FADE IN:

INT. WASHINGTON MUSEUM - DAY

The saddest eyes you ever saw.

We are looking at an El Greco drawing. It is a study for one of his paintings.

PULL BACK TO REVEAL --

A bunch of art students are doing sketches of the eyes, the elongated fingers, the slender hands El Greco drew so brilliantly.

Most of the students are around 20. A couple of suburban housewives are there too.

And one older man.

This is LUTHER WHITNEY. Mid 60s, very fit, neatly dressed. At quick glance, he seems as if he might be a successful company executive.

As we watch him draw we can tell he is capable of great concentration. And patient. With eyes that miss nothing: He has pilot's eyes.

We'll find out more about him as time goes on, but this is all you really have to know: Luther Whitney is the hero of this piece. As we watch him draw --

Luther's sketchbook. He is finishing his work on the eyes, and he's caught the sadness: It's good stuff.

Luther. It's not good enough for him. He looks at his work a moment, shakes his head.

GIRL STUDENT

Don't give up.

LUTHER

I never do.

GIRL STUDENT

May I?

She's indicated his sketchbook. He nods. She starts thumbing through.

The sketchbook as the pages turn.

Detail work. Eyes and hands. The eyes are good. The hands are better. Very skillful.

(CONTINUED)

)B( ABSOLUTE POWER - Rev. 5/16/96

1 CONTINUED: 1

The GIRL hands it back. Impressed.

GIRL STUDENT

You work with your hands, don't you?

CLOSEUP - LUTHER  *

An enigmatic smile. Now, from that --

2 EXT. RED'S BAR - DAY 2

A nice working class part of town. Nothing fancy here but there's a pleasant feel. The streets are clean, the houses neat and well tended.

Luther, carrying his sketchbook, walks along. It's afternoon now. Up ahead is a local bar: RED'S.

3 INT. RED'S BAR - DAY 3

Luther walks in. Nothing fancy here. Strictly working class. And relatively empty. An overweight bald man Luther's age works behind the bar. This is RED. They are good enough friends not to ask each other questions.

LUTHER

(as they nod to each other) Redhead.

RED
Luther.
(as Luther hands him a videotape)
Your life would be a whole lot simpler if you could learn to operate a V.C.R.

LUTHER
My only failing.

As he turns --

4 EXT. NEIGHBORHOOD - LUTHER'S HOUSE - DAY
A street of small row houses. Clean, well tended.
Luther walks toward one. Later in the afternoon. He carries half a dozen small shopping bags, from the market, the hardware store, the drug store, the cleaners.

3.

5 EXT. LUTHER'S HOUSE - DAY
A terra cotta planter to the right of the front door. Luther shifts his packages, tilts the planter slightly, bends down, pulls out a key, inserts it in the front door.

6 INT. LUTHER'S HOUSE - KITCHEN - DAY as he enters. Neat, tidy. A Cuisinart, a cheese slicer, lots of other nice equipment. As he begins putting food away --

7 INT. LUTHER'S HOUSE - DINING AREA - NIGHT
Evening now. Table set for one. A single candle. Beside the candle is Luther's sketch pad. Now Luther himself moves INTO VIEW, carrying a tray. He puts it down.

A gorgeous omelet is on a fine china plate, parsley sprinkled neatly on top. An elegant green salad is on another plate, covered with thinly sliced parmesan cheese. An expensive water pitcher, a lovely glass. Clearly, a great deal of thought has gone into dinner.

Luther lights the single candle. We are now aware of a photograph nearby. The picture is old. A pretty little girl stands in the center, smiling. Her mother stands alongside, smiling too. A man is with them, looking at them happily. It's Luther. When he was young.

Luther studies the photo a moment. Then he turns, looks out the window.

8 POVSHT - SLIVER OF MOON is visible. Lovely. Peaceful.

9 LUTHER
Now Luther opens the sketch pad, quickly flips past the hands and eyes and faces --

-- we are looking at something totally different: a mansion.

HOLD ON Luther's drawing of the mansion.

KEEP HOLDING.

PULL BACK to reveal --

4.

10 EXT. SULLIVAN MANSION - NIGHT
In the moonlight -- it looks exactly like his drawing.

But no drawing could convey the size of the place -- we are looking at ten thousand square feet. Wealth and power.

We're in rolling hill country. The mansion is dark. Totally deserted. Silence.

Now a sound - TIRES ON GRAVEL. A car comes rolling INTO VIEW. The motor of the car has been turned off. The lights of the car have been turned off. The car slides to a stop. Again, silence...

HOLD ON mansion, a couple of hundred yards away. There is a small field between the car and the estate. Now --

11 EXT. SULLIVAN MANSION/INT. LUTHER'S CAR - NIGHT
A man holds binoculars, studying the place. He wears dark clothes, tennis shoes. He puts down the binoculars, begins to smear his face with black camouflage cream --

-- it's Luther, and he's been a professional thief his entire life. He's a three-time loser, but his last sentence was so long ago and his skills are now so vast, so refined, that it is unlikely he will ever get caught again.

12 EXT. SULLIVAN MANSION - GROUNDS - NIGHT

The grounds as Luther glides through it. He wears a backpack.

The night is cool.

He stops. All that separates him from the mansion now is a stretch of gorgeous lawn. Except for Luther, it isn't gorgeous -- it's no-man's land.

One final check of his surroundings -- then he sets off, in graceful motion, long strides eating up the ground. He makes no sound at all.

13 EXT. SULLIVAN MANSION - FRONT DOOR - NIGHT

Thick wood with reinforced steel.

Luther stops by the door, takes off his backpack, opens it. He puts on plastic gloves that have a special layer of padding at the fingertips and palms. Now he takes a key, inserts it in the front door, turns it, and the instant he pushes the door open -- ZOOM TO:

5.

14 INT. SULLIVAN MANSION - FOYER - NIGHT

The infrared SECURITY DETECTOR -- it immediately starts to BEEP and you can see the seconds being counted down: forty, thirty-nine, thirty --

CUT TO:

15 LUTHER

-- in his hands now is an automatic screwdriver, no more than six inches long --

-- he sets to work on the security panel that is inside in the foyer next to the front door.

The screwdriver undoes the first screw, the second --

CUT TO:
Now the third and fourth screws are in hands and he lifts the security panel away.

The BEEPING sound is constant -- -- and getting louder.

A tiny device, no bigger than a pocket calculator. It has two wires protruding from it. It is, we are about to find out, a tiny computer. Luther holds it like a baby.

The BEEPING is LOUDER still.

The security panel. Luther is attempting delicate work and it's dark so it isn't easy but he continues to probe with the wires and -- and he's got it attached!

Now the face of the tiny computer is alive with numbers -- they fly by much too fast for us to make them out clearly.

CUT TO:

Four, three, two --

CUT TO:

as five numbers lock -- 7 -- 13 -- 19 -- 8 -- 11 --

The BEEPING sound dies.

CUT TO:

A glance across the foyer -- the lights of the security detector go from red to a warm looking green.

Safe.

(continued)

He allows himself to exhale. Then he's busy again, unhooking the computer. His fingers, as always, work quickly, precisely.

The foyer as Luther, once again carrying his backpack, moves across it. Behind him, the front door is again shut, the security panel back on, screws all in place.

It's as if he hadn't been there at all...
26 INT. SULLIVAN MANSION - STAIRCASE - NIGHT

Luther walks quickly up -- and here we get a sense of the vast size of the place -- it feels bigger inside than it looked in the moonlight.

A Van Gogh at the head of the stairs. Luther moves past it, then stops, goes back, studies the painting. It's a late one, when the madness had him and things were sliding away. Very sad.

Luther looks at it admiringly for another moment --

-- then surprisingly he raises his hand, and for just an instant traces the lines of the painting in the air, as if trying to figure out how the magic was done, as if getting ready for his next museum session --

-- then almost grudgingly, he moves on, up toward the third floor.

27 INT. SULLIVAN MANSION - THIRD-FLOOR LANDING - NIGHT

Here's a Hopper. One of the great ones, filled with an overpowering sense of being alone --

-- Luther stares at it almost in awe, whispers "wow," moves on.

28 INT. SULLIVAN MANSION - HALLWAY - NIGHT

Luther, walking down the third-floor corridor.

The corridor walls. No paintings here -- instead we see a series of framed photographs. The first is of a baby girl, the next one of the same child at three.

We watch the child grow up in these photos.  At ten she is already pretty. At fifteen a stunner.    (CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

Not a classic beauty by any means, she is turning into, if you will a latter-day Ann-Margret. The kind of girl you ached for in high school. The perfect cheerleader.

These are pictures, we will come to know, of Christy Sullivan. A high school graduation shot at eighteen, a shot in front of a Burger King at twenty.
CLOSEUP - WEDDING PHOTOGRAPH

Christy, looking just fabulous, is 24 and smiling happily. We can only see her face and the wedding veil here. Now --

PULL BACK to reveal --

A glorious and expensive white wedding dress. Christy holds a bouquet of flowers. Breathtaking.

KEEP PULLING BACK.

And now we can see the groom. Walter Sullivan. Walter is smiling too, one arm proudly around his lovely bride.

Walter, it might be noted, is eighty years old.

Luther, staring at the photo, shakes his head. Now he moves on.

29 INT. SULLIVAN MANSION - MASTER BEDROOM - NIGHT

Luther opens the DOOR. It SQUEAKS. He goes inside, closes the door firmly. Next, he puts his backpack down, takes out a low-power non-glare work light, sets it up. Now he looks around. A huge room, a gigantic canopied bed.

A nightstand alongside, which contains a small silver clock, three Danielle Steel novels piled neatly one atop the other, several more photos of the happy couple -- -- and an antique silver-plated letter opener with a thick leather handle.

Luther. He studies himself in front of a very large full-length mirror across from the canopied bed.

Now we realize something -- he isn't studying himself, he's studying the mirror itself.

He turns, goes to the sitting area where there are chairs and a sofa and a large TV and VCR.

(CONTINUED)

29 CONTINUED:

Three remotes on a side table. Luther carefully picks up the middle one, crosses the room with it, points it at the large mirror, clicks once --

-- and the mirror swings silently open.

A room is revealed. All we can see of it so far is this:
There is an armchair in the middle facing where the mirror had been.

Luther turns back toward the sitting area, the remote held in his hand.

The side table. Luther puts the remote down -- very carefully. In the exact position it had been. Now he takes a moment, blows on his hands, rubs them together.

Then -- Luther takes a collapsible duffel bag out of his backpack, moves with the work light into the revealed room --

30   INT. SULLIVAN MASTER BEDROOM - VAULT - NIGHT

It's a vault! And it's FULL! There's cash, naturally, piles of the stuff. Plus all kinds of other valuables we'll get around to.

Luther's a little stunned -- it's more than he hoped for.

He glances at the armchair -- there is a remote on it that is identical to the one he replaced at the side table.

Now he opens his duffel all the way and sets to work.
First the cash goes in -- all neatly bundled. Large denominations. Lots of bundles. Next are a series of slender boxes --

The first box as Luther opens it.

Jewelry.

Into the duffel it goes.

Luther, emptying more jewelry boxes into the duffel. And still more. As he continues to do this --

31   INT. SULLIVAN MASTER BEDROOM - NIGHT

All is quiet. High on a wall, the security light beams a friendly green.

Now, from somewhere, a distant sound. LAUGHTER? Was it laughter? Doesn't matter, it's gone.
INT. SULLIVAN VAULT - NIGHT

Luther has moved deeper into it -- he's finished with the jewelry. Now he's examining piles of bonds.

Into the duffel they go.

He takes a breath, glances around. Perfect.

Coins. Antique ones. They disappear into the duffel. Stamp books. Gone into the swelling duffel.

Luther as he hears now the DISTANT LAUGHTER. Not so perfect.

INT. MASTER BEDROOM - NIGHT

He moves quickly out of the vault, takes a step toward the door -- the GIGGLING is getting LOUDER, closer. Two people. A man and a woman.

Luther stops, mutters "shit!" -- glances around -- No place to hide. Luther, grabbing his backpack, moves into the vault, turns off his work light, and shuts the door with the remote. The DOOR CLICKS --

INT. SULLIVAN VAULT - NIGHT

-- Luther is alone in the darkness.

A burst of LAUGHTER now. Growing nearer still.

Luther moves into the back of the vault, crouches down, doing his best to hide behind the armchair. Trapped, Luther waits in silence, trying not to breathe...

Now he can hear a SQUEAK -- the BEDROOM DOOR has opened.

HOLD.

INT. SULLIVAN MASTER BEDROOM - NIGHT

Dark -- except for a slant of light from the hall outside the open bedroom door.

Two people are briefly visible as they enter, a MAN and a WOMAN. The CLINK of GLASS. Stifled LAUGHTER.

The Woman closes the bedroom door.

Darkness again.
And now the LAUGHING sound increases. GIGGLING, really.

11.

36  INT. SULLIVAN VAULT - NIGHT

Luther in the pitch-black vault. The GIGGLING is MUTED but it is there. He is starting to perspire.

37  INT. SULLIVAN MASTER BEDROOM - NIGHT

The woman flicks on the lights and as she does --

38  INT. SULLIVAN VAULT - NIGHT

Luther as the burst of light hits him like a fist -- and it's over.

Luther blinks, confused, looks around --

-- because it isn't over, he hasn't been caught.

The door to the vault is suddenly gone. Luther is staring straight into the goddamn bedroom.

Because the door is a two way mirror. Now it's as if he was watching the bedroom on a giant TV screen.

Just a few feet away, just outside the door.

Where things are clearly starting to heat up.

Luther moves to the armchair, sits. There is nothing to do now but wait. He settles in.

39  INT. SULLIVAN MASTER BEDROOM - NIGHT

They are staring at each other.

We have seen the woman already -- she's CHRISTY SULLIVAN. But the pictures in the corridor did not do her justice.

This is a fabulous-looking twenty-five-year-old woman. Long, golden hair, a round face that sets off her deep blue eyes, a tanned, curving body. A bare-shouldered black dress. An expensive necklace.

One more thing: she is staggering drunk.

The man is ALAN RICHMOND, wealthy, successful, handsome and fit. Mid-forties. He wears an elegantly-cut suit.
Two additional points: (1) Richmond is clearly not the husband in the wedding photo. (2) He is drunker than she is.

(continued)

12.

39 CONTINUED:

Richmond carries a vodka bottle and two tumblers. He fills them, gives one to her.

They touch glasses. Down the hatch. Tight laughter.

He looks at her.

She looks at him. There's a lot of sexual tension in the air.

But now he begins looking around, checking things out.

She spots this.

CHRISTY

(drunk)
It's okay -- I told him I was sick -- anyway, he's gone -- relax...

He nods then, more at ease. And he blows her a kiss.

She catches it -- and now she starts to parade for him.

Her body moving very slowly.

He pours himself another shot, chugs it, watches.

Now --

40 INT. SULLIVAN VAULT - NIGHT

Luther suddenly terrified and we find out why.

41 INT. SULLIVAN MASTER BEDROOM - NIGHT

Christy, fumbling with her necklace, looks across the room --

What she's looking at: the side table with the remote that opens the vault.

42 INT. SULLIVAN VAULT - NIGHT

Luther, frozen, as Christy starts toward the table.
The table and the remote waiting there.

Luther, mouth dry...

Richmond, reaching out for her, then as she passes him; he takes her by the hand --

-- and now they are dancing, their bodies pressed together. They move slowly. She hums. He tries to get fancy, spin her with one arm --

-- no good. They're too drunk for it, starts to lose balance, separate.

They giggle. Smile at each other. Now Christy manages to unhook her necklace, and as she starts to drop it in the drawer of the nightstand --

Luther. A genuine sigh of relief --

-- which suddenly dies --

Christy, as she spins toward the table again, still with the necklace in her hand.

Luther, and there's nothing he can do now but watch.

Richmond, watching too, emptying the vodka bottle into his tumbler, chugging it down and now...

The table as Christy reaches out, grabs a remote, turns.
Luther dead in the water because -- pointing the goddam thing at him --

-- and as she CLICKS it --

)B( ABSOLUTE POWER - Rev. 5/16/96 14.

CHRISTY'S

51

INT. SULLIVAN VAULT - NIGHT 52

Luther, and for a moment, he's like a goddam deer caught in the headlights --
-- but now here comes another sigh of relief and we find out why.

INT. SULLIVAN MASTER BEDROOM - NIGHT 53

Suddenly there's ROMANTIC MUSIC PLAYING -- she's turned the STEREO ON. Christy starts humming, replaces the clicker, drops the necklace in the drawer.

Then they are into each other's arms. Their bodies press. Their bodies sway. He moves a hand to her breasts --
-- Christy breaks loose, shakes a finger at him, as if to say, "naughty, naughty" --
-- then with one hand, she pulls a zipper down. The dress falls off her body. Her breasts spring free. She is wearing only her panties now and high heels. And a smile.

She is stunning looking and she knows it and men have always gone nuts over her and she knows that too. And Richmond can't resist her either, goes to her, bends her back, caresses her neck, begins sucking her nipples. Christy moans.

INT. SULLIVAN VAULT - NIGHT 54

Luther, in the chair, embarrassed, averting his eyes.

