"KATE AND LEOPOLD"

Screenplay by James Mangold and Steven Rogers
Based on a story by Steven Rogers

FADE IN:

INT. VICTORIAN ESTATE - 1895 - DAY

CLOSE UP: Ornate antique GRANDFATHER CLOCK strikes 2:15.

The credits begin to roll.
Calligraphy place cards are painstakingly hand-written in preparation for a formal reception.
Servants meticulously clean an elaborate crystal chandelier.
Hands rapidly shine silver cutlery.
Fresh flowers arranged in several enormous vases.

INT. KITCHEN - DAY

Kitchen clock strikes 2:15.
Poultry plucked. Feathers everywhere.
Steaming copper pots boiling over. Platters prepared with decorative garnish.
Extravagant tiered cake is lavishly iced. A glob of frosting enters a pair of puckered lips. The perpetrator, a fey, pompous, HEAD VALET, seriously considers the texture and flavor of the icing, then gives the PASTRY CHEF a sour look.
The valet, oblivious to the chef's fury, gathers a silver breakfast tray and checks his pocket watch.

2:15.

INT. BEDROOM – DAY

Antique bedside table clock -- just past 2:15. The valet throws open velvet drapes, sunlight FLOODS the room revealing a figure sleeping soundly in a massive oak framed bed. The valet puts down the tray, pulls back the quilt. The dozing figure gives the valet a deliberate, angry KICK.

Flinching infinitesimally, the valet crosses to the closet, selects three suits and holds them up for inspection. Beneath the puffiest of pillows, AN EYE reluctantly opens. A weary arm points decisively to the riding outfit.

EXT. ESTATE – DAY

The riding outfit is adorned by LEOPOLD, Duke of Albany, a dashing, virile man in his 30's. GALLOPING with great abandon, he expertly leads his horse up hills and over hedges. He sends gardeners shaping the grounds fleeing from his path. In the background, lanterns are being strung throughout the estate. Rugs are beaten out of open windows.

INT. HALLWAY – EVENING

Large hallway clock -- 6:15. A pair of boots track a freshly scrubbed floor as Leopold heads carelessly up the stairway. Three steps behind, the valet snaps his fingers signaling the staff to clean up the mess.

SERIES OF CLOSE UPS
Gaudily framed portraits of somber relations.
A bird sits listless in a gilded cage.
Hot water is poured into a bath.
Carriages begin to arrive.
Orchestra leader signals the musicians to play.
Guests fill the ballroom in formal attire.

INT. BEDROOM – NIGHT

Leopold stares haughtily into a full length mirror.

He wears only dotted linen drawers and a black silk top hat of the period. He flexes slightly. The valet hastily fastens a corset around his mid-section from behind.

Leopold eyes his reflection seductively. He becomes bored.

He turns to his right. The valet spoons sorbet from a silver saucer into his mouth. He turns back to the mirror to watch himself eat. The valet pats his mouth dry.

He affects a pampered STRUT, crossing the room as the valet sprays a mixture of perfume and powder into the air. He thrusts out his arms walking through the mist, turns saunters back to his favorite place, in front of the mirror.

Finally, as if weighing a great decision, Leopold hands his hat to his valet and nods firmly into the mirror.

CLOSE UP

Fine linen undervest slides over his head.
Black twilled worsted trousers pulled up to his waist.
The buttoning of his hard, white, roll collar.
A cream suede glove stitched in black slides over his hand. A perfect tight bow tie is tied around his neck. An elegant black tuxedo jacket with silk facings and tails to the knees is fitted to his torso. His hair is sleeked with oil and centrally parted. His eyebrows are brushed with a tiny silver comb. His cheeks are pinched. A red silk handkerchief is placed in the bosom of his lapel. Leopold stares into the mirror. The effect is DAZZLING.

He raises one eyebrow. Then, in a voice you could pour over a waffle:

LEOPOLD
You dance like a herd of cattle, Miss Fairchild. You are a rare woman who lights up the room... simply by leaving it.

