desk.

Paperwork scatters in all directions.

Kehoe watches him in silence for awhile then leaves.

Cates begins to dial.

CATES
(continuing)
Hammond... you son of a bitch, where are you?

Listens for a moment.

VROMAN'S ROCK CLUB

Hammond on the phone as the band rocks away.  (MONKEY MASH - Track only)

HAMMOND
Hey, Jack, how ya doin'? What took you so long to call, man? I been waitin' ... I'm at Vroman's up in the Fillmore. Yeah, Vroman's... 'Course you don't hang out here; it's for the brothers.

SQUAD ROOM
CATES
I'll be there in a minute. You don't move your ass, right?

Slams down the phone. Starts toward the door.

Remembers...

He dashes back to the phone, hits the other line. Hears only a buzz.

CATES (continuing)
Oh, shit.

TRANSITION.

VROMAN'S ROCK CLUB
Band blasting away on another number (THE BOYS ARE BACK IN TOWN - VOCAL)

Hammond now in the middle of the floor dancing his ass off with a girl named CANDY. As the song ends...

HAMMOND
My name's Reggie Hammond.

Tries his big personality smile.

This time gets one back.

CANDY
I'm candy...

HAMMOND
Excuse me, baby, but if i don't get some action tonight, I'm gonna bust. You interested?

CANDY
Hey, what kind of talk is that?

HAMMOND
Oh ... You're a schoolteacher...
CANDY
No, I go to a school to learn how to do hair. It's a government program. But really I want to be a model - and I am definitely not sellin'.

HAMMOND (humorously) Goodbye.

She stops him.

CANDY
Hey, don't you think a hair stylists got any interest in gettin' it on?

HAMMOND
Here you go sweetheart, throw it my way.

He gives her a kiss.

CANDY
You're in a hurry.

HAMMOND
Yeah, i been waiting three years.

CANDY
You just quit bein' a priest or somethin'?

HAMMOND
No, baby, nothin' like that. Look, there's a place across the street. We can go right over there...

CANDY
What's the matter with my place?

HAMMOND
No, it's gotta be here and now.
Believe me. Only I don't have the damn money for a room...

The band starts up again. ("LOVE SONGS ARE FOR CRAZIES" VOCAL)

CANDY
Yeah, well, even us non-pros expect the guy to pay for the room...

Cates suddenly appears... steps between them. Yells above the band's noise.

CATES Where's Luther?

HAMMOND
Be polite. Say hello. This is Candy.

CATES
Hello. And goodbye.

She looks at Hammond. He nods.

CANDY
Well, maybe I'll see you later...

HAMMOND
Here's hoping, baby...

Candy leaves and melts into the crowd on the dance floor.

CATES What about Luther?

HAMMOND
What about Ganz?

Cates shrugs.

CATES
We missed.

HAMMOND
You missed ... Luther took a taxi to the hotel across the street. Made a phone call.

CATES
Maybe we should pay Luther a visit.

HAMMOND
Let him get some sleep. He's going to need it.

They move to the bar.

HAMMOND
(continuing) They must have set up a meeting for the morning; Luther left an 8 am wake-up and put up the "Don't Disturb" sign. He's trading his girl for the money. All we have to do to grab Ganz is not go blind.

CATES
So you took the rest of the night off...

Hammond smiles.

HAMMOND
We don't have too many cheerleaders in prison. I though I might indulge myself in a little trim.

Cates orders two drinks.

CATES
Tell me something. Why didn't you just take the money off Luther and split?
HAMMOND
Forget it. I want Ganz as bad as you do and I got some other news for you...

He opens his jacket slightly. Reveals a shoulder holster and accompanying .45. A long moment.

CATES
I don't know why, but I'm going to let you keep it. Maybe because you told me you had it, or maybe just because I'm too tired to argue...

HAMMOND
You sure that's the reason?

Pause.