But the MOANING from the other room GROWS LOUDER, more insistent.

INT. SULLIVAN MASTER BEDROOM - NIGHT 55

Christy, pulling away for a moment, starting to work at Richmond's tie, shakes him out of his suit jacket, reaches for his belt, loosens it. She is working at his shirt buttons now and their breathing is audible and in a moment he is down to his boxer shorts and then her panties are off, her shoes kicked away and they are near the vault mirror now. As they approach it, they stare at themselves.

56 INT. SULLIVAN VAULT - NIGHT

Luther, moving farther back in his chair as their faces are just a couple of feet away --

57 INT. SULLIVAN MASTER BEDROOM - CLOSEUP - CHRISTY - NIGHT

as Richmond's hands move across her wondrous body and she is hot and drifting into drunken fantasy and her eyes close and --

CLOSE ON RICHMOND

as his eyes are open --

-- the look on his drunken face is scary.

58 INT. SULLIVAN VAULT - NIGHT

Luther, transfixed by that look, transfixed and worried.

59 INT. SULLIVAN MASTER BEDROOM - CHRISTY AND RICHMOND IN CLOSEUP - NIGHT looking at each other now, and she is smiling happily and looking at him and he is smiling happily and looking at her, and whatever was on his face just before has gone.

60 INT. SULLIVAN VAULT - NIGHT

Luther, watching as they turn for the gigantic canopied bed.

61 INT. SULLIVAN MASTER BEDROOM - NIGHT

The bed as they stop alongside it and kiss -- it's their first. And her arms go around his neck and she holds him like that, her eyes shut tight --
Luther -- watching because Richmond's eyes are not shut, they are wide open and they stare at the mirror and the awful look from before is back, only worse, and then without warning, he grips her buttocks roughly --

-- and slaps her hard on the ass, over and over and Christy is shocked, surprised, pulls away. Richmond smiles at her sweetly.

Christy. Shaking her head.

Richmond. He continues to smile, makes a courtly gesture, kissing her fingertips in apology.

(CONTINUED)

Christy. She smiles in acknowledgement and they move onto the bed. She pushes him down and straddles him.

Richmond, from her POINT OF VIEW -- a wonderfully handsome man.

Christy, from his POINT OF VIEW. A glorious, vibrant young woman. She smiles, touches her lips to a finger, reaches out, touches the finger to his mouth.

It's a sweet moment.

They smile.

Then he reaches up, and without a word, grabs her breasts and squeezes and twists them brutally and Christy is shocked and she tries to make him stop but he won't, and she cries out in pain but he still won't stop so she slaps him in the face. He slaps her back, viciously, right in the mouth and now there is blood mixing with her lipstick and she rolls off the bed onto the floor.

Christy sits there stunned.

CHRISTY

(slurred)

You fucking bastard.

And on that --

Richmond, standing now, reaches down to help her up. Christy hesitates, finally takes his hand and as soon as she is on her feet --
Christy, kicking him with all she has, in the stomach.

63  INT. SULLIVAN VAULT - NIGHT

Luther, silently applauding.

64  INT. SULLIVAN MASTER BEDROOM - NIGHT

Richmond, the air momentarily out of him, falling drunkenly to the floor, stunned for just a moment and clearly in pain, but he is a big man and he is strong and he grabs her ankle, yanks, and then both are laboring on the floor and Christy kicks him again and again --

-- but he will not release her ankle. Each kick only inflames his drunken rage.

(CONTINUED)

17.

64  CONTINUED:

RICHMOND
(very slurred --)
You little whore --

And now they both try and stand.

Neither one does it gracefully, neither one does it quickly, but Richmond gets there first and as soon as he is on his feet he begins to strangle her.

Christy, gasping, terrified, she claws at his arms, her fingers scratching deeply --

-- but he will not let go.

She twists and jerks her body --

-- no good -- he continues to tighten his grip on her throat --

-- and spreads his legs for better balance.

The bed table, as Christy, beyond desperation reaches around for something, anything -- her fingers finally close on the letter opener and in one wild stroke, she slashes his right arm.

Now he lets go. And stares, stunned, at his bleeding arm.

Then he crunches her flush in the mouth, a brutal blow, and blood pours from her nose and mouth and if she weren't so scared, maybe it would have stopped her, but it doesn't -- because somehow she manages to maintain balance --

-- and knees him all she has, in the nuts.

It's over -- Richmond falls to the floor, helpless. He lies on his back, holding his crotch.

But it isn't over. Christy, blood pouring down her face, stands over him, the letter opener still tight in her hand.

And in her eyes you can see it, the homicidal rage --

-- and she drops to her knees beside him --

-- and Richmond can only lie there, watching her --

-- and she gets a better grip on the letter opener --

-- and Richmond still only lies there, watching her --

(CONTINUED)

18.

64 CONTINUED: (2)

-- and she raises the letter opener slowly very high above her head, the point aimed at his heart --

-- and Richmond screams one time --

-- and as Christy starts to kill him, two well-dressed men in business suits burst through the bedroom doorway, GUNS in their hands, and they BLOW HER BRAINS OUT before the opener reaches Richmond's heart...

65 INT. SULLIVAN VAULT - NIGHT

Luther, in SLOW MOTION and this is what he does --

-- he reels back in the chair, eyes wide, jaw slack, mouth open --

-- this is a man who has seen everything but nothing has prepared him for this --

-- his arms flop over the arms of the chair, his body loses strength, he tries to look away, can't -- -- and this is what he sees --

66 INT. SULLIVAN MASTER BEDROOM - NIGHT

Christy, fighting for another instant of life --
-- no chance --
-- the two bullets have shattered her brain, her eyes roll up into her head, the letter opener drops to the rug, she collapses like a rag doll --
-- and blood is everywhere.

67 INT. SULLIVAN VAULT - NIGHT

Luther. Back in regular motion now. Pale, barely able to breathe.

68 INT. SULLIVAN MASTER BEDROOM - NIGHT

The two well-dressed men in business suits.

BILL BURTON is the more formidable. Mid-40s, he looks like a retired tight end. No body fat. Intimidating. But right now he is shaking and he can't stop it. He puts his gun away, goes to Richmond.

(CONTINUED)

19.

68 CONTINUED:

TIM COLLIN is closing in on 30. Handsome. In wonderful shape. Burton is more physical, Collin more lethal. He puts his gun away, goes to Christy.

Richmond is trying to sit. He is as drunk as before but now he is also close to shock. He reaches over, manages to pick up the bloody letter opener.

RICHMOND

Kill her?

Collin, by the body, nods.

BURTON

No choice in the matter.

His words are efficient but clearly, he has been rocked.

Richmond, staring stupidly at the letter opener. He drops it back to the floor, tries to stand, can't. Burton helps him back to the bed. Which is when he passes out cold.
Burton and Collin look at each other now.

BURTON
Jesus, Tim, what did we do?

COLLIN
(ecohe Men Burton)
No choice in the matter.

69 INT. SULLIVAN VAULT - NIGHT
Luther, staring at it all. The shock is still there but so is something new: anger. And on that --

70 INT. SULLIVAN MASTER BEDROOM - NIGHT
GLORIA RUSSELL moving through the bedroom door. Russell's 40, well-dressed, attractive and very smart. Now she sees what's happened, stops dead.

Now she moves forward, looks at Burton and Collin. It's very clear from the outset: these three are not friendly.

(continuned)

70 CONTINUED:

RUSSELL
(to Burton and Collin)
Do you realize what a shitstorm we're in?
(beat)
Go on -- tell me.

COLLIN
Nothing to tell. He screamed.

RUSSELL
And you heard no sounds of violence 'til then?

BURTON
(beat)
Nothing we haven't heard before.

Richmond, on the bed, out. Russell studies his face as Burton moves toward the telephone.

BURTON
Maybe I should call the police now.

CLOSEUP - RUSSELL

RUSSELL

(soft)
Bill? Why don't you think about that?

(beat -- starting to move toward him)
Take a second and just think about that.

(closing in on Burton, furious)
Think... real... fucking... hard.

BURTON

He is strong enough to snap her neck with one hand.

BURTON

(backing away)
Probably not a good idea.

RUSSELL

(taking charge)
Okay -- here's what happened tonight -- poor Christy came home alone and interrupted a burglary. That sound logical?

21.

71 INT. SULLIVAN VAULT - NIGHT
Luther in the closet. He nods.

72 INT. SULLIVAN MASTER BEDROOM - NIGHT
Burton and Collin nod, too.

RUSSELL
We're going to have to sanitize this place.

(shaking Richmond)
Alan, did you have sex with her?

Richmond, eyes barely open.

RICHMOND
... Don'... 'member...
Bill, you're going to have to examine her.

I'm no gynecologist.

(she takes nothing from nobody)
I just made you one.

End of discussion.

A clock on the side table beside the three clickers.

There is the sound of a VACUUM -- it's later now.

The place is incredibly changed. Christy is lying as before -- except now she is fully dressed. The bed has been made with clean sheets. There is a large black garbage bag that Collin shoves the sheets in, dumps in Christy's jewelry. Burton is VACUUMING the rug.

Richmond is visible, still in terrible shape, finishing putting his clothes on in the open master bedroom.

Everyone wears gloves.

Everything that is incriminating is gone --

-- except the letter opener, which has been put in a clear plastic bag. Collin reaches for it, starts to dump it in along with the sheets and the jewelry.

I'll take that.

(surprised)
It's got their prints on it.

(she holds out her hand)
Thanks for sharing.
Collin glances at Burton, shrugs, hands it over. Russell puts it in her handbag, puts the handbag on the bed table when suddenly --

Richmond, careening into the room, wide-eyed, crying out --

RICHMOND
Gloria -- I killed her --

Russell, turning, shocked as Richmond bears down --

-- she holds out her arms for him, but he is staggering and he collides hard with her, spins against the wall, uses the bed table to try to steady himself.

74 INT. SULLIVAN VAULT - NIGHT

Luther, stunned, staring.

75 INT. SULLIVAN MASTER BEDROOM - NIGHT

What he's staring at: the letter opener has spilled from her open purse and fallen behind the bed, out of sight.

Russell, calm, going to Richmond, starting to lead him from the room --

RUSSELL
It's all going to be fine, Alan.

RICHMOND
... But she's dead...

(CONTINUED)

23.

75 CONTINUED:

RUSSELL
... I'll take care of everything just like I always do.
    (to Burton and Collin)
    Gentlemen?

She gestures to leave.

Burton and Collin finish up -- Collin grabs the large plastic bag. Burton glances around one final time and backs toward the door, vacuuming carefully. Then --

Collin stops dead. He stares across at the bed table.
INT. SULLIVAN VAULT - NIGHT

Luther, holding his breath.

INT. SULLIVAN MASTER BEDROOM - BURTON AND COLLIN - NIGHT

COLLIN
Shit.

BURTON
What?

In reply, Collin dashes back toward the bed table, grabs Russell's purse, snaps it shut, tucks it under one arm and leaves.

Burton flicks the light out, closes the door.

The room is lit by moonlight now. Christy looks beautiful and still. HOLD for a moment.

EXT. MANSION - FRONT DOOR - NIGHT

It's open and Russell leads a staggering Richmond outside. Two dark Towncars are parked in the driveway.

Burton is behind them, turning off all lights. Collin is last, with Russell's purse, the garbage bag. As he follows them outside, he closes the front door firmly -- it makes a loud, solid sound.

INT. SULLIVAN VAULT - LUTHER - NIGHT

The sound is barely audible. He has been looking at his watch --

(CONTINUED)

24.

CONTINUED:

The watch face is illuminated in the darkness. The second hand is fifteen seconds away from the top.

Luther takes a deep breath, waits in silence.

The WATCH face: the sound is loud, like "60 Minutes."

EXT. SULLIVAN MANSION - DRIVEWAY - NIGHT
Burton and Russell moving with Richmond toward one of the cars. Burton takes the man in his arms, leaving Russell free to open the back door.

Collin dumps the plastic bag into the trunk, shuts it, moves quickly so that he can get a decent view of the road.

The road in front of the house. Empty. Collin hurries to the Towncar where Burton is struggling to get Richmond comfortably stretched out on the back seat.

81 INT. SULLIVAN VAULT - NIGHT

The second hand on Luther's watch hits the top and he moves into action.

-- He points the clicker at the door --
-- the door starts to swing open --
-- Luther, backpack in hand, strides quickly into the bedroom, turns, points the clicker again and as the door starts to swing shut -- Luther carefully tosses the clicker back inside.

82 INT. SULLIVAN VAULT - ARMCHAIR - NIGHT as the clicker lands -- dead-solid perfect --

83 INT. SULLIVAN MASTER BEDROOM - NIGHT

Luther, in the bedroom, moving to the nightstand, carrying his backpack --

-- he slows as he circles the body of Christy Sullivan, looks sadly down at her, continues on as we MOVE TO...

(CONTINUED)

83 CONTINUED:

The bed table. First, Luther opens the drawer and pockets the necklace. Tense, he kneels, probes behind the table, reaches farther and then -- the letter opener! In the plastic bag. Luther grabs it.

He rises, opener in hand, and goes to the far window that has a view of the front of the house. He looks out, grimaces.
The cars are still there. Burton is visible helping Russell in. Collin hands over her purse, closes the door. He and Burton move to the front doors.

Luther, going to the rear window. He opens the window slowly and silently. He ties one end of the rope around the leg of a heavy, wooden chest of drawers --

-- now he carefully plays the knotted rope out the window.

Collin heads to one of the Towncars. In the other Burton and Russell are getting settled in the front. Richmond lies in a stupor, stretched along the rear seat. Russell --

-- a moment of relief. She breathes deep. And as Russell starts to open her purse -- as it snakes down the brick mansion -- it reaches the ground.

Luther, putting his backpack on securely.

The window -- Luther glances out and down.

Forty feet below. And it's dark.

Luther -- he doesn't much like this -- but taking hold of the rope, he puts one leg out the window -- only the damn backpack makes it complicated and he's caught for a moment, clumsily trapped with one leg in, one leg out and the backpack wedged against the corner of the window --
-- and at that moment, there is a SCREAM.

91   EXT. SULLIVAN DRIVEWAY/INT. TOWNCAR - NIGHT
Gloria Russell, as every nightmare she has ever had comes true -- the fucking letter opener isn't in her purse and as she screams again --

92   EXT. SULLIVAN MASTER BEDROOM - WINDOW - NIGHT
Luther, cursing to himself, forcing his way out the window and it isn't easy, but he makes it and then the rope slips in his hands and for one precarious moment, he is in serious trouble and...

93   EXT. SULLIVAN MANSION - DRIVEWAY - NIGHT
The Towncar doors bursting open as Burton and Collin come barrelling out.

94   EXT. SULLIVAN MANSION - NIGHT
Luther, getting his grip on the nylon rope again, starting to go down -- but it's difficult going for him.

95   EXT. SULLIVAN MANSION - FOYER - NIGHT
Burton and Collin tearing into the house, Collin in the lead.

96   EXT. SULLIVAN MANSION - NIGHT
Luther in the night, thirty feet up, and he can hear COMMOTION inside the house and he tries to go faster --

-- but it's not easy; the man is, after all, in his 60s and he's dangerously high and his visibility is rotten, so he's doing the best he can, but he isn't exactly flying.

97   EXT. SULLIVAN MANSION - DRIVEWAY - NIGHT
Russell, standing by the Towncar, staring in at the house and from the look on her face, you know she thinks her life might be over.

98   INT. SULLIVAN MANSION - STAIRCASE - NIGHT
Burton and Collin, racing up the second floor staircase toward the top.

99  EXT. SULLIVAN MANSION - NIGHT  99

Luther, halfway down.

100  INT. SULLIVAN MANSION - HALLWAY - NIGHT  100

Burton and Collin, tearing along the third floor corridor.

101  EXT. SULLIVAN MANSION - NIGHT  101

Luther, ten feet off the ground now.

102  INT. SULLIVAN MANSION - NIGHT  102

The bedroom door, flying open.

103  EXT. SULLIVAN MANSION - NIGHT  103

Luther, six feet to go, three, and he lets go, drops the rest of the way, hits the ground running.

104  INT. SULLIVAN MASTER BEDROOM - NIGHT  104

Burton, racing toward the window, Collin goes to the night table.

105  EXT. SULLIVAN MANSION - NIGHT  105

Luther, at the end of the house, turning a corner.

106  INT. SULLIVAN MASTER BEDROOM - NIGHT  106

Burton, staring out the window and Luther is gone.

(Continued)

BURTON

Shit!
Collin, looking around the table and the letter opener is gone.

COLLIN

Shit!

And without another word, they bolt out the door.

107  EXT. SULLIVAN MANSION - GROUNDS - NIGHT

Luther, crashing through the field. He is in wonderful shape --
-- for a man his age.
And he gives it all he has but is it going to be enough?

108  EXT. SULLIVAN DRIVEWAY - NIGHT

The Towncar as Collin yanks something out of the glove compartment, and then he is racing off into the night after Burton who is a few steps ahead.

109  EXT. SULLIVAN DRIVEWAY/INT. TOWNCAR - NIGHT

Russell staring after them -- in the back seat, Richmond is in a half-slumber.