He bows. As he rises, the reflection of Leopold's UNCLE OTTO, a pampered, effectual man in his 60's, appears behind Leopold in the looking glass.

UNCLE OTTO
Tell me Leopold, do you plan to join us downstairs after completing this one-sided flash of wit?

LEOPOLD
I despise affairs of this sort, Uncle Otto. No one really listens to anyone else. If you attempt it, you will see why.

UNCLE OTTO
You judge everything too severely. I wonder what would happen if you were to cast that critical eye inward?
LEOPOLD
You do not wonder at all. You merely ask in order to state your own opinion.

UNCLE OTTO
We are all concerned about you.

LEOPOLD
Ahh, here it comes.

UNCLE OTTO
Your life does not seem to have any direction. At the age of 25 a man is too young to do anything well. At 35 he is too old. Now is your time to take action. Tell me, what is it you want to DO with your life?

LEOPOLD
(wearily)
I do not know.

UNCLE OTTO
(just as weary)
Your ignorance cramps my conversation.
(he slaps Leopold's face twice rather quickly)
Wake up! This is your one and only life. Every man has the chance to make a difference. DO something!

Leopold, stung, takes a moment to compose himself.

LEOPOLD
I am most grateful for your surveillance and for your sympathy. I assure you there is no need for concern. I am as effectual and attentive... as my position allows.

UNCLE OTTO
Life is not position, Leopold. It is action.
(he straightens Leopold's tie)
I will see you downstairs promptly. In the appropriate frame of mind.
He leaves. Leopold stares into the mirror, snaps his fingers. The valet hands him a glass and pours a small shot of brandy. Leopold shoots him a look. The valet fills the glass higher. Leopold drains the glass and heads to the doorway. He hesitates, taking a deep breath and a long pause. Finally...

THE VALET

(grandly)

Go spread joy.

Without looking back, Leopold leaves the room.

INT. BALLROOM - NIGHT

Music fills the air as the creme de la creme of Victorian society gather inside. Leopold holds a prearranged card. He looks at the names and finds his first partner is unrelenting MISS TREE. Leopold looks upward helplessly at an God.

INT. BALLROOM DANCE FLOOR - NIGHT

A profoundly self-conscious Leopold dances energetically into frame with MISS TREE, an ancient, elfin, yet amazingly SPRY woman who gapes up at him searchingly, unblinking. Leopold opens his mouth to speak, can think of nothing suitable to say, and clamps his mouth shut. They dance out of frame.

INT. BALLROOM DANCE FLOOR - NIGHT

Leopold dances into frame with CLARA, a BEAUTIFUL girl of 19. He glances at her and smiles. She titters, turning shyly. They whirl around the dance floor. His smile grows into a broad grin. Caught up in the excitement, Clara Leopold, face frozen in a formal smile, dances on.

INT. BALLROOM DANCE FLOOR - NIGHT

Leopold lumbers into frame with MISS FAIRCHILD, a woman of immense girth. With great dignity and extreme difficulty he maneuvers her around the floor, looking everywhere except her enormous bosom.

LEOPOLD

You dance like an angel, Miss Fairchild. You light up the room. I thank you.

Miss Fairchild curtsies heavily. Leopold glances at his card, sees the name Miss Serena Clacket and shudders. He spots a VERY LOVELY WOMAN hidden amongst the guests. She scribbles in a small note pad, occasionally glancing around. Hiding his dance card, he saunters over.

LEOPOLD

Good evening. I do not believe I have had the pleasure.

The young woman stares vacantly at Leopold until she realizes he is addressing her. She puts her pad away.

CARLSON

...Julia Carlson.

Leopold takes her hand and kisses it gently.

CARLSON

I'm sorry. Will you excuse me?

LEOPOLD

(slightly tipsy)

You are not from the area, are you?

CARLSON
Are you?

LEOPOLD
This is my estate.

CARLSON Really?
(looking around the room)
Well it's not home but it's much...