CATES
Thanks for callin' in... and I guess maybe. Look, I'm sorry I called you Watermelon nigger... those kinds of things. I was just leanin' on ya, doin' my job.

HAMMOND
Bein' good at your job don't explain everything, Jack...

CATES
Yeah. Guess not.

Hammond gives him a big smile.

HAMMOND
As long as you're feeling like Abe Lincoln, how about payin' me on our bet? We got time and all this pussy around here's drivin' me crazy. See that one over there, the one I was with...

He nods at Candy across the way.

CATES
Yeah, I see her.

HAMMOND
I can just take her right across the street to Luther's hotel. All I need is some money for the room.

HAMMOND (continuing)

Big smile as Cates produces some cash. Hammond counts it eagerly. Looks around. Candy suddenly appears like a trout seeing a lure. She grabs the money.

CANDY

Hello, again.

HAMMOND

I just struck it rich... I think we can do a little business. As a matter of fact, I think we can have a party.

Hammond smiles, leads her out of the bar.

CATES

Hurry back.

Cates watches them go, downs his drink. He fishes in his pocket for a coin, moves to a wall phone. Dials...

CHRONICLE RESTAURANT BAR - NIGHT

A COCKTAIL WAITRESS answers the phone as Elaine pours a drink.

COCKTAIL WAITRESS

It's for you.

Hands her the receiver.

ELAINE

Hello.

CATES

Hi, it's me...

ELAINE

Fuck you.
She slams down the receiver.

SIDEWALK - FRONT OF VROMAN'S - NIGHT

Hammond and Candy exit the rock club. A line of young Punkers waiting to get inside... Hammond and Candy are in a tight clinch, a little giggly.

CANDY

So... what did you have in mind?

Suddenly, Hammond sees Luther emerge from the Predmore across the street.

HAMMOND

Oh no, not now!

Luther moves down the street with the briefcase. Hammond pulls Candy back inside Vroman's.

VROMAN'S ROCK CLUB - BAR

Rock group still blasting away... (LOVE SONGS ARE FOR CRAZIES - Vocal continues)

Hammond and Candy reappear, knocking aside a waitress about to refill Cates' drink.

CATES

That was quick.

HAMMOND

When you been in prison three years, it don't take long. Let's go.

CATES

Why?

HAMMOND

Luther's on the move...
Cates jumps up, runs out. Hammond looks at Candy.

HAMMOND
(continuing)
I'll be back. Trust me.

He kisses her.

Runs off after Cates. She stares at him in disbelief.

STREET LIGHT
Luther checking over his shoulder for shadows, walks down the block. Turns into a narrow street.

A BUS STOP
Luther waits, impatient.
Checks his watch.
Looks up and down the street.
He double-checks the bus stop sign over his head.
Just as a bus pulls to a stop, air brakes hissing ...

LUTHER
Gets in.
Sees that the driver is Billy Bear...

BUS
The bus starts up. Luther hesitates in the front. On the wide rear seat is Ganz. Rosalie beside him.

GANZ
Open your coat. Both sides.

He shows he's not packed.
LUTHER Let her go.

GANZ
First, the money.

Luther takes a step.

GANZ
(continuing)
Just show me.

Luther puts the case on a side seat, opens it for display.

ANOTHER BUS STOP

Commuters look up expectantly. One of two drift toward the curb. Jump back in alarm as the bus roars by.

BUS

Ganz is satisfied. Luther closes the case.

LUTHER
Rosalie, you okay?

GANZ
What are you talkin' about? I said I wouldn't hurt her.

And then he shoots Luther. Right between the buttons.

GANZ
(continuing)
I never break my word.

Laughs as Rosalie begins to scream.

CATES' CADDY

Barreling down the street, ignoring red lights.

Hammond shouts over the wind.

HAMMOND
Notice something funny about that bus?

CATES
Yeah. It missed the last four stops.

Cates pours on the gas.