110  EXT. SULLIVAN MANSION - GROUNDS - NIGHT

Luther, bursting out of the underbrush --
-- up ahead is the most dangerous place for him --
-- one hundred yards of open field. He runs on.

111  EXT. SULLIVAN GROUNDS - BURTON AND COLLIN - NIGHT as Collin catches up to the other man, tosses what he took from the glove compartment.

Thermal goggles.
They put them on, on the fly and...

112  THERMAL POV

The world ahead of them as they see it: their FIELD OF VISION now resembles a rough computer game. THERMAL Beginning to tire now -- and he's only halfway through the open field and...

Burton and Collin, behind him, can't see him yet, but they are moving faster --

-- and Burton could probably destroy anyone in a fight --

-- but Collin can fly.

And he begins to leave Burton behind.

Luther, and twenty yards ahead of him are some woods that spur him on, he pumps his arms, his body straining and his breath coming in gasps and...

Collin, graceful and young and in fabulous shape and just ahead is the open field and as he starts into it --

What Collin sees: a THERMAL figure; a man running out of the open and then disappearing into the woods.

The sight of the figure is enough to kick Collin into overdrive and he has never run this fast as he crosses the open area.

Luther, running through the woods -- he can hear THEM now, and he knows they're closing on him and he glances back --

-- and smashes into a fucking tree!... hard... and it rocks him, drops him to his knees --

Collin and he could be jet propelled.
Luther, forcing himself back to his feet and running again, giving it everything he has left and he's dodging through the trees now.

119  EXT. SULLIVAN GROUNDS - NEAR WOODS - NIGHT

Burton, behind Collin, but he draws his gun anyway --
Collin, in the woods, and his gun's drawn too --
Luther, out of the woods and now his car is visible --
Collin, in the woods but they're coming to an end.

120  THERMAL POV

The figure up ahead is approaching a car.

121  EXT. SULLIVAN GROUNDS - LUTHER'S CAR - NIGHT

Luther, throwing the car door open, ripping off his backpack, tossing it inside, jumping in behind the wheel.

122  EXT. SULLIVAN GROUNDS - WOODS - NIGHT

Burton. Pulling up, gasping terribly. He sinks to one knee.

Collin, out of the woods! -- Still amazingly without the least sign of tiring --
-- and now there is a sound: a CAR MOTOR STARTING.

123  EXT. SULLIVAN GROUNDS - LUTHER'S CAR - NIGHT

Luther in his car, wheels spinning.

124  EXT. SULLIVAN GROUNDS - WOODS - NIGHT

Collin has his pistol ready but it's impossible to hit anything when you're running like this.

125  EXT. SULLIVAN GROUNDS/INT. LUTHER'S CAR - NIGHT

Luther, in the car, GUNNING AWAY.

126  EXT. SULLIVAN GROUNDS - WOODS - NIGHT
Collin. Slowing.

127 EXT. SULLIVAN GROUNDS - LUTHER'S CAR - NIGHT

The car. A swirl of dust.
The dust clears.
The car rounds a corner, is gone.

128 EXT. SULLIVAN GROUNDS - NIGHT

Collin. He stands there, rips off his thermal goggles --
-- and surprisingly, he smiles.
Burton, getting to his feet, his breath still not steady.
He takes his goggles off too as Collin approaches.

COLLIN
(still the smile)
I got his license number.

Now on that --

129 INT. SULLIVAN MASTER BEDROOM - NIGHT

Russell -- back in the bedroom, with Burton and Collin who are moving around constantly, checking the place out.
Things are just amazingly tense.

RUSSELL
(close to losing it)
Gee, guys, maybe it was the bogeyman -- don't forget to check under the bed --
(exploding)
-- You may have buried us! --

COLLIN
-- relax, I got his license number, remember? --

RUSSELL
(whirling on him)
-- you think he's going to just sit around waiting for us? -- Asshole --

COLLIN
-- take it easy, Miss Russell --
BURTON
(trying for calm)
-- everybody shut up, all right?

He is staring at his reflection in the big mirror. He crosses to it, goes to his knees, studies the rug.

The rug -- indentations in the expensive carpet.

BURTON

Oh boy...

Burton and Collin with a crowbar, working at the mirror.
The MIRROR; there is a TEAR and a POP and it swings open.

130  INT. SULLIVAN VAULT - NIGHT

All three going inside, looking around. The chair, the looted shelves. The truth thuds home.

Russell turns, looks out at the bedroom through the door.

RUSSELL

(dead)
A two-way mirror.

Silently, they move out into the bedroom.

131  INT. SULLIVAN MASTER BEDROOM - NIGHT

COLLIN
-- I better get cracking on that license number --

RUSSELL
(no anger now)
-- it's all we've got -- and he's got the letter opener -- blood, fingerprints -- Jesus, think what he can do --

BURTON
(a powerful man who speaks softly)
-- the man is a thief -- a thief who witnessed a murder --

(MORE)
131 CONTINUED:

BURTON (CONT'D)

(gesturing around)
-- it looks like he stole a whole bunch of money -- I'll tell you what he's going to do.
(beat)
He's going to run like hell.

And on that --

132 INT. WASHINGTON MUSEUM - DAY

The saddest eyes you ever saw.

It's the next morning and Luther is back at the same old stand, looking at El Greco. The other art students are there too. So are the suburban housewives.

Everything is as it was -- calm and peaceful --

-- now a museum guard moves into the doorway, scanning the room.

Luther -- a quick glance over, then back to his sketchbook -- and from that glance it's clear all is not calm and peaceful.

The guard checks the room again.

Edgy, Luther still works away.

The guard leaves.

Luther gets set to do the same.

133 INT. RED'S BAR - DAY

Red, alone in his empty bar, sipping coffee. It's before the place has opened for the day.

Luther comes in the back. Red slides the videocassette over, Luther pockets it.

RED
Jordan beat us at the buzzer.

LUTHER Bad night.

And as he turns, goes --
LUTHER
The jogging.

KATE (YOUNG WOMAN)
Ahh.

(CONTINUED)

Beat.

LUTHER
Dumb way to start this, I guess.

Beat.

LUTHER
Wanted to talk to you.

KATE
About?

LUTHER
Believe it or not, the weather.
   (as she waits)
Nights are starting to get cold.

KATE
That happens this time of year.

Luther speaks quickly now, his voice low.

LUTHER
I was thinking of maybe relocating. Someplace with a kinder climate.
   (nothing shows on her face)
I just wanted to check it out with you first...
   (still nothing)
... you're the only family I've got.

And on that --

Kate speaks quickly now, her voice low.

KATE
Luther, you don't have me.

The last words in this world he wanted to hear, but you can't tell from his face.
LUTHER
Kate --

KATE
-- you know what it's like being the only kid in show and tell who got to talk about visiting day?

(CONTINUED)

LUTHER
This move -- I'm talking permanent, you understand.

KATE
We don't see each other anyway -- we haven't seen each other since Mom died and that's a year.

(a step toward him)
Look, you chose your life. You had that right. You were never around for me. Fine. But I have no plans to be around for you.

And now she stops, turns away toward the path --

-- Luther can say nothing, watches her --

-- then she spins back --

KATE
(louder now)
-- wait a minute -- you're lying about something, aren't you? --

-- no --

LUTHER

KATE
-- are you active again? -- is that why you're here now?

-- no --

LUTHER

Kate moves in close now --

KATE
-- I don't believe you --

(big) -- Christ, Father, what have you done?

And on those words --

136  INT. SULLIVAN MASTER BEDROOM - DAY

Christy Sullivan's body.

We're back in the master bedroom but now there is a lot of police activity -- people work around the corpse. The place is covered with black fingerprint powder.

(CONTINUED)

)B(  ABSOLUTE POWER - Rev. 5/16/96

136  CONTINUED:

SETH FRANK moves into the room -- Bogart at 40. Chief Homicide Detective of Middleton County, Virginia but he had a decade of top work in New York City. Bright, funny, and tough enough for anything you want to throw at him.

He kneels beside the body next to an older man. This is the MEDICAL EXAMINER, fat and bored. Seth studies Christy; sadly shakes his head.

SETH
Christy Sullivan?

MEDICAL EXAMINER
(nods)
Wife of Walter -- most likely came home and stumbled onto a burglary --

WOMAN (O.S.)
-- some burglary.

LAURA SIMON. Laura is early 30s, and the best lab technician Seth has ever known, and he knew some good ones in New York.

LAURA SIMON
I wish my carpets were this clean.
And I can't find a single decent fingerprint.

SETH
You serious, Laura?

LAURA SIMON
(bewildered)
It's like Mary Poppins was here.
SETH
Could someone have let him in?

LAURA SIMON
Sorry, Seth, but the entire Sullivan household went to Barbados two days ago.

SETH
Thank you for your support.

(CONTINUED)

136 CONTINUED: (2) 136

LAURA SIMON
Wait -- it gets worse --
(moving to the door)
-- the shots came from here. If she interrupted a burglary, she should have been here -- (moving to the bed now)
-- she was killed where she is -- all the blood patterns indicate that. But she was looking toward the bed -- what in hell was she looking at?

137 INT. SULLIVAN VAULT - DAY 137
Seth says nothing as he and Laura go in the vault. Seth stares at the chair.

LAURA SIMON
Looks like someone sat here -- but I couldn't find any prints.
(lowering her voice -- indicating the one-way mirror)
You think Sullivan holed up in the chair and watched his wife perform?

SETH
I hope not --
(shakes his head)
-- he's such a great man.

He moves back into the bedroom.

138 INT. SULLIVAN MASTER BEDROOM - DAY 138
Another cop is working on the wall by the bed table where a hole the size and shape of a bullet is visible.

SETH
(as he moves past)
Careful digging that out.

The cop nods.

MEDICAL EXAMINER
Looks like he tried to strangle her.

(Continued)

39.

138 CONTINUED:

SETH
So he tried to strangle her, then went to the door and shot her from behind?

MEDICAL EXAMINER
He also inspected her vagina.

Seth. Stunned.

SETH
He did what? Why?

LAURA SIMON
Maybe he couldn't remember if he fucked her.

SETH
(has to laugh)
A strong burglar with a weak mind -- obviously another open and shut case...

As he stares around, baffled.

139 EXT. LUTHER'S SAFE HOUSE APT. BUILDING - DAY

A high rise. It's in a different part of Washington than we've seen thus far. Afternoon now.

An old salesman type is trudging into the building. He's slumped, carries heavy salesman type suitcases. He wears a battered hat. As he goes inside --
140 INT. BUILDING - FOYER/MAIL AREA - DAY

The salesman is opening a mail slot with the name "Hawthorne" on the outside. A good bit of mail, most of it unsolicited. Hawthorne pockets it, unlocks the foyer, heads toward the elevator.

141 INT. BUILDING - HALLWAY - DAY

The elevator and Hawthorne slowly getting out, heading toward a corner apartment, taking out some keys --

-- there are three locks on the door... he takes out keys --

142 INT. LUTHER'S SAFE HOUSE APARTMENT - DAY

Hawthorne walks in, puts the suitcases down, flings his hat toward a long sofa --

-- it's Luther and this, we will come to learn, is what he keeps as his safe house. It's neatly furnished, modern and clean.

Now he moves quickly --

-- first he opens a suitcase -- it contains his full backpack from the robbery --

-- then he opens a locked closet door, revealing a very large and sophisticated safe. As he begins to work the dial --

143 INT. LUTHER'S SAFE HOUSE APARTMENT - DAY (LATER)

-- the TV ON in the living room as he slides the video cassette Red gave him into his machine. Everything has been put away.

The TV as Michael Jordan is introduced to the crowd --

Luther sits, nurses a beer, watches intently...

144 INT. MORGUE - DAY

An old man silently weeping.

This is WALTER SULLIVAN, one of the giants of the era. A self-made billionaire. Remarkably, the man has few enemies.
At 80, his body may be betraying him -- he was once handsome -- but his mind is that of a young man.

We've seen him before -- in the wedding picture on the wall of his mansion. With his young bride Christy.

He is with her again now, at the morgue. A sheet covers her body. The toe tag is visible. Walter, shattered and desolate, stares at her once joyous face.

PULL BACK to reveal --

145   INT. MORGUE - OBSERVATION ROOM - DAY

Seth Frank, studying Walter THROUGH a two way mirror. Seth is moved at depth of the old man's grief. Anyone would be. Walter slowly rises --

146   INT. MORGUE - DAY

SANDY LORD waiting in an anteroom as Walter enters...

Sandy Lord is Walter Sullivan's lawyer. He is 60, abrasive, powerful.

Sandy moves to Walter, gestures toward the front door. Seth appears through another door, intercepts them.

SETH
Mr. Sullivan? -- I'm Seth Frank, senior homicide detective for Middleton County --

SANDY LORD
(protectively)
-- my client is in no mood for conversation, sir.

WALTER SULLIVAN
It's all right, Sandy -- (looks at Seth)
-- you're in charge of the case?

SETH
(nods)
I have to ask some questions, but it can be tomorrow.

WALTER SULLIVAN
You want what, positive identification? Yes, that was my wife. Anything else?
SETH
(notebook in hand)
You'd been in Barbados for two days?

WALTER SULLIVAN
(nods)
I took the entire staff down -- always do this time of year.

SETH
But Mrs. Sullivan didn't come.

WALTER SULLIVAN
She was, had it all planned, but you know women, they change their minds.

(MORE)

CONTINUED:

WALTER SULLIVAN (CONT'D)
(to Seth, softly)
I'd been married to my Rebecca for forty-seven years and when she died, I decided I never wanted that pain again. One thing I knew about Christy: she was going to outlive me.

SANDY LORD
I think that's enough for today.

Takes Walter's arm.

SETH
(beat)
I have to ask about the vault.

And on that -- Walter. Holds to Sandy for a moment, then lets go.

WALTER SULLIVAN
You mean the contents of the vault of course --
(turns to Sandy)
-- Sandy, you go on, I'm all right.
(as Sandy looks at him a moment)
Really. Go to the reception -- obviously I can't make it, but I'm sure everyone will understand.

Sandy nods, exits. Seth and Walter are alone.

Beat. Then --

WALTER SULLIVAN
I know it's not the contents --
(as Seth embarrassed, stands there)
You mean the chair. You have to ask about the chair.

SETH
(soft)
Yessir, I do.

WALTER SULLIVAN
But why? Are they connected?

(CONTINUED)

SETH
I think someone sat in it -- and I think that someone may have been involved in the murder.
(beat)
You were my father's hero, Mr. Sullivan, I promise you this won't make my highlight reel.

CLOSEUP - WALTER

Humiliated.

WALTER SULLIVAN
I'd hoped I could satisfy her... but you know... she had needs and she didn't want to go behind my back... she suggested the chair... she hoped I might get to like sitting there...
(beat)
... I didn't...
(takes a breath)
I've tried for eighty years to live a decent life. I've given a billion dollars to charity. If this comes to trial, none of that will be remembered -- I'll just go out as the joke of the world.
Seth. He closes his notebook.

SETH
I understand, sir; I'll do what I can.

WALTER SULLIVAN
(beat)
Will you listen to me whine?
Please forgive me, Mr. Frank.
Just do your job.
(beat)
And I'll do mine.

Walter slowly moves to the door. Seth watches him. Sadly...

147 EXT. WHITE HOUSE - MAGIC HOUR
A gorgeous SHOT of a very famous place. The sun is setting. It all looks magical.

148 INT. WHITE HOUSE - NORTH PORTICO - NIGHT
A room filled with well-dressed men and women. Formal attire. The rich and the famous. But the only one we recognize is Sandy Lord, deep in conversation with several other men. Now, someone says his name.

MAN (O.S.)
Sandy.
(as Sandy turns)
Is there anything I can do?

SANDY LORD
Mr. President.

And on those words -- The 44th President of the United States. He has all the natural charm in the world. He is remarkably bright, with a phenomenal memory. He is, also, at this moment, one of the most popular men in American history, three years into a brilliant first term, a shoo-in for re-election when that ritual comes.

His name, by the way, is Alan Richmond, and we've seen him before, most recently lying drunk in the back seat of a dark Towncar.

RICHMOND
Take a walk with me.

He and Sandy start out of the room. A well-dressed woman moves with them. She is Chief of Staff and her name is GLORIA RUSSELL.

Two men in suits follow behind. Burton and Collin are their names and they are the best the Secret Service has to offer.

149 INT. WHITE HOUSE - CORRIDOR - NIGHT

The group, as they leave the room, come to a wide corridor.

RICHMOND
Tell me about Walter -- how is he?

SANDY LORD
Eighty and alone, Mr. President.

RICHMOND
He understands officially my hands are tied?

SANDY LORD
Mr. President, he's touched at your concern.

(CONTINUED)

RICHMOND
Any news of the killer?
(as Sandy indicates "no")
Well, why isn't there? Who's in charge of the case?

SANDY LORD
Top man -- eight years homicide work in New York. But I understand how you feel -- it's hard to be patient.