Leopold regards her curiously. The orchestra starts up. There is a hubbub amongst the guests.

LEOPOLD
Shocking! The TA-RA-RA-BOOM-DE-AY.

CARLSON
The? Oh, that's from Paris, isn't it?

LEOPOLD
It is a scandal nonetheless.

Leopold spots Uncle Otto observing him from across the room.

LEOPOLD
Miss Carlson, do me the honor?

CARLSON
I'm afraid I'm not much of a dancer.

LEOPOLD
(smiling seductively)
Truly I would be in your debt. Any admonition would be erased simply by presenting a partner as lovely as yourself.

CARLSON
No, no. Really, I...

Leopold stiffly holds out his arm. A beat. Carlson, stuck, takes it WITH HESITATION and is escorted to the dance floor.
They dance. ALL but Leopold and Carlson gaily sing "TA-RA-RA-BOOM-DE-AY." Leopold, flushed, looks quite smitten. shy at first, eventually smiles brightly.

LEOPOLD
I suppose we really ought to sing along.

CARLSON
(embarrassed)
Oh, golly.

They half sing, half speak the TA-RA-RA-BOOM-DE-AY, their emphasis on "BOOM." Laughing giddily, their dancing becomes freer, picking up speed. The room SPINS. Finally:

CARLSON
(breathless)
Thank you for the dance. It was lovely. I hope it wasn't too awful for you.

LEOPOLD
Not at all. It was most enlightening.

There is a slight pause. The Grandfather CLOCK strikes midnight.

CARLSON
I really must be going.

LEOPOLD
I won't hear of it.

CARLSON
(moving away from him)
No, I'm quite late as it is.

LEOPOLD
I shall see you to the door...

CARLSON
(stopping him resolutely)
You're very sweet. I had a wonderful time.

(she watches him, memorizing his face.)
Then firmly) Goodbye.

Leopold takes a glass of champagne from a passing waiter. He watches Carlson pass through the crowd and out the courtyard door. He surveys the room. After a moment he follows her.

EXT. GARDEN - NIGHT

Leopold makes his way through the manicured garden in the dark. He hears an EERIE METALLIC SOUND. He slows down, back the thicket. The silhouette of a woman is revealed. She is once again writing in her notebook.

LEOPOLD
Miss Carlson?

Carlson spins around quickly, panicked. Leopold STOPS. Partially hidden in the brush, a sleek, oddly shaped, MECHANICAL device. It's door open, lit from within, casting a weird glow.

LEOPOLD Good God...

CARLSON
What are you...? You frightened me.

Leopold moves toward the contraption and is about to touch it...

LEOPOLD
What sort of mechanism is this?

Carlson shakes her head, unsure of how to proceed.

LEOPOLD
Answer me!

CARLSON
It's perfectly all right. It's...

Leopold carefully examines the apparatus, stepping inside.
Carlson FREEZES.

CARLSON
(carefully, deliberately)
Listen to me. Please. Move very slowly. Step out of the machine. Step out and I'll explain whatever you want to know.

LEOPOLD
What is this? Who are you?

His hand comes to rest on a glowing red lever.

CARLSON
Oh, God.

She YANKS on his arm. Instinctively he pulls away, accidentally thrusting the lever into action. Carlson falls from the machine.

CARLSON
(suddenly frantic)
Get out of there! Get out now!

The machine LIGHTS UP.

LEOPOLD
Miss Carlson... I...

CARLSON
No!!!

The compartment door snaps shut.

CARLSON
Shit!!

There is a BRIGHT WHITE FLASH. Blackness fills the screen.

CUT TO:

INT. N.Y.C. LABORATORY - 1995 DAY

The compartment door slides OPEN revealing DR. KAU, 30's, an Asian doctor with a THICK BROOKLYN ACCENT. Her face enthusiasm drops as she sees the unconscious Leopold.

    DR. KAU

    Shit!!

She turns to her co-workers, warning them.

    DR. KAU

    Shit!!