BILLY BEAR
His eyes fall on the rear view mirror. A white Caddy dances in the vibrating glass. Billy looks over his shoulder at Ganz.

BILLY
Ganz!

THE CADDY
Swerves into cross traffic, makes a big press forward. Comes abreast of the driver's side of the bus.

GANZ
Smashes a side window with the two handguns. Blasts away. Cates driving with one hand as he draws his gun.

CATES
Looks up as glass shards sparkle down. He speeds up ... he is neck and neck with the bus. Hammond has a clear shot of Billy Bear who gives a side glance at him;

Hammond doesn't shoot...

Cates slows down and fires...

Billy is hit in the shoulder. Ganz runs up and fires again...

Hammond is hit in the arm. Cates grabs Hammond by the shirt. Yanks him close. Throws the wheel over ...

CADDY
Swerves as bullets pepper the passenger side. Stuffing flies out of Hammonds still warm seat. The right hand windows explode. Then the Caddy spins out.

THE BUS
Roars away...

THE CADDY
Skids into a traffic sign, demolishing some newspaper machines. Cates curses, tries to start the car. The engine won't turn over. He looks at the distant bus.

CATES
Goddamn! Goddamn! Goddamn!
Pounds on the dash. What's left of the windshield falls in at the impact.

TRANSITION.
SQUAD ROOM - NIGHT
Cates at his desk. Hammond seated nearby, now with a bandaged arm. Haden in front of Cates, furious.

HADEN
A bus, you goddamn whiskey mick cop, you lost a stolen bus... We got five deaths related to Ganz, all of 'em law enforcement related, and you blow it for a lousy nigger convict...

Cates says nothing...

HADEN
(continuing)
That's rights I called him a nigger. You bet I did ... I saw the report on that little piece of shit. If he spent one legal day in his whole life, it'd be a record... This is it for you... suspension, review board... you've had it. When it gets 'round you protect a con rather than nail a cop killer...

Cates stands up.

CATES
He's got more brains and more guts in one corner of his asshole than any cop I've worked with.

HADEN
Just cause you say it with conviction don't mean shit to me... How you gonna take to a pink slip, huh?.

Cates stands. Moves to Hammond. Handcuffs himself to him.

HADEN
(continuing)
Where the Christ do you think you're going?

CATES
I'm taking my prisoner back to jail.

Hammond looks at Haden.

HAMMOND
Goin' a little hard on him, aren't you?

HADEN
Go fuck yourself convict.
HAMMOND
You know for a man, you have very pretty brown eyes.

Cates and Hammond walk out.

UNDERGROUND PARKING LOT - POLICE STATION - NIGHT

Cates and Hammond walk stoically along a row of cars, arrive at Hammond's Porsche.

HAMMOND
Hey, how'd my car get here?

CATES
I had it impounded. Come on, we'll use it for haulin' you back to the slam.

HAMMOND
Back to jail in my own car. Ganz got away. Got all my money. It just don't seem right.

CATES
I don't know about you, but I could use a drink... I'll buy you one. It'll be my good-bye present.

Takes off Hammond's cuffs. Looks at them.. Throws them away.

HAMMOND
Sorry we didn't do better, Jack.
I feel like I let you down.

CATES
Naw, you didn't let me down. It was a long shot all the way. We gave 'em a good run at it.

HAMMOND
Yeah, but we didn't get 'em.

They get in and drive off.
TRANSITION.

EXT. CITY STREET - NIGHT

The Porsche blasts by ... These men want a drink.

TRANSITION.

CHRONICLE RESTAURANT AND BAR - NIGHT

Cates and Hammond walk in. It's late, the place is almost empty. The Bartender is a woman with her back to them conferring with a waitress about something.

HAMMOND

It's late, they're closing...

CATES

Don't worry about it.

The barmaid turns around to take their order. It's Elaine.

ELAINE

Hey, I don't believe it.

CATES

Hiya, kid.