RICHMOND
(terribly upset)
No one understands how I feel -- I'm supposed to have all this power but I can't help my oldest friend -- you know and I know that more than any man alive Walter Sullivan put me here -- and now when he most needs me, he must feel abandoned.
CLOSEUP - RICHMOND

On fire --

RICHMOND
-- I'll hold a press conference -- and I'll have Walter come -- and I will embrace him before the world.

Sandy. Listening. Moved.

SANDY LORD
He'll treasure that, Mr.
President. What a generous gesture. Thank you. Thank you.

And he reaches out, shakes Richmond's hand, squeezes Richmond's arm and -- Richmond -- suddenly screaming in pain -- Sandy pulls back, shocked. Richmond looks embarrassed.

RICHMOND
(quick smile)
Damn tennis elbow is killing me.

And on that --

150 INT. HALLWAY OUTSIDE OVAL OFFICE - NIGHT

Richmond, immediately after, and he sure isn't smiling now -- he storms toward the Oval Office, Russell, Burton and Collin hurrying to keep up.

151 INT. OVAL OFFICE - NIGHT

Burton opens the door for them, closes it once they're inside.

RICHMOND (throws off his jacket, turns on Russell)
This thing's worse, Gloria. I need to see a doctor.

RUSSELL
The country would have to be informed, Mr. President.

RICHMOND
What happened to my right to privacy?
(rolls up his sleeve, studies his cut)
I think she nicked a tendon.

RUSSELL
Burton says it's a flesh wound --

RICHMOND
(to Burton)
-- when did you become such an expert, Bill? -- Ever been wounded? --

BURTON
(quietly)
Yes, sir. Many times.

The fireplace. Richmond goes to it, rubs his arm, stares at the flames.

RUSSELL
Are you serious about that press conference, Alan?

RICHMOND
Of course I am -- Walter's been like a father to me.

RUSSELL
Shall I bring Mrs. Richmond home for it?

(continues)

151 CONTINUED: 151

Richmond, turning from the fire now, quietly.

RICHMOND
I think Mrs. Richmond's mission to help the poor in Asia should not be interrupted.
(takes a breath, starts to button his shirt)
We know anything yet?

RUSSELL
We checked his license plate -- he stole the car from a police impoundment lot.

RICHMOND
We're not dealing with a fool here.

gestures toward his jacket, as Russell helps him into it)
Has he initiated contact?

RUSSELL
Burton doesn't think he will.

RICHMOND
I agree.

(checking himself in a mirror)
Sorry about my behavior -- won't happen again; think of it as a blip on the screen. And as far as I'm concerned, so is he.

RUSSELL
He could be a little more than that, Alan -- he saw.

Richmond. Big.

RICHMOND
He saw nothing -- a drunk woman who liked rough sex too much. And he's a burglar. Who's going to believe him?

(beat)
After all, it's not as if he had evidence or anything...

And on those words --

)B(  ABSOLUTE POWER - Rev. 5/16/96 48.

INT. LUTHER'S SAFE HOUSE APARTMENT - LETTER OPENER - NIGHT
Luther holds it. It's the middle of the night. Luther turns the weapon over and over in his big hands...

EXT. WHITE HOUSE REAR GATE - NIGHT (LITTLE LATER) 153 *
Burton is alone in his car, exiting the gate and driving home. He turns onto the main road.

EXT. STREET NEAR WHITE HOUSE/INT. BURTON'S CAR - NIGHT 154
He picks up speed. Glances around -- no cars are following.

Burton reaches into his pocket, takes out a MICRO-CASSETTE RECORDER, flicks it ON.

RICHMOND (V.O.)
What happened to my right to privacy?
(beat)
I think she nicked a tendon.

Burton clicks the cassette off, puts it back into his pocket. Drives into the night...

155 INT. KATE’S APARTMENT - TINY KITCHEN - DAY

A stove with one burner on high. A tea kettle is over the flame.

It is morning and Kate is clearly not fully awake. She is finishing making instant coffee with lowfat milk and Sweet 'n Low; next she goes to the front door of her apartment, opens it, picks up the morning Washington Post.

She unfolds the paper as she starts back to the kitchen --

INSERT - WASHINGTON POST

Huge headlines -- as big as you can get without a war.

WALTER SULLIVAN’S WIFE MURDERED

(CONTINUED)

49.

155 CONTINUED:

BACK TO SCENE

Kate looks at it only a moment, shakes her head, then starts to turn her attention to another section of the paper --

-- she doesn't get that far.

Kate: she has seen something she didn't catch before --

The front page again. And the headline is still there --

-- but there is a smaller headline beneath it:

Jewel Thief Sought

Kate sits down hard. Trying for control. Entering a nightmare. She stares at the paper.

The front page. Pictures of the mansion, of Walter smiling on his wedding day, of Christy.

But Kate's eyes keep coming back to the smaller headline:

Jewel Thief Sought

She tries to sip coffee, spills. She closes her eyes -- in the kitchen, the pot of WATER starts to SHRIEK. Kate does not move.

156  EXT. VALERIE'S MIDDLE CLASS NEIGHBORHOOD - DAY  156
(EARLY AFTERNOON)

Kids riding bicycles. Very Norman Rockwell.

157  INT. VALERIE'S BASEMENT - DAY  157

A bald man. There is the sound of a CLICK. We realize after a moment that the bald man is Luther.

Another SHOT of Luther looking very different -- full beard. Again, a CLICK.

Luther again -- elegant beard this time. CLICK.

PULL BACK to reveal --

We are in the basement game room of one of the suburban homes.

But our attention is on a whole string of Polaroids of Luther.

(CONTINUED)

50.

157  CONTINUED:

Two people are present: Luther and VALERIE. Valerie is very small, and doesn't miss much.

She has been photographing him, and as the last photo slides out of the camera, she blows on it, puts it alongside the others.

VALERIE
(as they study the pictures)

You always did disappear good, Luther.
LUTHER
You mean I've got a weak face.
Thanks, Val.

VALERIE
You're lucky is all -- some of my customers, they stand out no matter what.

VALERIE
How many passports you need?

LUTHER
(thinks)
Four should cover it.

VALERIE
(writes this down)
Now you'll want different looks, and matching international driver's licenses -- I'll throw in some dummy credit cards, seeing it's you. How the rugs I made you holding up?

LUTHER
They're good. Beards and mustaches, too.

VALERIE
(pleased)
I try to give value for money. Leaving the country permanent?

LUTHER
It may come to that.

(continuing)
VALERIE
Usually takes some time, but for you, I'll rush it.

LUTHER
Thanks, Val. I've always been able to count on you.

Valerie puts the order book down, studies him.

LUTHER
What?

VALERIE
I don't want to know what you're into, but leaving forever...

LUTHER Finish it.

VALERIE
I never figured you for a runner -- thirty percent of my runners kill themselves within five years.

LUTHER
(kisses her forehead)
Five years doesn't sound so bad to me just now.

And as he heads out --

158 INT. POLICE HEADQUARTERS - CRIMINAL LAB - DAY

Seth and Laura in the good-sized criminal lab. Loaded with up-to-date equipment.

Seth has drawn a picture of the crime scene. Words like "Bedroom Door," "Exit Window," "Vault," "Bed," "Victim" are written neatly to scale. He holds a sheaf of papers.

(CONTINUED)

158 CONTINUED:

It's late afternoon and things are already getting crazed. NOISE in the b.g. throughout.

SETH
See if any of this makes sense.

Seth mimes opening the "bedroom door," stepping inside, closing it. He makes a click with his tongue.

SETH
I am Christy Sullivan and I walk in and surprise a burglar.

Seth moves to the "vault door," mimes closing that, makes a grunt.

LAURA
Now you're the burglar coming out of the vault and being surprised.

SETH
Gold star.
(aims his finger like a pistol)
I draw my gun --

LAURA
(cutting in)
-- then why do you bother to strangle her when you could just shoot?

SETH
That's nothing -- why do I bother to have her strip and then put her clothes back on?

LAURA
There I can help you -- see, before you were a burglar you were a dry cleaner and you still love beautiful clothes.

SETH
And I dress her because?

LAURA
She was a good customer and you didn't want her embarrassed when the police came.

(continued) *
level. -- she was too drunk to drive. I've checked every cab and limo company in the area and not one of them knows anything. Someone drove her home. Goddamit, who? And why haven't they come forward?

LAURA

Maybe whoever drove her home killed her.

SETH

You saying the burglar drove her home?

(pissed)

I hate this case.

An open door behind them. A TELEPHONE REPAIRMAN appears. Nice looking kid with a dazzling smile.

TELEPHONE REPAIRMAN

Lieutenant? -- sorry to bother you --

(as Seth turns)

I've got your phone working again, shouldn't give you any more trouble.

SETH

Good service, thanks.

TELEPHONE REPAIRMAN

(dazzling smile as he goes)

Part of the job.

Seth and Laura. Seth's lost his train of thought. Then --

SETH

Oh yeah -- remember that bullet hole in the wall? Had the lab dig out the slug -- guess what -- no slug -- why does the burglar take the time to do that?

LAURA

Different from the one in her body?

(Continued)
(getting more and more upset)
Oh I like that a lot -- two different guns means two different burglars. Two guys broke in? And they both went out the window? Bullshit.
(big)
And oh, by the way, why does he -- or they -- go out the window in the first place when he -- or they -- got in by breaking a zillion-dollar security system? --

COP (O.S.)
-- Seth?

SETH
(whirling) What?

COP
(in doorway)
A Bill Burton of the Secret Service in the parking lot.

SETH
(gives papers to Laura)
Here, you solve the goddam thing.
(as he starts away)
Did I mention that I hate this case? I really truly hate this case -- you cannot imagine how much I hate it --

159    EXT. POLICE HEADQUARTERS - PARKING LOT - DAY
Burton waits by his car as Seth walks up.

BURTON
(as they shake)
Bill Burton, hi --

SETH
-- hi, Seth Frank --

BURTON
-- I know you must be going crazy -- but the boss is very interested in your progress. Maybe we can help each other.

(CONTINUED)
SETH
What did you have in mind?

BURTON
You know how close he and Sullivan are?
   (as Seth nods)
The minute anything breaks, if you'd call me, I'd tell the President. That way, he'd be the first to alert Mr. Sullivan -- it would mean a lot to him. And any red tape you want cut -- done.
   (as he takes out card)
Here are my numbers.

He turns, opens his front car door.

BURTON
   (getting in) Leads?

SETH
Still trying to figure out what might have happened --

BURTON
-- I loved playing Sherlock Holmes.

SETH
   (surprised)
You Secret Service guys do that?

BURTON
I was State Trooper here ten years ago before the Government got me.

Seth. It just pops out.

SETH
You're that Bill Burton.

Burton. Embarrassed.

BURTON
I was younger and dumber then.
   (quickly)
Keep in touch.

Seth waves as Burton drives away.
EXT. STREET NEAR POLICE HEADQUARTERS - DAY

Burton. He drives alertly along, turns a corner. Up ahead, a telephone repair truck has stopped. The Repairman leans out. He has a dazzling smile. He and Burton wave to each other...

INT. SULLIVAN DINING ROOM - NIGHT

Quietly elegant. Two men are finishing dinner. Walter Sullivan we know.

MICHAEL McCARTY, his dinner companion, is 35, fit, handsome, beautifully dressed. He is, at present, torn by a silver tray of small French pastries.

WALTER SULLIVAN

(noting McCarty's temptation)
The chef makes them especially for me -- I promise you they're sinful.

McCarty grabs one, downs it, grins sheepishly.

McCARTY

You're a salesman, Mr. Sullivan.

Sullivan nods as they rise.

INT. SULLIVAN LIVING ROOM - NIGHT

Tastefully appointed, as one would expect.

WALTER SULLIVAN

This is a new arena for me, but from what I'm told, you have a flawless reputation, Mister McCarty -- which is why I need to employ you.

McCARTY

Understood.

WALTER SULLIVAN

I have no idea who I'm after. Until I do, you will have to wait in Washington for instructions.

(CONTINUED)
McCARTY
Out of the question, I'm afraid.
(explaining as they walk)
Mine isn't particularly creative work -- I only do it because I enjoy living beyond my means. I can't afford to just sit around.

A sofa. Walter gestures for them to sit.

WALTER SULLIVAN
When I was 10 my father died -- he was a miner and lung disease killed him. I became rich at 25 and the first thing I did was purchase that mine, close it, and give every miner there fifty thousand dollars to retire on.
(beat; staring at McCarty now)
You will come to Washington, Mr. McCarty. You will put one million dollars expenses into the Swiss bank account of your choosing.
(beat)
And, when the time comes, two million dollars a bullet.

McCARTY
(smiles, nods)
You are a salesman, sir.

WALTER SULLIVAN
Selling sin is easy...

Now, sharply...

CUT TO:

INT. SETH'S OFFICE - CLOSEUP - OLD MUG SHOT OF LUTHER - DAY

FULL BACK to reveal...

... Seth and Laura, in his office. The mug shot is on his desk, along with some folders. Seth beckons to her.

LAURA
(studying photo)
Who is he?
SETH
Luther Whitney --
(beat)
-- one of the great thieves of the world.

Seth. The words pour out.

SETH
Been going nuts with this thing, up all night and I remembered your notion how it might be two burglars, and around dawn I thought, wait, what if it wasn't two burglars but what if it was one guy trying to throw us off by making it look like two?
(faster)
Called a buddy at the Bureau -- they keep track of this stuff internationally -- he says maybe only a half a dozen guys alive could have pulled off the Sullivan job -- I'm tracing all six --
(beat)
-- but Whitney's the only one lives in Washington.

Laura. Looking at Seth now. Starting to get excited, too.

LAURA
Why haven't I ever heard of him?

SETH
Because he hasn't been arrested in thirty years.

LAURA
(indicating mug shot)
This his graduation picture from Harvard?

SETH
(waving her off)
Ancient history -- he wasn't a jewel thief back then. Just a kid, just part of a gang, a three-time loser. But since he got out the last time, he's only worked alone --

(MORE)

(CONTINUED)

B( ABSOLUTE POWER - Rev. 5/16/96 59.

163 CONTINUED: (2) 163

SETH (CONT'D)

(beat)
-- and no one's touched him.
(shakes his head)
He gets questioned whenever anything big comes up. But nothing sticks.

LAURA really excited now)

Seth -- we can make this stick --
I'll bet you anything this is our guy -- a local? -- can't ask for more --

SETH

(makes a face)
We've got a problem.

LAURA

-- what? --

SETH

Whitney hasn't killed anyone in 45 years.

Laura doesn't get it.

SETH

Korea.

LAURA

Big deal, so he's a veteran.

SETH

Not just a veteran -- a wounded veteran.
(indicating folder)
Got his combat record here.
Battles, commendations, * decorations up the kazoo. *
Lives alone on his disability. *
Says he does anyway. *
(glum) *
And I don't do war heroes... *
Luther -- it's a beautiful morning now and he's walking up the steps to the art museum. He seems in a terrific mood as he goes inside --

(continued)

Seth has been on the steps of the museum, watching him. Now quickly --

Luther, inside, peering back out at Seth. And he doesn't seem in as terrific a mood now. He hesitates, keeps on going.

Seth. Outside -- and he knows Luther was watching.

El Greco. The usual group has gathered, sketching away. Luther is deeply engrossed in his labors.

Seth enters the room, casually taking it all in. He approaches the group, ends up behind Luther who is intent on getting the hands right.

LUTHER
(not looking)
Boy, you must be smart.

SETH
(really taken aback)
Sorry?

LUTHER
Usually takes a week for you guys to get to me.
(turns, smiles)
You look just like your picture,
Seth. I'm Luther Whitney.

He reaches out to shake a surprised Seth's hand --

168  INT. MUSEUM - COFFEE SHOP - DAY

They walk in, go to the food line. There is, throughout, a bantering tone. Not that it matters, but these two, in a different world, would like each other -- they're both, in their own ways, deeply moral men.

LUTHER

So, do you want my confession now or after coffee?

As Luther draws some coffee from an urn --

SETH

(doing the same)

Before I send you away for life, I should probably check out your alibi.

(Continued)

61.

168  CONTINUED:

LUTHER

Watched the Bullets game with Red Bransford. Prison buddy of mine -- runs a bar -- want to question me about the game? I'm probably lying.

They each give the cashier some money and we see a quiet table in the corner as they head for it.

SETH

You been following the case?

LUTHER

(nods vigorously)

I love true crime --

SETH

-- F.B.I. feels only a few guys could have handled something as hard as the Sullivan job.

(touches his notebook)

I've got a list here; you're on it.

LUTHER
(nothing shows)
I wish it was true.
(shakes his head)
Your robber actually went in the front door but came out down a rope in the dark in the middle of the night?
(as Seth nods; Luther sighs)
If only I could do stuff like that -- I'd be the star of my A.A.R.P. meetings.

Luther and Seth as they sit. Seth smiles, looks at Luther.

SETH

(beat)
Luther? Why was this so hard?

Luther. Now he's surprised. He kind of smiles.

LUTHER
You want me to help solve your case?

(continued)

62.

168 CONTINUED: (2)

SETH

Just looking for insight. How would you -- scratch that -- how would one go about it? What kind of person do you think I should be looking for?

LUTHER
(like a shot)
Older fella. Like me.