She looks back at Leopold.

    DR. KAU

    Shit!!

Her co-workers, DR. PLODDER, austere, authoritative, DR. DRAKE, muddled and timid, peer inside the compartment door.

    DR. DRAKE

    Good God!

    DR. PLODDER

    Everybody stay calm... Lock the front door.

Dr. Drake and Kau make a move to inspect an unconscious Leopold.

    DR. PLODDER

    No, no, no. You mustn't touch him. The consequences could be catastrophic.

    DR. KAU

    He could be hurt, or even dead.

    DR. PLODDER

    ...All right. Touch him.

They approach Leopold. Dr. Kau finds Carlson's note pad on the ground next to Leopold. She reads the last entry.

    DR. KAU

    ...But I'm stuck and it's only a dance and he IS the seventh Duke of Albany...

They all look at one another, then back at Leopold.
DR. DRAKE

Carlson...!

DR. PLODDER

(racing from the room)
Give me a minute...

DR. KAU

Shit!

INT. LAB - KATE'S OFFICE - DAY

KATHERINE COLES, a radiant workaholic, types frenetically into the computer while talking on the phone, trying hard not to sound upset.

KATE

Who's upset? People fall in love, they have to climb back out.
(she laughs but she is not smiling)
So, what? We'll just be friends now, Right?

She stops typing and listens for a while. She runs her hand through her hair.

KATE

I see. Well I appreciate your honesty.
(using her middle finger she pushes up her glasses)
No. I'll just think of this as surviving another dating accident. Take care or good luck or whatever I'm supposed to...

The line goes dead.

KATE

...say... Goodbye.

Dr. Plodder bursts in. Kate sees his distress and becomes very centered.

DR. PLODDER

She's back.
KATE
(rising)
That's impossible! She wasn't supposed to return until...

DR. PLODDER
Kate. It's Carlson. Something went wrong.

He hands her Carlson's note pad. Slowly, she sits down.

KATE
...The 7th Duke...

INT. LAB - DAY

KATE
(all business, reading from a printout)
...of Albany. He was the... IS the son of Emery and Eliza. He was of no actual importance until he vanished at the turn of the century without a trace. It was a sensation. In the 30's they even made a movie about him. "The Tenuous Duke" with Ronald Coleman.

DR. DRAKE
(absently)
I love Ronald Coleman.

KATE
Despite much speculation and a nation wide investigation, a body was never found. He was never heard from again.

DR. KAU
Until now.

There is a stunned silence. They stare at Leopold in awe.

DR. DRAKE
We've altered the course of history.

DR. KAU
We never should have started this...

KATE
Calm down.
DR. PLODDER
What are we going to do? We can't keep him here. Imagine if anyone found out!

KATE
Think. Just, think. Rationally. Now, no one would believe such a stupid mistake could be made because no one would believe any of this is possible. So. We fix this. We keep this to ourselves and we fix it. Fast.

They all nod in agreement.

KATE
Dr. Kau, research all our data. 1st priority: Locate Carlson. Drake, determine the reciprocal correlation's connected to the 19th century. Work 24 hours a day if necessary. In the meantime... one of us will have to take charge of him.

She forces back panic. Only the tremor in her voice gives her away.

KATE
This is a major scientific opportunity. It doesn't get any better than this. Imagine. Researching the behavior, the physical and emotional characteristics of a century ago! Utilizing technology available to us today... He's a gold mine!

DR. PLODDER
He's a man, Kate. Not a guinea pig.

KATE
And while he's here, he's ours. Any volunteers?

No one moves.

DR. DRAKE
We'll draw names. Whoever is is picked will be responsible. Agreed?

They nod reluctantly. Drake writes out names and throws them... in a cup. The silence becomes deafening. Finally:

DR. KAU

I'll do it.

All the scientists face her.

DR. PLODDER

You'll look after him?

DR. KAU

No, I meant I'll pick the name.

She reaches in. They wait with mounting suspense.