ELAINE

I ought to have you and your friend thrown out...

CATES

Don't. We've had a hard night.

ELAINE

I can see that. Pardon me for saying so, but you look like shit. What happened?

CATES

We and my pal here have been taking it on the chin for the last few hours...

Hammond looks at her. He nudges Cates.

ELAINE
Who the hell are you?

HAMMOND
Name's Hammond, Reggie Hammond. I heard a lot about you. And any friend of Jack's is a friend of mine.

Gives her a big smile.

ELAINE
I'm not so sure I can say the same thing...You don't look like a cop.

HAMMOND
Well, I been workin' the other side of the street for the last few years. And you don't exactly look like a shrink, wearin' that dress...

ELAINE
Shrink major, not a shrink.

She pours three glasses of cognac. A STRAGGLER at the end of the bar pipes up.

STRAGGLER
Hey, lady, a drink here.

ELAINE
We're closed.

STRAGGLER
Hey, what the hell?

Elaine turns to him; it's short and sweet.

ELAINE
Drink your drink, pay up and get out.

STRAGGLER
You can't do this. It's against...
Cates holds up his pistol. The man's eyes widen and he turns his angry move toward her into a skedaddle out of the bar. Elaine finishes drying a glass and approaches.

ELAINE
(continuing)
You real down?

CATES
I've been better...Dead end. No Ganz, no Indian.

He finishes his drink, puts down the glass.

CATES
(continuing)
I gotta call the station.

Looks back at Hammond...

CATES
(continuing)
Don't run off anywhere, okay? I've already got enough to worry about.

Moves away.

HAMMOND
Hard man to live with.

ELAINE
How would you know?

HAMMOND
Hey, two days with him is enough.

ELAINE
That's no bull.

She looks at him carefully. They both grin.
CATES

In the phone booth.

CATES
Is there any report ... No ...
Just tell me... nothing..Yeah I figured... Okay, sure.

Hangs up.

ELAINE AND HAMMOND

Cates returns...

CATES
Nothing. No sign of Ganz. No sign of the Indian. Airport's clean. Train station. Bus station. Docks... Shit...

ELAINE
Ganz is going to be hard to track. Just a pure schizo ... wires all crossed... totally without any pattern... kill anybody... The Indian... himself... anybody...

CATES
How do you know?

ELAINE
Jack, it's all over the papers. He's an obvious type. But this Indian...

Hammond cuts in.

HAMMOND
He was the only one of my bunch that was my friend... He was loyal, went all the way for you...

ELAINE
In all due respect, he sounds kind of pathetic to me. The kind of guy that runs home to his momma or some girlfriend. Have you two ace detectives checked that out?

CATES
Yeah, well the only woman of the Indian's we ran into was shacked up with her dyke girlfriend. I guess she went with him before she came outta the Closet ... They both looked mad enough to kill him...

HAMMOND
Yeah, too bad. They were real nice lookin' too...In bed together, hardly any clothes one watching TV...

ELAINE
What makes you think they were lesbians, or as you so quaintly put it, dykes?

CATES
Come on, they were a little old for a slumber party.

ELAINE
It might pay to reexamine a few of your more primitive notions. I was in bed with a girlfriend watching TV last week, Jack, and one thing we know about me is I happen not to be a lesbian ... Now, if this Indian's girlfriend got upset when you came looking for him, it could just be she's still vulnerable to him.

CATES
So what?

ELAINE
When a guy hurts you, then comes back bleeding on his hands and knees, who knows, he might just be irresistible.

CATES
Hey, Come on, shrink time's over. They wouldn't go see some old girlfriend.

ELAINE
Oh, yeah, well look where you came when you were down and out.

HAMMOND
She's got a point there, Jack.

Smiles. Cates reflects for a moment.

CATES
It's the only thing we got.

He looks at Elaine.

CATES
(continuing) Whaddya think?

ELAINE
What do I know? I'm just a bartender.