SETH
(now he smiles)
Because?

LUTHER
Need patience. The secret is just research, research, research -- from everything I've read.

Seth. This hasn't gone at all the way he thought -- and he's starting to get fascinated.

SETH
Research for what?

LUTHER
Well, from what I can tell on the tube, it's not a small house.
(as Seth nods)
There had to be an architect, right? You'd be able to tell which one from public records in the library. And once you know the office, you could break in and find the plans and Xerox them, get them back before morning.

SETH
Not just steal them?

LUTHER
Seth -- breaking in isn't hard -- what's hard is breaking in so no one knows you've been there. Now, after the architect, next you'd want the contractor's office -- and the security company's office.
(beat)
You know the skill involved breaking the security of a security company?
(shakes his head)
I wonder how those guys do it?

(continued)

SETH
Why go to all that trouble?

LUTHER
Papers said he kept the money in a vault, yes?
(as Seth nods)
Well, I'm guessing there was probably some secret way to open it --

SETH
(casually) -- clicker --

LUTHER
(fascinated)
-- explain --
SETH
-- gizmo -- looked like a V.C.R. remote --

LUTHER (shaking his head)
-- amazing --
(beat)
-- must have been a lot of money inside.

SETH
(sipping casually; a pause)
Five million.

And on those words --
Luther, more than he thought, a lot more -- but of course nothing shows -- instead he breaks out laughing.

SETH
Why's that funny?

LUTHER
The way you said it -- as if you were trying to surprise me.

SETH
(smiles)
I was trying to surprise you.

LUTHER
(smiles back)
There you go.

(CONTINUED)

64.

168 CONTINUED: (4) 168

Seth sips his coffee, takes out his notebook, opens it.

SETH
Would the burglar use a disguise?

LUTHER
Seth, you've got to get with the program you expect to catch this guy -- most likely it is a guy, am I right? Some kind of weird loner?

SETH
Maybe like you.
LUTHER
(couldn't agree more)
I'm the perfect prototype.
(sipping away)
But you see any face often enough, you'll start putting things together. That's why these top guys disguise themselves. I read a great article a couple of years back -- damn, I wish I could remember where -- anyway, it was about these makeup experts some of them use -- wigmakers, people like that.

SETH
(flipping a page)
Go on about the wigmakers.

LUTHER
(glancing at his watch)
I'd love that but I'm late as it is -- got to get my pacemaker checked.
(he likes Seth)
-- all this excitement, you understand.

SETH
(and he likes Luther)
A) You don't have a pacemaker, and
B) I'll be back tomorrow.

LUTHER
Tomorrow is promised to no one.

HOLD ON Luther.

169 INT. LUTHER'S SMALL HOUSE - BEDROOM - NIGHT
Luther is throwing clothes into a suitcase while talking on the phone --

LUTHER
Not 'til morning?
(makes a face)
-- I'll be by early --

He hangs up, shuts the suitcase, takes off out the door --

170 INT. KATE'S APARTMENT - NIGHT
A place we've seen briefly before. Dark. Moonlight through the windows.

The sound of a KEY IN the DOOR.

Luther enters, takes out a tiny flashlight. We're in one largish room, books all over. The home of someone who doesn't care a whole lot about their home.

171 INT. KITCHEN - NIGHT

Luther enters. He opens the fridge. Disaster -- still water, sparkling water, carrot sticks.

LUTHER
(sadly, muttering)
Katie darling, you've gotta try real food sometime.

He closes the door, moves back into the room --

172 INT. KATE'S APARTMENT - NIGHT

A graduation photo of Kate. Luther touches it with a fingertip, moves on through the silence.

173 INT. KATE'S APARTMENT - BEDROOM - NIGHT

Luther by the bed now, he flashes his light around --

And photographs. A proud mother and daughter picture. The daughter is Kate. The mother is a fine-looking woman with a kind face.

(continued)

173 CONTINUED:

Half a dozen more shots as Kate grew up, the mother grew older. Mother and daughter, mother and daughter. Nothing unusual here at all.

So why is Luther so sad?

HOLD.
10 A.M. A white-brick, weather-beaten building, Old Glory fighting the breeze.

RICHMOND {V.O.}
I am having this press conference here because...

Richmond, speaking on a podium. The press corps stands in front of him, TV crews of all kinds, CNN the most noticeable.

RICHMOND
... it is here, at this courthouse, * that Christine Sullivan's killer will be tried for his crime.

Burton and Collin, in the b.g., scanning the crowd. Gloria Russell stands behind them.

The same shot -- only now it's grainy -- we're watching it on a TV SCREEN. CNN ON the TUBE.

A BARTENDER cleaning glasses; otherwise, not a whole lot going on.

Now Luther enters, dressed for travel. He goes to a stool, orders a ginger ale, puts his passport and ticket on the bar, glances toward the TV.

LUTHER
Turn that off, okay?

BARTENDER
(finishing up the glasses)
In a sec.

Richmond at his press conference. He speaks without notes and he speaks beautifully.

RICHMOND
As you know, I came from an impoverished family in an impoverished town -- but we lived with our doors unlocked.
Russell watching, listening; she loves hearing him talk.

RICHMOND (O.S.)
We all lock our doors now, but that is not what concerns me...

Burton and Collin, scanning the crowd.

RICHMOND (O.S.)
... we are also locking our hearts... that is the sadness, that is the loss.

Richmond, and suddenly he's like a Southern minister.

RICHMOND
We are locking our hearts to the cries of the weary, we are locking our hearts to the poor and their pain...

An old man, standing behind Russell. We realize it's
Walter Sullivan.

RICHMOND (O.S.)
... Sisters and brothers, we are locking our hearts to ourselves.

177 INT. AIRPORT LOUNGE - DAY 177

Walter Sullivan. Grainy now. CNN. He has aged shockingly in the past couple of days.

Luther staring sympathetically at the devastated old man.

-- Sullivan's image suddenly is gone --

-- The Bartender has TURNED OFF the TELEVISION.

LUTHER
(politely)
Put it back on.

(CONTINUED)

B( ABSOLUTE POWER - Rev. 5/16/96 68.

177 CONTINUED:

BARTENDER
(starting to argue)
You said --

LUTHER
(cutting through)
Do it --

CNN. Walter Sullivan is still there.

RICHMOND (V.O.)
We feel savagery and violence must be allowed a place at table.
(beat)
That is wrong. That is not America. I shall fight that battle.

Luther, staring at the image of Walter Sullivan, who is heartsick and beaten. Luther is simply transfixed --

-- Richmond on CNN and now he has turned and is beckoning for Walter Sullivan to join him.

Sullivan for a moment is uncertain. He points to himself -- "do you mean me?" Richmond nods, opens his arms out wide. Sullivan gets up, comes forward.

Luther, as he gets up too, also comes forward, leaving the stool, walking close to the television.

Richmond and Sullivan, grainy on CNN as Richmond embraces Sullivan, holds him in a loving embrace.

RICHMOND (V.O.)
Dear friend, old friend, we shall fight that battle.

Sullivan, too overcome by the moment, can only nod.

RICHMOND (V.O.)
Who can explain the ways of chance? If we had never met, I would not be President. If Christine had not taken ill, she would be with you in Barbados even now. Oh, Walter, you've always been like a father to me. I would give the world to lessen your pain.

69.

178    EXT. MIDDLETON COUNTY COURTHOUSE - DAY    178

The press corps. Subdued, saddened.

Richmond and Walter. They turn, face the cameras. The president's arm is still around the old man; they both blink back tears and now -- -- here it comes ! --

179 INT. AIRPORT LOUNGE - EXTREME CLOSEUP - LUTHER - DAY

Tears of rage in his eyes. A rage so deep it shocks him --

LUTHER

You -- heartless -- prick -- (building)
-- you -- fucking -- bastard --

The Bartender, surprised, turning toward Luther. He starts to say something, stops; something tells him to shut up and he does.

180 EXT. MIDDLETON COUNTY COURTHOUSE - DAY

Richmond, wiping away tears, alone on camera.

181 INT. AIRPORT LOUNGE - DAY

Luther, wiping away tears, in the bar.

A SHOT of the two of them, Luther and Richmond, one on CNN, one in reality, because Luther has moved so close to the TV he and Richmond could almost be staring at each other.

LUTHER

(whispered now)
I'm not running -- not from you.
(beat)
I'm going to bring you down...

HOLD ON the two men.

182 INT. WHITE HOUSE - NORTH PORTICO - DAY

Seventy very excited people we've never seen before. They stare around at their surroundings -- they are in the White House. On a guided tour.

(continued)

B(ABSOLUTE POWER - Rev. 5/16/96 70.

182 CONTINUED:

A bright late morning of what's going to be a beautiful day. A guide leads the people through a doorway. They troop happily along.
Luther is with them; he seems happy too.

183 INT. WHITE HOUSE - NORTH PORTICO AREA - DAY

The guide leads the people through. They look around, chat with their friends, follow the guide out.

Luther follows the guide out too.

HOLD ON the room.

All is as it was.

Except a large envelope has been dropped on a side table.

MOVE IN ON the envelope --

-- it's addressed to Gloria Russell.

184 INT. WHITE HOUSE - GLORIA RUSSELL'S OFFICE - DAY

Gloria Russell. Terrified.

Her doors are closed, Russell is at her desk. Burton stands alongside. Collin, silent, sits in a corner.

And on her desk, half out of the envelope, is a photograph of the letter opener.

RUSSELL

He was in the building -- he took a guided tour.

Burton pulls the picture all the way out, studies it.

RUSSELL

I've never dealt with blackmail --

BURTON

(trying for calm)

-- he doesn't want money --

RUSSELL

(exploding)

-- you a mind reader too?

(Continued)

71.

184 CONTINUED:

BURTON

(under control)
No, I just looked on the back -- (shows her )
-- see? --

Luther has written something.

RUSSELL
(reading)
'I don't want money.'

Russell is more upset. Burton almost smiles.

LUTHER
(admiringly)
This guy sure has the guts of a burglar. Wish we had him.

Collin laughs.

RUSSELL
You finished your recruiting speech? Because I'd like to know how I handle this.

BURTON
Like you handled the letter opener?

Russell. She studies Burton. Then --

RUSSELL
Gee, Bill, that could be construed as criticism. Do you really want me as an enemy?

Burton stands there, massively powerful. His voice, when he speaks, is his usual voice: polite, considerate.

BURTON
Miss Russell, I should have called the police that night. But I was weak. You convinced me to stay silent. I regret that.
(another pause)
Know this: every time I see your face I want to rip your throat out.

Russell. Silence.

(CONTINUED)
RUSSELL
Fine -- you win the pissing contest -- (then suddenly almost like a little girl)
-- what should I do?

BURTON
Nothing -- because he's making a terrible mistake, he thinks he has time -- he doesn't -- Seth Frank's too good. He'll bring him in.

RUSSELL
Then what?

COLLIN
(his first words)
Then I kill him.

Now, from them --

185  INT. KATE'S OFFICE - DAY  185

She is, we will find, a top prosecutor for the Commonwealth of Virginia. Her office is a zoo.

On her desk, a baby picture of Kate and her mom smiling
-- but there is something a little different about it.

Seth enters and they shake. He glances around --

-- sees the photograph, glances away.

Kate has risen now -- and in the silence it's clear that even though they are both standing still, they are both circling.

SETH
(trying for a smile)
For a tough prosecutor, you don't resemble your reputation, Miss Whitney.

KATE
(the same)
Is that good or bad?

(MORE)

(CONTINUED)

73
KATE (CONT'D)
(before Seth can reply)
Look, Lieutenant -- I told you on the phone, I'm simply not involved with my father, so this may not be a waste of time for you, but it sure is for me.

SETH
What would you do if I just turned around and left?

KATE
Report you as an incompetent.

SETH
(a real smile now)
You're exactly like your reputation, Miss Whitney --

As they head out --

186 INT. LOUNGE OUTSIDE KATE'S OFFICE - DAY 186
They enter. It's empty.

SETH
(the instant they're alone)
I'm assuming your father's a big part of you --

-- what? --

KATE
-- You think it's all coincidence? He's a thief and you just happen to be the toughest prosecutor in the area?

KATE
(just amazed)
Wow -- that never crossed my mind -- you think there might be some connection? -- Like maybe I'm somehow compensating? -- I better write that down.

SETH
-- Luther disappeared.

(CONTINUED)
No reaction.

A banged-up couch. Kate sits, shrugs.

SETH
I think you can help me.

KATE
Lieutenant -- I don't know the man -- he was in jail when I was a kid, when he got out my mother and I went off to live by ourselves. We don't make contact. He doesn't care about me. I've seen him all of once this past year.

SETH
When?

KATE
Couple days ago. He said he might be going away. There. I just helped you. Can I go back to work now?

SETH
(shakes his head)
Any idea where he might have gone?

Seth and Kate realize something: In a different world, under different circumstances, they'd probably be starting an affair.

KATE
(snappishly)
Quit wasting my time -- if he doesn't want you to find him, you're not going to find him.

SETH
You saying he's left town, skipped the country, what?

KATE
I'm saying you won't recognize him. I'm saying he could be just around the corner -- he always kept a safe house --

SETH
(cutting in)
(CONTINUED)

KATE
He never said --

SETH
-- Then where'd you hear this?

CLOSEUP - KATE

KATE
-- my mother loved him, all right?
-- Even after she left him -- even when she was dying she always talked about him -- 'If only he hadn't this,' 'if only he could have that' --

She stops.

Seth, watching her.

SETH
And?

KATE
I meet a lot of asshole cops like you -- guys who O.D.'d on Columbo --

SETH
-- Lady, I may be an asshole cop but you don't know me well enough to call me one --

KATE
-- There's something else, isn't there? Something you want me to do? -- But you won't say ---

Seth. There is. But he won't say.

Kate. For the first time now, apprehension. Now --

EXT. LUTHER'S HOUSE - DAY

The row of small, neat houses -- where Luther lived.
Kate and Seth get out of his car, go to the front door.

KATE

How long did he live here?

(CONTINUED)

(CONTINUED)

76.

187 CONTINUED:

SETH

Years.

KATE

Never been.

188 EXT. LUTHER'S FRONT DOOR - DAY

Seth stoops, gets the key from under the terra cotta planter.

SETH

Strange place for a thief to leave a key, don't you think?

KATE

(quick memory)

He always did that...

189 INT. LUTHER'S HOUSE - LIVING ROOM - DAY

They enter.   It's surprisingly tidy.

Seth and Kate as they move along.   Seth is watching Kate who suddenly stops dead.

The mantle. A large blowup of the same picture Kate had in her office, the one of Kate and her mom --

-- with one startling change: Luther is in this shot, standing there proud and smiling. She has ripped his presence out of her photo.

Seth, silently watching Kate. She turns sharply away. He gestures for her to follow.

190 INT. LUTHER'S BEDROOM - DAY

They enter.   Clothes tossed all over.

SETH
He sure took off in a hurry. What scares a professional thief like that?

Kate. No reply. She has seen something across the tiny room and is drawn to it --

Luther's bed table --

-- and here it is!

(CONTINUED)

190

CONTINUED:

Call it a montage, call it a collage, call it what you will, we are looking at dozens of photographs --

-- all of them featuring Kate.

Many of them we saw in her apartment -- only here, as in the photo over the mantle, Luther is there with Kate and her mom.

We are looking at a shrine!

And there are newer photos too -- Kate at her college graduation, Kate at her law school graduation, Kate and her mother coming out of an elegant restaurant, Kate alone on the steps of Middleton County Courthouse --

-- these are not posed shots.

She looks wonderful and alive in all of them --

Kate. She looks dead now. All energy gone. She sits heavily down on the bed.

KATE

(fighting tears)

... but he wasn't at those places...

(pointing to the grown-up photos)

... college graduation; law school graduation; the night Mom and I celebrated when I got a job; and me alone on the steps? -- I'd just won my first case, I was so proud...

(still fighting)

... I used to think... sometimes I'd come home and I'd sense he'd been in my apartment, checking the fridge, shaking his head because he never thought I ate right... It's crazy but I just knew Daddy was watching over me...

And now she loses it, starts crying silently.

Seth kneels alongside her, gives her a handkerchief.

SETH

You can do a good thing, Kate -- (beat) -- help me bring him in. Just leave a message on his phone machine, you're worried about him.

(CONTINUED)

KATE

... No...

SETH

It's the truth -- you are worried about him -- this isn't your normal case -- his life may be in danger -- you can save him, make the call --

KATE

... He won't come...

SETH

(indicating the pictures)

Of course he'll come. You're all he has.

Kate, staring at the photos, trying to get control.

SETH

(moving in)

Kate, he's on the run and he's scared and he's right to be scared because he's going to get caught -- you don't know the heat on this.

KATE

He's not a murderer.

SETH

Maybe you're right. Maybe he is innocent. If so I'll have him home and dry in a few hours. But what happens if some hotshot who's trying to make a reputation tracks him down?

(beat)
I can guarantee his safety. You make the call, I make a promise:
You'll have your father, home and dry...

191 INT. KATE'S APARTMENT - LATE AFTERNOON

Kate alone. Totally wiped out. She is on the phone with Seth. Outside, the sun is dying.