Finally she turns to Kate. The scientists follow her gaze. A beat.

KATE

Fine.

Leopold stirs. He blinks at the group.

LEOPOLD

Where...? What has happened?!

The doctors, caught off guard, smile benignly. They surround Leopold as a group, not knowing where to begin.

Finally:

KATE

Your Grace... Um... Hello... Wee are a small part of a large research team. A project funded by the government of the United States.

LEOPOLD

(regarding their appearance with distaste)

Oh. Americans. I see...

KATE

Yes, um... For the past six and a half years we've been conducting scientific experiments on density and flexibility in the dimensions of time and space.

DR. DRAKE

Yes, uh... Quite by accident we came upon a formula utilizing Tachyons... particles traveling faster than the speed of light, which allowed us to... fold time so to speak.

DR. PLODDER
Yes. Bend it between the cracks of the dimensions.

DR. KAU
Yes.

They all laugh nervously. Leopold does not.

DR. DRAKE
Now, while that wasn't the original purpose of our experiment, we opted to pursue it, well, privately, on our own.

DR. KAU
Borrowing funds already provided.

KATE
We journeyed to your time because it was the quickest path to follow. We debated long and hard whether we should use this knowledge at all. Believe me, it was never our intent to disturb the past...

DR. DRAKE
Merely to discover if the expedition were possible. As your presence here confirms... we are very disturbed.

Leopold nods at them as if they are insane.

DR. PLODDER
The problem facing us is not only HOW to get you back, but WHEN, you see?

KATE
We certainly don't want to miscalculate. Send you to a different era entirely.

Leopold starts to speak.

DR. PLODDER
Rest assured, no harm will come to you. You'll be well looked after by Dr. Coles.

LEOPOLD

Dr. Coles...? I do not follow. What do you mean, get me back home?... Where am I?

Awkward pause. Leopold looks carefully around the room for the first time: modern mechanical equipment, data shifting and changing, giant cooling devices, bright neon lighting. The doctors are silent.

LEOPOLD

Answer me!...
(slowly)
Would you have me believe... I am being detained, at present in the HEREAFTER?... The time to come?

DR. PLODDER
(carefully)
It is the year nineteen hundred and ninety-five.

LEOPOLD

...19...?

Leopold leaps up. The doctors follow him around the room.

LEOPOLD

You're insane! All of you! This is impossible!

DR. PLODDER

Leopold, calm down!

LEOPOLD

A voyage through time! What do you take me for? Did you bring me here by force?

DR. DRAKE

We're scientist, not seditionists.

LEOPOLD
(truly panicked)
Let me out of here! I won't stand for this another moment!

He's out the door.

INT. UNDERGROUND HALLWAY - DAY

Leopold moves quickly, fearfully through the darkly lit hallway, the doctors close behind.

KATE
Leopold, wait!

DR. KAU
You don't know what you're doing.

DR. PLODDER
Just listen to what we have to say!

It is too late. Leopold throws open the door and runs upstairs.

EXT. STREET - DAY

LEOPOLD
19...?

The doctors reach him. He collapses to the ground.

CUT TO:

INT. CAR - DAY

Kate and Dr. Kau talk quietly. Leopold, tightly holding onto his seat and the back door, gazes out the window in utter disbelief.

KATE Squab.

DR. KAU Squab?
KATE
I remember reading they ate a lot of squab.

DR. KAU
Squab... Do you have a squab?

KATE
(quietly. On the verge of panic)
I don't know!

DR. KAU
Pull yourself together!
(turning to Leopold)
Are you all right back there?

Leopold, trembling, gapes at the sights, every day sounds, magnified. Perspiration runs down the side of his face. Kate watches him in her rear view mirror.

KATE
You're going to be fine you know.
There's nothing to worry about. I have everything under control.

Dr. Kau stares at Kate in concerned silence.

KATE
(quietly to Dr. Kau)
We'll never get away with this.