CATES
Let's go, Reggie.

He kisses Elaine.

HAMMOND
Do I get to kiss her too?

CATES
If she's right, and if you don't screw up.

They exit the bar.

TRANSITION.
EXT. STREET - CHINATOWN - NIGHT

Cates and Hammond hidden in a doorway which affords them a good view of the alley landing to Casey and Sally's apartment.

HAMMOND
What if your girl's theory turns out to be bullshit? I mean, they could be in Rio de Janeiro.

CATES
I've got to play it rough with them. If they know anything, I'm gonna know it.

A woman appears, turning out to be Casey carrying a shopping bag.

HAMMOND
Hey, there she is...

CATES
Whatever play I make just back me up.

HAMMOND
If we run into Billy first, let me try and talk him in.

CATES
Sure, I'll give you a shot at it, but Ganz is mine. You know, that big Indian plays it for keeps...

HAMMOND
Yeah, and I know Ganz sure ain't no sweetheart... I wouldn't like it if this partnership ended before it gets started.

CATES Partnership?

HAMMOND
Well, you got to admit we come a long way.
Cates gives him a smile.

CATES

Let's just do it.

APARTMENT STAIRWELL

As Casey opens the door and starts toward the stairs, and Hammond come through the door and grab her. They are now on the ground floor stairwell.

CATES

I hear you've got visitors.

CASEY

Would you guys...

CATES

No time for any of that crap any more, lady... I'll rip your lungs out if you don't answer fast.

Cates has her by the shoulder and arm; he twists her like a vise...

HAMMOND

He means it...

She looks at Cates, knows Hammond's correct.

CASEY

Don't kill him. Please, just don't kill him.

A long moment.

CATES

You and the other one, you're still Billy's girls. You always were his girls...

CASEY

Yeah. Sure, i'm crazy in love with him, who wouldn't be...

CATES

You're gonna help us take him.
CASEY

No chance.

CATES

He can live or die ... You let us in and he's got a chance to make it. Otherwise, he gets ventilated.

Casey's face is seared with pain at the thought of Billy dying.

HAMMOND

If you help use he's got a chance, lady.

CASEY

Billy's in the first room off the hall ... With rosalie ... He's makin' her happy tonight. You don't understand about the way it is with him, do ya?

CATES

Where's ganz?

CASEY

In the back. Down the other corridor.

Cates looks at Reggie.

CATES

Looks like you're gonna get your chance.

They move upward...

INT. APARTMENT - NIGHT

Cates is stealthily going to the end of the second corridor of the kitchen and living room area. That corridor turns at a very sharp angle and goes to the back. Hammond is at the front of that first corridor... at a door ... he shoves it back.

INT. FIRST BEDROOM

Billy is seated on the edge of it... pants on, shirt off, pulling his boots. Suddenly, Hammond is pointing a gun at him...

HAMMOND

Give it up, Billy. You got no shot at it.

Billy stands.

ROSALIE

Don't let him hurt met Billy. You're not gonna let 'em hurt me, are ya?

BILLY

He won't hurt you. He ain't gonna do nothin' to you, he's just after me.

HAMMOND

I'm tellin' ya, Billy, give it up.

BILLY

I never was much for bein' rehabilitated.

Billy looks at Hammond. With lightning sudden quickness, he reaches and produces a huge Bowie knife from behind his back. Billy smiles, laughs... then with a sudden, awful roar, he leaps at Hammond who unflinchingly fires his pistol. The big as slugs stop Billy cold and throw him back against the bed Rosalie shrieks.

INT. BACK BEDROOM
Ganz, half-dressed, asleep, gun in hand, throws himself off the bed, pushes Sally out of the way ... opens the door and starts firing furiously down the corridor... He grabs the briefcase and runs to the window.

INT. CORRIDOR/DOOWAY TO BACK BEDROOM

Cates has ducked the bullets ... he is inching toward the door...