KATE
I left a message on his machine, he called back within an hour;
we're meeting tomorrow afternoon.

192 INT. SETH'S OFFICE - LATE AFTERNOON

Seth, taking it down.

SETH
Where?

KATE (V.O.)
An open-air place near my office, the Cafe Alonzo --

Seth's excited.

193 INT. TREASURY BUILDING - BURTON'S OFFICE - BURTON - LATE AFTERNOON taking it down.

KATE (V.O.)
Four o'clock -- it's deserted then.

Burton's excited too. HOLD.

194 EXT. SKY - MOON - NIGHT high in the sky -- middle of the night now.

195 INT. KATE'S APARTMENT - KATE - NIGHT

Wired. Pacing across her small apartment, back and forth, back and forth.

196 INT. SETH'S OFFICE - SETH - NIGHT alone in his office, going over plans, sipping coffee to stay awake.

197 INT. BURTON'S BEDROOM - BURTON - NIGHT alone in his bed, staring at the ceiling, a nearly empty Scotch bottle in one hand.

198 OMITTED

199 INT. LUTHER'S SAFE HOUSE APARTMENT - LUTHER - NIGHT

listening to the PHONE MACHINE. We hear KATE'S VOICE. "Daddy... I miss you... I'm worried... call me..."

A CLICK. Luther hangs up, immediately dials again. We hear the message start over. "Daddy... I miss you..." As he continues to listen --

200 EXT. FIRING RANGE - DAY (EARLY MORNING)

-- on what's going to be a gorgeous day.

Burton, yawning, blowing into a steaming paper cup of coffee. Collin, wide awake, moves alongside. Collin is carrying a rifle.

-- we are at a government firing range.

Collin squints into the morning sun.

Burton, putting down the coffee cup, picking up a pair of binoculars.

Burton and Collin staring out --

-- A distant target is being raised.

Collin. He strokes the barrel of his high-powered rifle.

CUT TO:

201 TARGET

A long way off.

CUT TO:
BURTON

as he has focused the binoculars --

BINOCULAR POV - TARGET

seen through the binoculars as it comes clear -- the bull's eye is small.

CUT TO:

COLLIN

with his rifle. His fingers still move along the barrel. No hurry whatsoever --

-- and then it all goes fast, and in one motion he is aiming and FIRING and FIRING again and the sound explodes Burton, dazed.

CUT TO:

TARGET

-- the bull's eye has been totally blown away.

CUT TO:

OMITTED

INT. DOWNTOWN MEN'S STORE - DAY

Luther and a SALESMAN are engaged in conversation. Luther is buttoning a new raincoat to the throat. The Salesman holds several hats. Luther picks one, tries it on.

LUTHER

I need to look really good today.

He doesn't like the hat.

SALESMAN

Business?
(as Luther tries the other hat -- very rakish, he likes it)
It's a woman, I can tell.
(as Luther nods)
Never too late, is it?

Luther. Beaming.

LUTHER
You got that right.

Now, from his happy face --

208  EXT. CAFE ALONZO BUILDING - THREE CURSING WORKMEN - DAY

PULL BACK to reveal the workmen are on a scaffolding two stories up, struggling to replace a glass panel that has

The glass panel is heavy and bulky and the workmen are having a bitch of a time with it.

The entire front of the building is glass panels. It mirrors the area across the street -- a bunch of dilapidated brownstones.

209  EXT. BROWNSTONES ACROSS FROM CAFE ALONZO - DAY

They are empty and, according to a sign, are due for demolition. All the windows of the brownstones are closed -- except one. On an upper story.

210  INT. BROWNSTONE - DAY

Inside the window. Michael McCarty, who we last met at Walter Sullivan's, is there. He looks out.

211  HIS POV

The glass building and the struggling workmen and, on the ground floor, a few tables are set outside, with large umbrellas alongside each.

There is a sign: CAFE ALONZO.

212  INT. BROWNSTONE - DAY

McCarty. Beside him is a leather case. He opens it.

The case. A very high-powered rifle. McCarty begins to expertly assemble it, taut and businesslike.

213  INT. POLICE HEADQUARTERS DEBRIEFING ROOM - DAY

Seth, taut and businesslike, stands by a blown-up map of the Cafe Alonzo area. The restaurant is circled -- and around it are marked places for policemen to wait -- Seth is giving instructions to those policemen now --

-- fifty of them. And no one's smiling.

214  INT. KATE'S APARTMENT - DAY

Kate. Dressed and ready. Lying on her bed. Afternoon now. She gets up, makes it halfway to the front door --

-- can't do it -- she turns, goes back to bed, lies down again, frozen.

215  EXT. CAFE ALONZO BUILDING - DAY

The cursing workmen. The glass panel is so damn cumbersome they are having a miserable time.

216  EXT. CAFE ALONZO - DAY

An elderly couple sits at one of the half dozen outdoor tables.

The place is empty.

217  EXT. POLICE HEADQUARTERS - PARKING LOT - DAY

Seth, outside headquarters now, giving instructions to police officers. Behind them: two dozen unmarked cars.

CUT TO:

218  SUN

Later in the afternoon.

219  EXT. POLICE HEADQUARTERS - PARKING LOT - DAY

Burton, getting out of his car at Seth's Police Headquarters.

Seth, finishing instructing a dozen motorcycle cops.
Burton moves up behind Seth, waits quietly. As Seth is done, he sees Burton, they nod, start toward Seth's car.

BURTON
The Boss is very grateful.
Thanks.

SETH
Figured he'd like an eyewitness report of the capture. This is our guy -- if he's innocent, he sure took off awful fast.

220 EXTERIOR CAFE ALONZO BUILDING - DAY
The three workmen. Making some headway with the bulky glass panel --

221 GUNSCOPE POINT OF VIEW
-- now crosshairs cover them and we --
PULL BACK to reveal --

222 INTERIOR BROWNSTONE - DAY
McCarty, staring out the window of the brownstone, the rifle pointed -- very relaxed, he pulls the trigger -- the RIFLE'S not loaded yet -- and the STACCATO "CLICK" is all we hear.

223 INTERIOR CAFE ALONZO BUILDING - LOBBY
Seth and Burton moving quickly into the lobby of the glass office building that adjoins the Cafe Alonzo -- the lobby has a clear view of the outdoor part of the cafe.

Around and behind them, dozens of cops get in position.

224 EXTERIOR STREET - CAFE ALONZO BUILDING - DAY
Around the corner from the glass building -- unmarked cars.

225 EXTERIOR ANOTHER STREET - NEAR THE CAFE BUILDING - DAY
Motorcycles, waiting in shadow, out of sight.
INT. CAFE ALONZO BUILDING - LOBBY - DAY

Seth and Burton. They've both seen a lot -- which doesn't mean they're not tense. Burton takes out some Tums, offers them to Seth. Seth shakes his head, brings out Tums of his own.

CUT TO:

SUN

Starting down.

EXT. CAFE ALONZO BUILDING - DAY

The three workmen and they hate their job. One of them glances down.

EXT. CAFE ALONZO - DAY

Empty.

Now, from the workmens' angle, a woman moves to one of the tables. It's Kate. They don't pay much attention.

EXT. CAFE ALONZO - DAY

Kate. She hesitates, then decides on the front table. She takes a breath. Sits. Motionless.

CUT TO:

GUNSCOPE POV - CLOSEUP ON KATE

-- now crosshairs cover her face and we --

PULL BACK to reveal --

INT. BROWNSTONE - DAY

McCarty as before, with his weapon. He pulls the trigger again and again, there is the "CLICK" -- now he flicks away a grain of dust from the barrel --

-- then he puts the weapon down, reaches out and --

ONE BULLET. It's supersonic ammo. McCarty picks it up, blows on it gently. He might be holding a child.
Burton and Seth. They can see Kate sitting alone in the late afternoon.

SETH
(mutters)
Fuck...

-- And a goddamn WAITER has appeared and is walking out toward Kate. He is Asian and very young.

Kate, startled as the Waiter calls out from behind her.

WAITER
Miss?
(as she spins around)
What you want please?

His English could be a lot better.

KATE
Nothing, thank you.

(continued)

Seth and Burton. Stunned.

SETH
This is not part of my brilliant master plan.

More Tums.
They both crunch away.

McCarty, watching the Waiter and Kate. He's not happy either. He points a finger at the Waiter, goes "Boom."

Kate, and it's almost four o'clock and she's not at her best.

KATE
(gesturing around)
I'm waiting for someone.

WAITER
He must eat too, please.

KATE
Oh he will, we both will -- we'll order half the menu -- but just not now --

The Waiter nods, finally he turns, starts off.

Kate. Trembling.

(CONTINUED)

The Waiter returning.

WAITER
Cheesecake gone.

KATE
Thank you so much.

The Waiter nods again, and this time he does go.

Kate, watching him, making sure. Now she sits straight --

Very shaky, trying to hold it together. And now crosshairs cover her face as we PULL BACK to reveal --

239  EXT./INT. UNMARKED VAN ON STREET NEAR CAFE BUILDING - DAY

Collin. He holds a very high-powered weapon. It looks like it could kill from a thousand yards away.

Where he is -- and it's not a thousand yards away -- he's in an unmarked van on the street, even closer than McCarty.

Collin, loading his weapon. His movements are skilled. His concentration is total.

240  INT. BROWNSTONE - DAY

McCarty, glancing out at the office building area. The three workmen on the scaffolding are fighting to right the glass panel. One of them grabs a rope connected to a block and tackle.

He pulls on the rope. Slowly, the piece begins to rise.

241  EXT. CAFE ALONZO - DAY

Kate, sitting alone, studying her hands.

242  INT. CAFE ALONZO BUILDING - LOBBY - DAY

Seth and Burton. The waiting is agony.

243  EXT. CAFE ALONZO - DAY

Kate. It's worse for her. She glances around -- -- nothing, no one.

244  INT. BROWNSTONE - DAY

McCarty. All the time in the world.

245  INT. UNMARKED VAN - DAY

Collin. Blows on his weapon slightly.

246  EXT. CAFE ALONZO - DAY
Kate, and it's a question of how much longer she can take it. Her trembling is almost out of control -- she glances around again and --

-- and there he is!

Luther Whitney himself, and he looks splendid in his new raincoat and hat --

-- he moves along in the shadow of the office building, toward the cafe, walking with his usual grace -- Luther always seems to glide.

247  INT. BROWNSTONE - DAY

McCarty in the window. Spotting Luther -- -- totally controlled.

248  INT. UNMARKED VAN - DAY

Collin does the same.

249  INT. LOBBY - DAY

Seth and Burton, and the instant Luther is visible, Seth gestures toward the policemen: Get ready.

250  INT. BROWNSTONE - McCARTY - DAY raising his rifle.

251  INT. UNMARKED VAN - DAY

Collin, raising his.

252  EXT. CAFE ALONZO BUILDING - DAY

The three workmen, raising the glass panel.

253  EXT. CAFE ALONZO - DAY

Kate. Watching her father come closer.

Luther. It's hard to suppress a smile as he walks towards his daughter.
Kate, still watching.

Luther, almost there. Speaks softly.

LUTHER
I did not kill that woman, Kate.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Scene No.</th>
<th>Location</th>
<th>Action</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>254</td>
<td>INT. BROWNSTONE - DAY</td>
<td>McCarty, flipping off the safety.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>255</td>
<td>INT. UNMARKED VAN - DAY</td>
<td>Collin, doing the same.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>256</td>
<td>EXT. CAFE ALONZO - DAY</td>
<td>Luther and Kate, and he starts to sit --</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>257</td>
<td>INT. LOBBY - DAY</td>
<td>Seth, right hand raised -- he's about to start it all in motion.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>258</td>
<td>INT. BROWNSTONE - DAY</td>
<td>McCarty, his finger floating to the trigger.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>259</td>
<td>INT. UNMARKED VAN - DAY</td>
<td>Collin, doing the same.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>260</td>
<td>EXT. CAFE ALONZO - DAY</td>
<td>Luther, seated now and as at last, he reaches out for his daughter's hand --</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>261</td>
<td>EXT. CAFE ALONZO BUILDING - DAY</td>
<td>-- The three workmen, and for a moment the glass panel slips and tilts and as it catches the afternoon sun --</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>262</td>
<td>INT. BROWNSTONE - DAY</td>
<td>-- McCarty, blinded as the red reflection hits his eyes but he FIRES.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
263  EXT. CAFE ALONZO - DAY

Luther and Kate as suddenly the umbrella at their table is severed and starts to topple.

264  INT. UNMARKED VAN - DAY

Collin, startled, and he FIRES too.

265  EXT. CAFE ALONZO - DAY

Luther, instantly diving toward Kate as the second BULLET EXPLODES in the pavement close by.

266  INT. LOBBY - DAY

Seth, stunned, because this is crazy and Burton, stunned, eyes wide.

267  EXT. CAFE ALONZO - DAY

Luther, taking Kate down to the sidewalk, protecting her body with his body and --

Madness! -- because all goes nuts now as there are shouts and screams and people running this way, that way --

268  INT. LOBBY - DAY

-- Seth is in the center of it all, shouting instructions, racing with Burton out of the building --

269  EXT. STREET/CAFE ALONZO BUILDING - DAY

-- unmarked cars fill the street --

-- a hundred uniformed policemen charge --

-- MOTORCYCLES ROAR in from everywhere --

270  EXT. CAFE ALONZO - DAY

-- Kate lies dazed -- staring at the chaos -- here come thirty uniformed policemen -- *

-- and here come thirty more -- *
271 EXT. REAR OF BROWNSTONE - DAY

-- McCarty races out of the back of the building, leaps into a SPORTSCAR, GUNS away --

272 INT. UNMARKED VAN - DAY

-- Collin disassembles his rifle, scrambles from the van --

273 INT. LOBBY - DAY

-- Burton stays close to Seth, watching it all --

274 EXT. CAFE ALONZO BUILDING - DAY

-- The three workmen look down at it all -- then they look at each other in total confusion -- what the fuck is going on? --

-- because what they see is that the recently-deserted plaza is now stuffed with cops and more cops and vehicles and here come more and here come even more --

275 EXT. CAFE ALONZO - DAY

And Kate sits now, staring around, looking for Luther --

-- and Seth in the middle of it all stares around, looking for Luther -- -- because where the hell is he?

A black police lieutenant, shouting for his men to spread out.

(CONTINUED)

)B( ABSOLUTE POWER - Rev. 5/16/96

275 CONTINUED:

Burton, turning, turning, trying to make sense of it all.

Three police sergeants on MOTORCYCLES, GUNNING through the crowd.

Kate, standing now, looking down -- and then she sees it -- on the ground where Luther was: a new raincoat and a new hat and -- Seth, and it's all gone wrong and it's all going crazy and there is noise and there are shouts and there are whistles.

The black police lieutenant, breaking into a run, chasing after someone we can't quite make out.

276 INT. CAFE ALONZO - DAY

A tall uniformed police lieutenant, entering Cafe Alonzo --

-- he passes a couple of guys in chef's hats and the Chinese waiter who just gapes out toward what was his service area --

-- the tall uniformed police lieutenant moves gracefully past --

-- it's Luther.

He goes to the front door of the place, glances back toward where the NOISE is still mounting -- shakes his head -- out the door and gone!

277 INT. KATE'S APARTMENT - NIGHT

The door to Kate's apartment opening and Seth coming in with Kate. Evening. Kate is as drained as you'd expect.

KATE
(glancing around)
Messy.

SETH
I like that in a woman.

She doesn't smile.

Seth, giving her back her keys and a piece of paper. His voice is raw from all the shouting.

(CONTINUED)

277 CONTINUED:

SETH
Top number's local police --
(as she nods)
-- other two are my office and home.
(off another nod)
I live alone, too, call anytime.
Want me to get someone to spend the night?

KATE
I just need some sleep.

SETH
I've got surveillance outside.
And I'm keeping it on 'til this is over. I've got a feeling he's going to try and contact you.

KATE
You're on a hot streak, I guess.

SETH
Listen, I'm sorry.

Kate. Nothing to say.

SETH
Anything unusual, call me right away -- not a bother, I live alone.

KATE
You said.

SETH
(he knows that)
Feeble, huh?

She nods. They look at each other. Then he starts toward the door. Slowly.

KATE
Anything for the road? I've got water and water.

SETH Deal.

278 INT. KATE'S APARTMENT - KITCHEN - NIGHT

They enter and she opens the fridge --

(CONTINUED)

94.

278 CONTINUED:

-- and it's full of food: milk and fruit and cookies.
Kate stares, then quickly glances at Seth. He just points to a bottle.

SETH
Pelligrino would be great.
(off Kate, who can't help it, breaks out laughing)
What's funny, I say it wrong?

KATE
Tired is all.

As she hands him a bottle.

279   INT. KATE’S APARTMENT – FRONT DOOR – NIGHT

as they move toward it. He opens it.

SETH
I don't think I've told you this, but I live alone.
(and this time, as she does smile, and he does go)
Lock it behind me.

KATE
(LOCKING it loudly)
How's that?

SETH (O.S.)
Real good. Try and sleep.

His FOOTSTEPS get softer, DISAPPEAR.