INT. BEDROOM - THE NEXT MORNING

Leopold awakens alone in his room. He sits up with a jolt. His stomach sinks as he realizes THIS IS NO DREAM. He slowly rises to his full stature, moving to the window he looks out on the modern day city, shaking his head in awe. He makes his way to the bedroom door and tentatively touches the knob. There is a KNOCK on the door.

Leopold JUMPS back and runs to the bed: The picture of dignity.
KATE
How are you feeling?
(no response)
I thought you might like some tea.

LEOPOLD
I insist on being returned home immediately.

KATE
I understand. We're doing our best.

LEOPOLD
I wish to speak with your employer, Dr. Coles.

KATE
You're speaking to him.

LEOPOLD
You are not suggesting that you are Dr. Coles?

She smiles.

LEOPOLD
Miss... uh?

KATE
Dr. Coles. If you like, you could call me Miss Dr. Coles or if that's too much, how about just plain Kate?

LEOPOLD
(coldly)
A WOMAN of science?

KATE
Hard to believe?

LEOPOLD
But a woman's brain cannot obtain enough knowledge to posses a truly scientific mind.

KATE
(jotting this down)
Interesting. Nevertheless, we've come a long way baby.

LEOPOLD
(confused)
Are you attempting to be humorous?

KATE
I'm attempting to be informative it's just coming out humorous.

Leopold regards her dubiously.

KATE
(clinically)
Look, modern social science clearly states that a woman's place in society marks the level of that civilization.
A science career for a woman is now almost as acceptable as being a... a... waitress. Cream and sugar?

LEOPOLD
Young lady, I... Surely it is not expected that I remain here with you indefinitely... Unchaperoned?

KATE
(pen poised)
Does that make you nervous?

LEOPOLD
Certainly not!

KATE
writing
Then what are you getting so red about? It's a very large apartment... with locks on all the doors.

LEOPOLD
The idea! My dear Miss Coles...

KATE
Dr. Coles.

LEOPOLD
Honey...

KATE
(she puts the pad down)
Let's get one thing straight right now. My name is Kate or Katherine or if you insist Dr. Coles.
(she rises)
Take a good long look, Leopold. I am a 20th century American woman with a Doctorate and a commission and independence. I am not your "young lady" or your "pretty Miss" or your "honey." Is that clear?

Leopold watches her with great interest. Finally:

LEOPOLD
Honey... For the tea.

KATE
...I'll get it for you.

Kate grabs the teacup grandly and leaves the room.

INT. KITCHEN - MORNING

Kate rummages through every drawer, shelf and cupboard searching for the honey. Finally, she spots the honeybear and squeezes honey A TAD TO VIOLENTLY into the tea. She posing "confidently" then checks her reflection in the toaster.

INT. BEDROOM - MORNING

Kate returns "confidently" with the tea and a plastic smile.

LEOPOLD
Thank you... Has it been decided what it is I am to do while I am being held here?

KATE
Oh, just some laundry, the cooking, a little light housework...

Leopold doesn't react.

KATE
(clearing her throat)
I took the liberty of preparing a simple schedule to efficiently utilize your time while incorporating you into my routine.
(she hands him a schedule)
As you can see, my day begins with meditation and yoga from 6:30 to 7:00.

She moves in close to him, making Leopold uncomfortable.

KATE

YOU will arise at 6:45, shower and change and at 7:15, we breakfast together. 7:45 we begin the days work. At 10:45 Dr. Kau arrives to observe you in your natural routine as I research the data that will enable you to return home. At 1:15 we lunch together. 2:15 you answer a daily questionnaire, I type up my notes. At precisely 6:15 you will enjoy 15 minutes of FREE TIME, then, at 6:30, I listen to Tom Brokaw while making dinner as YOU write down any questions that come up during your day. At 7:00, we dine together. If you need me at any time you may ring this bell.

She rings a tiny dinner bell. He is about to speak.