He pulls it open...Ganz from the window fires another shot which almost gets him then vanishes down the fire escape...

INT. BACK BEDROOM

Sally gets to her feett yelling, runs at Cates as he appears the and futilely tries to hit him....He throws her down on the bed as if she were a doll ... He goes to the window...

EXT. FIRE ESCAPE

Ganz peels down the fire escapes hits the ground. He stops for a second... Then Cates appears, Ganz fires a shot then starts to run. Cates keeps coming...

INT. FIRST BEDROOM

Hammond hears the gunfire, runs out of the room...

CATES

Dives down the fire escape.

BATHROOM

Hammond enters to find it empty of Ganz and Cates, only Sally crying hysterically ... He runs out.

EXT. CHINATOWN STREET

Ganz runs out the back alley ...Cates pursues...
ALLEY
Hammond runs down the stairs toward the front of the building.

EXT. STREET
Ganz runs, turns out of an alley onto a street baked with neon light. Cates pursues.

EXT. FRONT OF CASEY'S BUILDING
Hammond runs out, turns down the adjoining street.

CATES
Following Ganz, holding him in sight, but unable to get a shot off...

PARALLEL STREET
Hammond running down a street near the one where Ganz is being chased...

MAIN STREET
Cates fires at Ganz ... Ganz ducks in a doorway...

HAMMOND
on his street hears the shot... he runs toward it, down a narrow alley between two buildings....

EXT. DOORWAY AT END OF ALLEY
Ganz hears footsteps approach from the opposite direction of it is garbage Cates. They move very close to where be is crouched...
Hammond coming toward him... Ganz suddenly rolls a can in his path, dropping him like a stone.

CATES
Comes toward where he expects to find Ganz... Ganz has his arm around Hammond's throat and his gun to his ear...

GANZ
Drop it... you come up against me, you're gonna lose...

Hammond drops his gun.

GANZ
(continuing)
Hey, cop, come on... I got something for ya... come on...

EXT. MAIN STREET

Cates comes out of the doorway from which he's fired...and comes into the middle of the street, gun up ... he puts it down when he sees Ganz with Hammond in jeopardy. The hand that's around Hammond's throat also holds the black bag. Cates walks forward, his gun down at his side...

GANZ
After I get outta this, cop...I'm gonna live forever...

CATES
I don't think you're gonna make it.

GANZ
Whaddya mean...I got your gun ...
I got his money... I got everything...

HAMMOND
Give up. He's crazy. He'll kill us both.

Cates still walking...
GANZ
He won't try it. He's a fucking chickenshit cop. They're all fucking wimps, right, Cates?

They are now closer to each other. Ganz holding Hammond and the money...

GANZ
(continuing)
Okay, cop ... give me your gun and I'll let him live. Come on, Cates, you're real good at giving up your gun.

Cates keeps the same methodical pace...

CATES Sure...

Suddenly, he crouches and fires twice. Hammond twists as Ganz also fires. Ganz is hit in the collarbone and driven ten feet backward. His grip on Hammond drops, Hammond dives to the ground, looks at Cates.

HAMMOND
Jesus Christ, I didn't think you'd really do it. You are crazy.

Ganz' gun still in his hand, but his arm useless at his side.

Cates is frozen in the crouch, ready to fire again.

Ganz is in enormous pain holding his bleeding chest... A look of childish disbelief passes over his face.

GANZ
I got hit. I can't believe it. I got shot.

CATES
You're done. End of story.
GANZ
I ain't gonna beg for my life. It ain't cool.

He runs at Cates full-speed, screaming, roaring, then is stopped by two more bullets that tear fist-sized holes in his chest. Cates rises from his crouch. Takes his gun out of Ganz' now lifeless hand. Then goes over to Hammond...

HAMMOND
Yours?

Cates raises the pistol.

CATES Mine...

Pause.

CATES
(continuing)
You okay?

HAMMOND
Yeah. But I wasn't there for a second.