KATE
(still facing door, her back to her apartment)
I betrayed you, Luther. You better know that now.

LUTHER (O.S.)
You're not the first.

As Kate turns, Luther, standing there, is looking at her.

KATE
Why'd you come?

(CONTINUED)
LUTHER
You have to know I'm not a murderer.

KATE
No, this afternoon. To the restaurant. Why'd you come then? You must have suspected something, or you wouldn't have been prepared.

LUTHER
(simply)
My daughter wanted to see me.

He points to the couch -- as Kate sits. Luther, and before she's even seated, he's into it.

LUTHER
The robbery went fine 'til they came in. They were drunk. I hid in the vault. Sex got rough. He was going to kill Christy, but she turned the tables, was going to kill him. Two guys came in, shot her dead.

KATE
The same two guys who tried for you this afternoon?

LUTHER
Probably only one of them. I think Walter Sullivan might have hired the other.

KATE
Pretty powerful enemy; good going.

LUTHER
Not as powerful as the President of the United States.

Kate just looks at him.

Dead silence.

LUTHER
Richmond was drunk. The two guys are Secret Service. Chief of Staff Russell planned the coverup.

Kate just looks at him.
Dead silence.

Luther. Studying her. Not a great reaction.

Kate. Little shake of the head.

LUTHER
Every word true.

KATE
You're saying you're innocent of the murder? Why in the world should I believe you?

CLOSEUP - LUTHER

Long pause.

LUTHER
Because I swear on Mattie's grave.

KATE

Rocked --

Luther, going to her.

LUTHER
On your mother's grave, Kate -- you know I'd kill myself before I'd lie about that.

Kate. Looking at him. Because he wouldn't lie, not about that.

Everything he's told her, all true.

The air goes out of her.

Silence.

KATE

(soft)
Jesus, Luther.
LUTHER
I know.

KATE
They'll kill you.

(CONTINUED)

LUTHER
I know.

KATE
Can you run?

Luther as he sits beside her on the couch.

LUTHER
I was set to. At the airport.
All the money I'd ever need.

CLOSEUP – LUTHER

LUTHER
But I saw that bastard using Sullivan on the T.V. -- maybe I couldn't have saved that woman,
Kate. But I didn't even try.
(beat)
I know what you think of me and I know what we've been to each other --
(beat)
-- haven't been to each other.
And it's not the time to try and explain my life --

KATE
watching his face now.

LUTHER
-- but I've never robbed anyone couldn't afford it and I've never stiffed a waitress.
(beat)
And Alan Richmond has to pay.

KATE
What can you do?
LUTHER
Not much, maybe -- but I only went to jail when I had partners.
(beat)
People betray each other, Kate -- nowadays, when there's a group, someone wants to write a book --

(MORE)

LUTHER (CONT'D)
(beat)
-- these people hate each other.
And if I can drive them just a little bit nuts, who knows how they'll react under pressure?
(rises and looks at her)
Glad for the talk, wish we'd had more.

Luther crosses to the door, turns.

LUTHER
This is probably it; you understand that.
(as she does, he still looks at her. Then -- )
I was never going to tell you this, but I watched you argue a case last year -- thank God you got your brains from your mother.

Kate standing now, too -- they're across the room from each other.

KATE
It's dangerous outside.

LUTHER
It always is --
(beat)
-- and I may not make you proud, Kate -- (soft)
-- but I'm not going down alone...

And on that...
An elegant high-rise in Washington. Crisp, cool afternoon. A DOORMAN stands outside, enjoying the day.

A well-dressed man rounds the corner; he holds a small, beautifully-wrapped package with a small envelope attached. He moves to the Doorman.

(CONTINUED)

280 CONTINUED:

WELL-DRESSED MAN
(it's Luther)
For Miss Gloria Russell.

He hands it over.

DOORMAN
(taking it)
Want me to sign anything?

LUTHER
(shakes head)
I trust you.

And he turns, walks quickly away as we --

281 INT. RUSSELL'S APARTMENT - DAY

The envelope being opened. It's early evening now. The message inside is short and clear --

"Gloria,
Thanks for the rescue.
AR"

Russell smiles, and as she opens the package --

282 INT. WHITE HOUSE - EAST ROOM - NIGHT

A beautiful necklace. Antique mostly likely. And tasteful -- we hear the sound of an ORCHESTRA PLAYING WALTZES.

FULL BACK to reveal Gloria Russell, looking just splendid, the necklace around her throat, entering a large and very impressive White House dinner-dance. Clearly an important affair of state.

We've never seen Russell quite like this -- relaxed, secure in her femininity. She nods distantly to Burton and Collin who are, as always, close the President. For the first time now, we realize something: Gloria Russell is hot for Alan Richmond.

Richmond, on the edge of the dance floor, chatting with some elderly couples, several of them European, all of them wealthy.

RICHMOND
(as Russell approaches)
You're a vision this evening, Miss Russell.

(Continued)

RUSSELL
Thank you, Mr. President.
(beat)
And thank you, Mr. President.

RICHMOND
(doesn't understand)
For?
(off her, radiant, indicating the necklace)
Come again?

This time she touches it -- he bends close to her.

RUSSELL
(whispering)
You sent it to me this afternoon.

Long pause -- then...

CLOSEUP - RICHMOND

So happy.

RICHMOND
Well, of course.
(now, to the others)
Excuse me, all -- I am overcome with the desire to dance with my Chief of Staff.

A hand to her -- Russell, beaming, moves out onto the dance floor with him.
Everyone at the gathering, watching them.

Richmond and Russell, very much aware that all eyes are on them --

-- what we don't know is this: they are both wonderful dancers. And they seem to be reveling in their moves -- -- because throughout this, they never stop smiling.

RICHMOND

What is this nonsense? I'm hoping there's an explanation.

(Continued)

RUSSELL

(surprised)

Your gift, Alan -- I was overwhelmed -- and your note was so gratifying --

RICHMOND

(cutting in)

-- I sent a note?

RUSSELL

Yes, yes, you think I don't know your writing? I assumed you wanted me to wear it tonight.

The necklace. He looks at it as they spin gracefully.

RICHMOND

It is lovely, Gloria -- and you know what else?

They do a perfect dip.

RUSSELL

What, Alan?

RICHMOND

Christy Sullivan wore it the night she was killed.

Russell, a quick glint of panic, a gentle peal of feminine laughter.
Richmond and Russell -- he bends her back, their mouths are close.

RICHMOND
You realize what this means? Whitney's been heard from.

CLOSEUP - RUSSELL

*

They spin and glide. Long pause. Then --

RUSSELL
It's not precisely the first time, Mr. President.

*

The MUSIC is BUILDING TO CLIMAX now. Their movements become more grand.

(Continued)

282 CONTINUED: (3)

RICHMOND
(so happy)
You've been keeping things from me?

RUSSELL
Only because you have so much on your plate, Alan; we wanted to spare you.
(beat)
He sent me a Polaroid of the letter opener yesterday.

CLOSEUP - RICHMOND

*

A kick in the teeth --

-- he summons all his control, goes into even more complicated movements.

*

The crowd of elegant men and women, it's really wonderful dancing they're seeing -- they start to applaud.

Richmond and Russell, hearing the sound. Richmond acknowledges it with a smile as they come to climax.

RICHMOND
Well, now --
(a final flourish)
-- I need time to think -- come see me in my office in the morning --
(beat)
This will certainly make for an interesting chapter in my memoirs.

And as they bow...

The crowd applauding louder, while on the dance floor, the President of the United States and the Chief of Staff applaud happily back. As the sound builds --

283 EXT. BURTON'S HOUSE - ROOF - NIGHT
Luther in the night. Silence.
He is moving across the rooftop of a home. He carries a briefcase -- Luther's making business calls.
Ahead is an attic window -- as he slides it open --

284 INT. BURTON'S HOUSE - ATTIC - NIGHT
Luther, slipping inside. Some stairs are just across.
He goes down them, opens the door --

285 INT. BURTON'S HOUSE - HALLWAY - NIGHT
Luther stepping into the main part of the dark house. He stops. No noise at all except that of someone BREATHING DEEPLY, coming from an open bedroom door.
Luther passes by -- for an instant we can see that Burton is asleep, an empty bottle by his head.

286 INT. COLLIN'S HOUSE - NIGHT
Luther rounding a corner --
-- and we can tell immediately he's in a different house now. Burton's had only old furnishings, these are modern and new.
Luther pauses, listening. Nothing.
He moves forward then, turns another corner --

287 INT. RUSSELL'S APARTMENT - NIGHT and now we can tell he's someplace else -- this is an apartment with a large window looking out on the city.

Luther doesn't stop to admire the view. He moves silently on...

HOLD ON the window.

And suddenly: Dawn -- the sun is starting to rise.

PULL BACK to reveal --

288  INT. RUSSELL'S APARTMENT - BEDROOM - DAWN

Gloria Russell, as the ALARM GOES OFF. She sits --

-- she stretches --

-- then she stares -- something has been taped to her lamp. We are looking at an issue of the Washington Post -- Russell's photo smiles out -- there is a headline that says simply: RUSSELL TO BE CHIEF OF STAFF.

Written across her picture are the words: "This shitstorm is your fault -- if we go down, you go down!"
Russell takes the paper down, stares at it. Furious.

104.

289  INT. BURTON'S HOUSE - KITCHEN - MORNING

Burton, hung over, staggering into the kitchen of his home, stopping dead. A newspaper is set beside his coffee pot.

A front page of the Washington Post. Years back. The lead article reports that a siege has been successfully broken --

-- Burton, bloody and wounded, is being carried to an ambulance. A hero. Across the top these words have been written:

HOW DID THIS HAPPEN, YOU GUTLESS FUCK?

Burton stares. Steaming.

290  INT. COLLIN'S HOUSE - BATHROOM - MORNING

Collin, yawning, going into his bathroom --

-- across his mirror is taped a large white piece of paper, across which is written in thick black marker --
"If you could shoot for shit, we'd be out of this."
Collin angrily rips it down.

291  EXT. DOWNTOWN NEWSSTAND - MORNING  291
A bunch of commuters and businessmen are buying papers.
The newspapers. Washington, New York, Philadelphia -- and they're all different front pages, of course, but one photo in all of them is the same --
-- every one of them is running the mug shot of Luther.
And the sense of the stories is the same too:

HAVE YOU SEEN THIS MAN?

CUT TO:

292  COMMUTERS  292
crowded around, making their purchases. Some of them are young, some of them are half asleep. One of them is in his 60's and very wide awake --
-- it's Luther --
-- as he buys a paper, looks at the headline -- fascinated.

105.

292A  INT. BURTON'S OFFICE  292A
Still early morning -- Collin is going through Burton's desk hurriedly --
-- when Burton surprises him --

BURTON
(pissed)
What are you doing?

COLLIN
(closes the desk, shrugs)
Needed a pen.

BURTON
(pointing to his desktop)
There's pens --
(moving in)
-- you don't trust me? --
COLLIN
(pissed)
-- I don't answer to you, asshole
--

Russell in the doorway now, glaring at them.

RUSSELL
You're both assholes, now move --

And on that --

293 INT. OVAL OFFICE - DAY 293

The note that was sent to Russell and the Polaroid of the letter opener.

PULL BACK to reveal --

The Polaroid and the note are on Richmond's desk. He studies them. Russell, Burton and Collin stand silently watching him, their hatred of each other clear.

The smell of death's in the room.

RICHMOND
(holding the note now, his voice is, when he speaks, calm; to Burton)
Any idea who could have forged it?

(CONTINUED)

BURTON
I talked to Seth Frank -- apparently Whitney learned how in prison.

RICHMOND
Very gifted man.

The window as he walks to it, looks out.

RICHMOND
And are we close to stopping him?

RUSSELL
We're working round the clock.

RICHMOND
Good to know that.

BURTON
He'll make a mistake.

RICHMOND
Good to know that too.

CLOSEUP - RICHMOND
With more meaning than the words convey --

RICHMOND
There is one other thing you'll want to take care of.

The other three, looking at Richmond.

BURTON
You're sure you want to do that?

RICHMOND
(nods)
She's a young prosecutor, prosecutors ask questions -- she might know what he knows...

(a reassuring smile)
Let's get cracking, shall we?
(beat)
Show you love your country.

On those words --

---

294 INT. KATE'S APARTMENT BUILDING HALLWAY - DAY
Kate Whitney, getting into the elevator. Off to work.
She pushes for the lobby.
The doors close and the elevator starts down.

295 INT. ELEVATOR - DAY
Kate checks her purse to see if she has everything.

296 INSERT - ELEVATOR BUTTON
The "L" is lit --

-- but when the elevator gets there, it does not stop but goes straight on down to the basement.
INT. ELEVATOR - KATE - DAY

That's strange. She instinctively moves to the rear of the car.

ODD SOUNDS from the basement. Kate's just the least bit tense.

INT. ELEVATOR IN BASEMENT - DAY

The ODD SOUNDS are LOUDER.

And the doors don't open when they should.

INT. ELEVATOR - KATE - DAY and now she's starting to get a little scared.

INT. BASEMENT - ELEVATOR DOORS - DAY

The doors sliding open and the Super standing there with tools.

SUPER

(smiling)

Sorry, Miss Whitney, but this thing's giving us a little trouble.

Kate nods, smiles back, relieved.

EXT. KATE'S APARTMENT BUILDING - DAY

Kate, leaving her building, going toward her car, getting in.

Down the block is a police car. Two surveillance cops inside. Kate starts to drive -- and so do they.

Kate turns a corner --

-- and so do they --

-- and as they do, they pass Luther, parked on the corner. Watching. Satisfied, he drives off in another direction.
Luther, heading out of the city. The sun is higher in the sky.

303 EXT. COUNTRY ROAD - DAY

Several cars. Traffic is moving slowly. Luther continues to drive.

304 EXT. KATE'S OFFICE BUILDING - DAY

Kate, coming out of her office building, hurrying along the sidewalk. Lunch hour.

She goes past some brownstones -- the two cops walk behind --

-- the window of one of the brownstones is open, shadowy movement from inside --

-- Kate hurries past, not paying attention... Cops don't either.

305 EXT. BROWNSTONE - DAY

Now a figure begins to appear in the window --

The figure holds something long and thin, like a rifle barrel --

-- it's a large woman with a long mop -- as she shakes it --

Afternoon and the sun is strong.

109.

306 EXT. SULLIVAN MASTER BEDROOM - DAY

Sunlight, streaming in an open bedroom window. Whose bedroom, though?

Two maids are cleaning it --

-- and now we realize where we are: Walter Sullivan's bedroom, but it's all been changed, different rug, different fabrics, different furnishings.

The maids work silently and well. A final sweep of a dust rag here, a last tug at the bedspread there.

Done. They go to the door, take a last look around.

Perfect.
They go.

HOLD ON the empty room.

Keep HOLDING.

Now, silently, the vault door opens -- a gardener steps out, clicker in hand.

The gardener -- it's Luther -- he clicks it, tosses it back inside --
-- the door starts to close --
-- but before it shuts, we can see he's returned what he took the night of the robbery.

And as he moves silently toward the door.

307  EXT. GAS STATION (WASHINGTON CITY LIMITS) - DAY  307

The outskirts of Washington.    Mid-afternoon now.

Luther's at a pay phone.

308  INT. SETH'S OFFICE - DAY  308

Seth, as he picks up the phone --

LUTHER (V.O.)
Kate okay?

SETH
Where are you?

110.

309  EXT. PAY PHONE - DAY  309

Luther.  Fast.

LUTHER
I'm not staying on long enough for you to track this, just answer me.

310  INT. SETH'S OFFICE - DAY  310

SETH
She couldn't be in better hands -- talk about catching a break,
Secret Service called me. They're taking over surveillance --
311 EXT. PAY PHONE - DAY

The telephone swinging back and forth --
-- and in the b.g., a car MOTOR ROARING away.

312 INT. KATE'S APARTMENT BUILDING - ELEVATOR - DAY

Kate, coming down the elevator again -- in her jogging clothes now. She has pushed the lobby button.

The elevator stops suddenly on the second floor --
-- The Super gets in, smiles.

SUPER
Got it working fine, Miss Whitney.

Kate nods, smiles back --

312A EXT. WASHINGTON STREET - DAY

Luther, driving like crazy through the city.

312B EXT. KATE'S APARTMENT BUILDING - DAY

Kate, getting into her car in front of her building, driving off -- no one is behind her.

312C EXT. WASHINGTON - ANOTHER STREET - DAY

Luther, HONKING his HORN as he barrels around a corner, scattering traffic.

)B( ABSOLUTE POWER - Rev. 5/16/96 111.

312D EXT. JOGGING PARK ENTRANCE - DAY

Kate drives into the park past a sign reading:
"PARKING LOT."

312E EXT. ROAD NEAR JOGGING PARK - DAY

Luther, gunning along -- up ahead the park is visible now.

312F EXT. JOGGING PARK - PARKING LOT - ENTRANCE ROAD - DAY
Kate, following an arrow that leads to the parking lot.

Luther, in the park, now, suddenly shouting "Shit" as we --

312G  EXT. JOGGING PARK - PARKING LOT - DAY
A "DETOUR" sign.
Kate, entering the parking lot.