KATE

Now, Mondays and Wednesdays I have computer science class, Tuesdays I have therapy. IF I have a date, I'm usually home by 9:15. During these periods you may read any of the books I've picked out for you in your room. I organize my next days work at 10:30, 11:35, David Letterman, 12:40 I'm in bed.

(she takes a breath, smiles at him)

Next day we begin again. Simple?

LEOPOLD

(after a beat, with great dignity)

...At what time shall I WEE and POOH?

Kate is forced into a stunned silence.

CHARLIE'S VOICE

Kate? I'm home.

KATE
Oh. Yes. Our chaperone is here.

LEOPOLD
Your father?

KATE
Sort of. My brother.

LEOPOLD Visiting?

KATE
For the past two years. Charlie can never know about this project. We'll tell him you are a... overly distinguished colleague staying here as our guest. From Canada. Which would explain your lack of familiarity with our customs and so forth

LEOPOLD
(aghast)
A CANADIAN?

KATE
Make yourself comfortable. I'll check in on you later. I think this is going very well, don't you?

Leopold looks at her blankly.

KATE
Okay. If you need anything, just ring.

Kate tinkles the bell, fumbles for the knob and heads out.

P.O.V. still on Leopold.

KATE (V.O.)
(shouting)
Charlie!

Leopold reacts.

CHARLIE (V.O.)
(screaming just as loud)
What?

KATE
(still shouting)
Come here I wanna talk to you.

Leopold listens at the door. He slowly opens it, takes two steps out, peers around the corner, then quickly steps in. He takes a DEEP FRIGHTENED BREATH and slowly deflates.

INT. CHARLIE’S STUDIO - MORNING

Charlie sits on the couch smoking a cigarette surrounded by his paintings. He is a likable twentysomething with a big mouth.

CHARLIE
What did I do?

KATE
(removing his coffee from the table, setting it on a coaster)
RINGS! And what did I say about you smoking in the house?

CHARLIE
You were against it.

KATE
Correct. You're back early. (She takes away his cigarette)

CHARLIE
Hey!... Are you all right? You look funny.

KATE
Funny ha ha or funny odd?

CHARLIE Both.

KATE
That all depends. How was your trip?

CHARLIE Why?
KATE
If it was good I'll tell you the truth. If it was rotten I'll have to butter you up first.

CHARLIE
Butter me up.

KATE
Have you been working out? No, I'm really starting to see results. Are you comfortable there on the couch?

CHARLIE Very.

KATE
Good. Cause you'll be sleeping there the next few nights.

CHARLIE
Kate!

KATE
You have to be out of here by 8 and you can't be back before 6. We have an important man working with us with very unusual needs. The company is insisting he stay here.

CHARLIE
What about a hotel?

KATE
This man requires around the clock attention.

CHARLIE
I meant for me.

KATE
Thank you, Charlie. (she kisses his forehead) I owe you one.

CHARLIE
You owe me nine. What am I supposed to do all day?

KATE
(as if having an epiphany)
You could get a job!

CHARLIE
Kate, the entire point of being an artist is that I don't have to work. Who is this guy?

KATE
Well, I can't tell you much because...

KATE AND CHARLIE
I'm not allowed to discuss what goes on at the office.

KATE
Well I'm not. Anyway, it might be interesting to have someone else to talk to. It gets so quiet around here sometimes I feel like I've gone deaf.

CHARLIE
Does he have a label?

KATE
Leopold.

CHARLIE
LEOPOLD? Is he anything like his name?

KATE
He's exactly like his name.

CHARLIE
Then you owe me ten.

INT. LIVING ROOM - DAY

Leopold PEEKS around the entrance to the living room. Confident it's unoccupied, he majestically walks inside: Up to date gadgetry, Charlie's modern art work, bright fashionable furniture. Leopold recoils. His eyes come to rest on the television set. The ON OFF buttons loom large. He looks around the room then brazenly presses the ON.
Instantly, REGIS and KATHY LEE loudly berate each other before an excited crowd.