CATES
You did pick a real strange time to go and be brave all on your own...

Hammond smiles.

HAMMOND
Just tryin' to get the money, Jack. Just tryin' to build up a few points on that merit system.

Cates smiles back, picks up the black bag as they move off.

TRANSITION.

ELAINE'S BATHROOM
Cates in the tub, steam rushing from the water.
Elaine sits on the porcelain edge as he splashes and soaps...

ELAINE
How'd they take it back at headquarters?

CATES
Usual bullshit. You make one smart move and everybody wants to be your friend... You know somethin', shootin' guys sucks. Especially compared to this.

ELAINE
I've been waiting a long time to hear you say that.

CATES
Yeah, bein' a hard-ass all the time is a real drag, but it works.

He reaches out, lifts his watch from his pile of clothes on the floor.

CATES
(continuing)
Three more hours...

ELAINE
Where is he?

CATES
Promised I'd turn my back while he... ah, never mind...

ELAINE
Tell me.

CATES
He's takin' care of the same business I'll be takin' care of - soon as I dry off.

Elaine smiles, leans close.

ELAINE
You're impossible...
CATES
That's what I always say.

TRANSITION.

CANDY'S ROOM - NIGHT

Minimal crummy hotel room accommodations... Hammond is kissing her at the door, finishing buttoning all his buttons.

He reaches for a wallet, gives her several bills.

HAMMOND
Here you go, baby.

CANDY
Hey, don't do that. I said I wasn't a pro, remember?

HAMMOND
Hey, no, I'm tryin' to be nice. Buy yourself something pretty. I'd do it, but I got to go. I got this cop waitin' for me...

They kiss... it's pretty romantic... She opens the door for him.

CORRIDOR

She stands at the top of the stairs; as Hammond walks down, he calls back to her over his shoulder...

HAMMOND
I'll be back in six months... Maybe I'll make an honest woman of you.

He gives her a big smile.

HAMMOND
(continuing)
I'll buy ya the best dinner in San Francisco...how'd that be? Then we'll go dancin', okay?
CANDY
Now you're talkin'. See ya...

He moves off, still smiling, holding the black briefcase...

STREET - NIGHT

on a picturesque hill above the Haight. Cates standing near the wheel of Hammond's Porsche. Hammond comes down the porch steps from the hotel.

CATES
Okay, reggie, start bustin' my chops... Tell me how great you were with that chick.

HAMMOND
Hey, Jack, real men don't have to go in for that macho bullshit ... but I was fantastic.

As a riatter of fact, I was so good, I may have my cock done in bronze.

Cates holds up the black briefcase.

CATES
I guess this is what you want to talk about...All the pretty money that's inside here.

Cates takes the case to the trunk, opens it, deposits the case, locks the trunk.

HAMMOND
Wait a minute, Cates. I've been waitin' three years for that. I don't think it's fair, man. What about the merit system.? You were gonna give me a few thousand.
CATES
There's nothin' to talk about.

Another long exchange of looks. Then be hands Hammond the keys to the trunk.

CATES
(continuing)
It's your money. It'll be here in six months when you get out.

HAMMOND
And you're tellin' me you don't want any of this cash?

CATES
That's right. Not my style, Reggie.

HAMMOND
You are an awesomely weird cop. Sure wish there were more like you runnin' around out here.

CATES
No, you don't. If I ever get word of you steppin' over the line again, I'm gonna ventilate that suit of yours.

HAMMOND
Spare met Jack. I'm into legit investments from here on in.

Cates gives him a very skeptical look, as they head for the car.

Hammond gets in behind the wheel, Cates on the passenger side.

Cates takes out a cigarette, starts to light it. Hammond takes the match does it for him.
Thanks.

No trouble, Jack. But, listen, suppose I stay a crook? Where'd you get the idea that you could catch me?

They both smile. Hammond socks it into gear and they drive off into the far distance...

END.