312H  EXT. JOGGING PARK - PARKING LOT AREA - DAY
Luther, out of his car now, running like crazy through the park. Ahead is a sign saying: "JOGGING PATH."

313  EXT. JOGGING PARK - PARKING AREA - DAY
Not many other cars so she gets a space in front, overlooking the river, and as she stops, takes out her keys --

314  BURTON AND COLLIN
Collin at the wheel, ROARING in behind her, rear-ending her hard.
-- there is a SCREECH of BRAKES and a SCREAM --

314A  EXT. JOGGING PARK - TRAIL - DAY
Luther as he hears the terrible sound, keeps running.

315  EXT. PARKING LOT - INT. KATE'S CAR - DAY
Kate in her car as it teeters at the edge and then starts its long fall to the jogging path far below.

)B(  ABSOLUTE POWER - Rev. 5/16/96

316  EXT. JOGGING PARK - PARKING AREA - DAY
Burton and Collin in their car, driving like hell away.

316A  EXT. JOGGING PARK - TRAIL - DAY
Luther, running INTO VIEW, stopping dead, helpless now, staring at the worst thing in the world --
EXT. JOGGING PARK CLIFF - DAY

Kate's car, careening against a rocky ledge, then cart wheeling the rest of the way down, landing horribly, spinning, finally coming to rest upside down and --

CUT TO:

EXT. BOTTOM OF CLIFF - DAY

Luther running to the car; hands shaking, he manages to pull front door open and reach inside --

-- now there are cries as other joggers stop and stare and --

Kate, as Luther pulls her body out of the wreckage.

LUTHER
(terrified)

... Kate...?

-- no response -- it's impossible to tell if she's alive --

-- in the distance now, the sound of an AMBULANCE.

EXT. WASHINGTON HOSPITAL EMERGENCY ENTRANCE - EVENING

The AMBULANCE, SIREN SCREAMING.

PULL BACK to reveal --

Early evening now, getting dark, and the ambulance braking in front of the emergency room of a large city hospital --

-- as doctors and attendants with gurneys come pouring out --

113.

INT. WASHINGTON HOSPITAL - KATE'S ROOM - NIGHT

A private room. Later. Kate is bandaged and attached to a bunch of equipment --

-- but however faintly her breathing, it's still breathing and it's steady. She's alone for the moment in the semi-darkened room.
322  INT. HOSPITAL CORRIDOR - NIGHT

Empty. A doctor comes walking along -- it's Collin.

323  INT. HOSPITAL - KATE'S ROOM - NIGHT

Kate in her room, sleeping. Another doctor is with her now, checking her charts.

324  INT. HOSPITAL CORRIDOR - NIGHT

Collin. He sees what's going on, stops, pulls out a small notebook, pretends to read it, all the while glancing toward Kate's room with the one doctor still there --

-- now from around the corner, NOISE, COMING CLOSER -- SEVERAL PEOPLE APPROACHING, perhaps more.

Collin turns away from the sound, curses, then stops --

-- The doctor is done with Kate's charts.

From around the corner now, the group coming closer still.

Kate's doorway as the doctor exits and Collin enters -- they pass each other --

325  INT. HOSPITAL - KATE'S ROOM - NIGHT

-- Collin moves a step further into the room --

-- and now there is something in his hand --

-- a hypodermic needle.

Kate. Out of it. Lying there, eyes closed.

Collin, the needle ready, moving silently toward the bed.

Kate is barely breathing.

(CONTINUED)

114.

325  CONTINUED:

And now suddenly Collin is barely breathing --
-- because the other doctor's arms have viced around Collin's neck, forcing the air out of him.

Collin, stunned, trying to struggle --

The doctor jerking Collin's body into the air -- his feet are dangling now -- the hypodermic needle drops to the bed as the struggle goes on --

-- and Collin's in fabulous shape. He's young and powerful and he's been in terrible situations before and he knows how to fight and he's been taught to defend himself and --

-- tough shit --

-- the doctor -- it's Luther -- relentlessly increases the pressure against Collin's throat --

-- Collin can't even gasp now --

-- his feet can't kick anymore --

-- his body starts to go limp --

-- his eyes start to slide up into his head --

-- silence in the room --

-- it's almost over --

-- which is when suddenly Luther lets go.

Collin, eyes flickering open as Luther lays him down on the floor. All this next is whispered.

LUTHER

Scream. Go on. Which do you want most, for me to kill you or life in jail forever?

He has gone across the room to the bed. Collin tries to move, can't.

The hypodermic needle as Luther picks it up carefully, starts back to Collin.

LUTHER

Going to guess this wasn't to pep her up.

(CONTINUED)
COLLIN
(staring, eyes wide)
... you're not going to kill me...

LUTHER
... why do you think that...?

COLLIN
... you could have but you didn't...

Luther. Kneeling by Collin now.

LUTHER
That's because you didn't know your crime, prick.

-- and now he jams the needle against Collin's neck.

Collin tries to cry out, but Luther covers his mouth.

LUTHER
(kneeling close, almost whispering into Collin's ear)
I didn't mind you tried to shoot me at the restaurant -- I wouldn't have minded if you'd nailed me at Sullivan's -- part of the job --
(beat)
-- but you fucked with blood.

Collin. Terrified.

COLLIN
... mercy...

Luther, bending over him. Luther pushes the plunger.

LUTHER
I'm fresh out.

Collin dying now. His breathing is getting strange, his body starting to stiffen. And on that --

KATE (O.S.)
... Daddy...?

Kate, eyes barely open. From her position Luther is simply kneeling, nothing else is visible...

LUTHER
... go to sleep, honey...

(CONTINUED)
325 CONTINUED: (3)

She tries to stay awake, can't make it, drifts off.

Kate. She closes her eyes.

Collin. Luther closes his eyes for him. Now --

326 INT. HOSPITAL HALLWAY - NIGHT

A gurney with a figure on it being pushed by a doctor.

327 EXT. HOSPITAL - NIGHT

A dumpster outside --

-- the gurney is there --

-- the figure isn't --

-- the sound of a CAR GUNNING into the night and we --

328 INT. SETH'S BATHROOM - NIGHT

Seth coming out of the shower. He puts a towel around him, wipes the steam off the mirror, cries out --

-- Luther is standing there.

LUTHER
I need one answer -- when you interviewed Walter Sullivan, did he say why Christy didn't go to Barbados?

SETH
(shakes his head)
Just that she changed her mind.
(studying Luther)
You know who did it, don't you?

LUTHER
So will you -- check your phones --

SETH
(incredulous)
-- who'd tap a police officer?

No reply -- Luther's already headed for the door as we --
Walter Sullivan, getting into his limousine in front of a Georgetown mansion. Later in the evening. The car starts to move. Walter looks frail and very old now. And somehow smaller.

Walter huddled in the back seat, as the street lights illuminate him. He might even be ill. In any case, a sad figure.

The limousine, turning a corner.

Walter. Blinking.

WALTER SULLIVAN
Is this a shortcut, Tommy?

CHAUFFEUR
(turns; it’s Luther)
I'm your replacement driver for the evening, sir. Don't worry, Tommy's fine.

WALTER SULLIVAN
Very unusual -- what do I call you?

LUTHER Luther, sir.

WALTER SULLIVAN
And are you familiar with how to get to my home, Luther?

LUTHER
I know the way, sir -- I'm the man who robbed you --

Sullivan says nothing; stares unsmiling.

LUTHER
-- and you're the man who tried to have me killed --
WALTER SULLIVAN
-- I'm sorry I missed -- I believe in the Old Testament, sir -- there is nothing wrong with an eye for an eye when a terrible deed has been done.

(late)
A deed such as yours.

LUTHER
You want to believe that, don't you? -- Makes your life a lot simpler if you believe that, isn't that right?

(big now)
What do you think I gain being here?

Sullivan. Contempt.

WALTER SULLIVAN
Have no idea -- you going to rob me again? --

LUTHER
I don't need your money, Mr. Sullivan. Look in your vault lately?

WALTER SULLIVAN
(he has)
I'm afraid we're a little late for an attempt at leniency.

EXT. GEORGETOWN - STREET - NIGHT

The CAR. A SCREAMING TURN.

INT. LIMO - NIGHT

LUTHER
Shit's coming down tonight, Mr. Sullivan, do you want to be a player or not?

(bigger)
Do you want to know what happened, or not? I saw. Your call.
WALTER SULLIVAN

(beat)
I want to know.

(CONTINUED)

119.

334 CONTINUED:

LUTHER
Are you up to hearing about it? --
Do you want to hear how he beat the shit out of her and tried to strangle her -- you have enough left for that? --

WALTER SULLIVAN

(a nod)
-- I could walk through fire --
Luther, fast now.

LUTHER
I was in the chair when they came in.

(as Sullivan says nothing)
They were drunk -- at first he only wanted to bruise her -- she fought back, he went for the kill
-- she turned the tables. Then he screamed for help.

Pause.

WALTER SULLIVAN
Who else was in my house?

LUTHER
Secret Service shot her.

WALTER SULLIVAN

(doesn't like it)
Nonsense.

LUTHER
Gloria Russell handled the cover up.

WALTER SULLIVAN
Stop this --

LUTHER
-- don't you want to know who the man was?

    WALTER SULLIVAN
        (desperate)
    It was you.

    LUTHER
    We're too old to bullshit each other, Mr. Sullivan.

    (CONTINUED)

    WALTER SULLIVAN
        (big)
    Who was it then?

    LUTHER (bigger)
    You know!

    Sullivan, shaking his head as Luther roars on.

    LUTHER
    You fucking well do, don't shake your head at me -- when you're alone at night, when the rage takes you and you think of what you'd do to revenge her, on those nights you put a face to your enemy.

    WALTER SULLIVAN
        (coming apart)
    Stop the car --

    LUTHER
    -- we're going all the way, Walter --

    WALTER SULLIVAN
    -- it's too terrible.

    LUTHER
    It sure is.

    Walter Sullivan. A long, shaky moment, then --

    WALTER SULLIVAN
    ... I know about Alan's reputation as a philanderer... but... he would never dream of betraying me... I gave him the Presidency.
Luther and Walter as Luther turns a sharp corner and the WHEELS SCREAM --

LUTHER
(pressing it)
The press conference -- remember?
-- he held you in his arms and said if only Christy hadn't gotten sick she would have been with you in Barbados --

(MORE)

(CONTINUED)

WALTER SULLIVAN
That's not real proof.

LUTHER (CONT'D)
(bigger)
-- how do you think he knew she was sick? You didn't tell anybody. But he heard it, all right. He heard it from her. That night. And I heard every word --

Walter. For a moment, no reaction. Then he sits back hard. The air's out of him. He just breathes quietly. Then --

WALTER SULLIVAN
That's not real proof.

LUTHER
Handing something back.

WALTER SULLIVAN
You could have stolen this.

LUTHER
I did steal it. But that isn't my blood and those aren't my prints.

CLOSEUP ON SULLIVAN
Eyes still shut --
-- and he's very old and you expect tears --
-- but he didn't get to be Walter Sullivan by crying --
-- HOLD ON Walter --
-- and this incredible shriek of rage explodes! --
Luther, suddenly stopping the car --

335 EXT. WHITE HOUSE GATE - NIGHT
-- and we're at the rear of the White House. * 335

336 INT. LIMO - NIGHT

337 EXT. WHITE HOUSE GATE/EXT. LIMO - NIGHT

Luther has gotten out too. They stand close to each other. They nod. Then Walter starts away.

WALTER SULLIVAN (turns -- quiet now, at peace)
I did love her, you know.

And he walks away.

A White House SECURITY GUARD as Walter approaches.

WALTER SULLIVAN
Is he working late? I haven't an appointment but I'd like to see him if I might.

GUARD
You don't need an appointment, Mr. Sullivan.

And as he waves him through --
Luther, standing there, watching the old man.
Walter, a final turn back, a nod of the head.
Luther. He nods back, returns to the car, gets in --
-- and now we begin a BLIZZARD OF CUTS.

338 EXT. WASHINGTON STREET/INT. LIMO - NIGHT
Luther driving through the night.

339 EXT./INT. NORTH PORTICO ENTRANCE - NIGHT
Walter entering the White House proper.

340 INT. WHITE HOUSE - BURTON'S OFFICE - NIGHT
Seth, with a bunch of other officers, standing in front of an office with the name "BILL BURTON" on a plaque -- he opens the door --

(CONTINUED)

)B( ABSOLUTE POWER - Rev. 5/16/96 123.

340 CONTINUED:
-- Burton has blown his brains out. A note alongside reads: "I am so sorry." Alongside the note is a micro-cassette recorder and a dozen tapes.

341 EXT. WASHINGTON STREET/INT. LIMO - NIGHT
Luther. Driving faster.

342 INT. WHITE HOUSE HALLWAY - SECURITY AREA - NIGHT
Walter Sullivan approaching a METAL DETECTOR -- he starts to go through --
-- it GOES OFF --
Walter's embarrassed. He holds up his wrist, showing his watch.
The security guards smile, wave him to go ahead.
Walter continues on.

343 INT. LIMO - NIGHT
Luther, tense, ROARING along.
INT. RUSSELL'S - NIGHT
Gloria Russell -- Seth is with her -- he cuffs her, leads her out --

INT. AREA OUTSIDE OVAL OFFICE - NIGHT
Walter, by the door of the Oval Office. The letter opener is tight in his hand now.
The door opens.
Richmond, arms out, comes to embrace him, as he embraced him at the Press Conference.

EXT. HOSPITAL PARKING LOT - NIGHT
Luther pulling up into the parking lot of the hospital, getting out, passing the parking lot attendant who is listening transfixed to a small radio.

(CONTINUED)

ABSOLUTE POWER - Rev. 5/16/96 124.

CONTINUED:

RADIO ANNOUNCER #1 (V.O.)

* ... in the greatest shock to the nation since the Kennedy assassination, President Alan Richmond's death has rocked...

Luther has moved past now; we can't hear the radio anymore.

INT. HOSPITAL RECEPTION AREA - NIGHT
Luther enters. A number of people are present, all of them listening to a large radio, on the desk of the Information Clerk.

RADIO ANNOUNCER #2 (V.O.)

* ... Richmond died violently in the Oval Office and Walter Sullivan...

Luther has moved past now; we can't hear the radio anymore.

INT. KATE'S HOSPITAL ROOM - NIGHT

She dozes. Luther sits alongside in a chair.

Outside, the moon is high in the sky.

Kate blinks, half opens her eyes, sees Luther.

KATE
... you're still here...?

LUTHER
Haven't budged.

She dozes again.

---

347A  INT. HOSPITAL LOUNGE - NIGHT  347A

A coffee machine in a lounge. Empty. But a TELEVISION SET IS PLAYING SOFTLY.

Luther enters, gets some coffee.

The TV is SHOWING the PRESS CONFERENCE Richmond held. As we WATCH, Walter Sullivan moves down toward the President and they embrace.

(Continued)

---

125.

347A  CONTINUED:

Now the Press Conference is over and we are LIVE AT the FRONT OF the North Portico of the WHITE HOUSE. A ton of reporters --

-- and Walter Sullivan, in their midst, beckoning for quiet.

REPORTER #1 (V.O.)
Mister Sullivan, have you no idea why the President took his own life?

Luther stops making coffee, looks at the screen.

WALTER SULLIVAN (V.O.)
(voice soft)
I know he's been feeling the pressure of office more than ever lately. We've talked about it a great deal.

REPORTER #2 (V.O.)
But why would he stab himself?
WALTER SULLIVAN (V.O.)

(sadly)
That's a question that will haunt me forever. Of course I tried to stop him --
(beat)
-- Alan was like a son to me...

Luther smiles, takes his coffee, leaves the room as we --

CUT TO:

347B INT. KATE'S HOSPITAL ROOM - NIGHT

Kate sleeping. Seth stands there now. Luther enters with his coffee. Seth sees him and they both move to the door and confer silently --

-- Seth indicates Kate.
Luther crosses his fingers.
Seth says something we can't make out.
Luther nods.
Seth glances a final time at Kate, then leaves them.
Luther moves to Kate, studies her face.

(CONTINUED)

KATE (eyes still closed)
... was that Seth...?

LUTHER
He was just checking in. When you're up to it, he said we might come over for dinner. He mentioned --

* *

KATE (eyes half open)
I know, he lives alone --

* *
LUTHER
(smiles)
Watch it now.

He arranges her sheets.

KATE
... you don't have to fuss...

LUTHER
You were forever catching colds.

She nods, drifts and we --

CUT TO:

348   MOON
starting to fall out of the sky now.

349   LUTHER stands by the window, looking out. Soon, dawn. He stretches, crosses to her.

KATE
... am I going to be all right?....

LUTHER
(long pause)
We'll be fine.

Kate nods, drifts.

Luther watches her.

Then he goes to his chair --

(CONTINUED)

127.

349   CONTINUED:
-- reaches down --
-- pulls out his sketchbook.
He turns the pages.
Drawings of Kate.
He turns to a new page. Starts drawing her again. He's really getting good.

HOLD ON Luther and Kate.

FINALE FADE OUT.

THE END