Leopold jumps back several feet, hands flailing in front of him as if shooing away a bee. He quickly, yet cautiously, slams the power OFF.

LEOPOLD

Horrible!

He quickly scurries out the hallway.

He stops abruptly. He remains very still. Composing himself, he turns and deliberately faces the room. After a moment, he purposefully steps back inside.

He makes a large ARC around the television set, is confronted by one of Charlie's sculptures and makes an ARC around that. He finds himself in front of a light switch and gingerly examines it. As he does, track lighting ILLUMINATES the room.

He looks at the lights then back at the switch. He flicks the lights ON and OFF, trying to figure out the precise moment in the transfer of power, laughing in spite of himself.

Kate and Charlie enter. They watch Leopold flicking the lights, laughing like a madman. Charlie gives Kate a look.

KATE

(explaining)

He's from Canada...

INT. DINING ROOM - NIGHT

Leopold sits at the head of the table, Kate and Charlie banished to either side. Leopold chews his dinner incessantly.

LEOPOLD

(finally)
What is this?

KATE
It's called Hamburger Helper.

LEOPOLD
It is beyond help. Please serve the next course.

He pushes his plate away.

KATE
I'm afraid there is no next course. If you make a list of the foods you like, I'll pick them up at the store for you.

LEOPOLD
Is all food here this... textured?

CHARLIE
Mine's good.

LEOPOLD
Please understand, I am used to a different sort of preparation. Where I come from a proper meal is the result of reflection and study. A recipe is merely a theme which an intelligent cook can plan each time with variation.

Charlie gives Kate a look.

LEOPOLD
Several courses are served. Menus are often prepared days in advance, timed to perfection. It is said, without the culinary art, the crudeness of reality would make life unbearable.

CHARLIE
In Canada?

LEOPOLD
(after a beat. Firmly)
In Canada.

CHARLIE
We have a saying here. "Shake and shake the catsup bottle, none will come and then a lot'll."

He pours catsup on his dinner.

LEOPOLD

How interesting.

CHARLIE

Since you're such an expert on fine cuisine, why don't you make dinner tomorrow night?

LEOPOLD

It should be obvious to you that I am NOT a domestic. You may take my plate.

CHARLIE

I have my own, thank you.

KATE

Charlie...

CHARLIE

Who died and made me Cinderella?

LEOPOLD

Young man, there is a distinct impertinence to your voice.

CHARLIE

It's part of my charm.

LEOPOLD

Suppress it.

KATE

(changing the subject)

Leopold... Since you're our guest here, there are several cultural events you might enjoy seeing. Charlie has season tickets to the ball game. Perhaps you'd like to take that in?

LEOPOLD

What is it?

CHARLIE

What is it??

KATE

Or the Opera or the Ballet?
CHARLIE
What is it??

KATE
Charlie, there's no rule that says everyone has to be interested in baseball.

CHARLIE
No, but I believe there is a rule that says everyone has to have HEARD of it.

LEOPOLD
Dr. Coles, your brother Charles attitude and demeanor are unacceptable. If I am to stay on here you must have a serious talk with him regarding respect and civility.

KATE
CHARLES, could you help me with the dessert in the kitchen?

CHARLIE
In the kitchen?

KATE
IN the kitchen. Excuse us.

Kate and Charlie leave. The camera remains on Leopold, sitting alone, calmly sipping his wine. VOICE OVER FROM THE KITCHEN:

CHARLIE
I don't believe this guy!

KATE
Try to be nice to him.

CHARLIE
I'm always NICE!

KATE
Please Charlie, as a favor to me.

CHARLIE
He gives me the creeps.
Leopold reacts. He listens self-consciously.

KATE
He's different that's all.

CHARLIE
What was that crack about domestics?

KATE
Charlie, this is important to me.

CHARLIE
You're not going out with him, are you?

KATE
Eeuuu! I may be desperate but I'm not a lost cause.

CHARLIE
Kate, this is me. I've seen the guys you bring home.

KATE
I've done countless favors for you! Now I'm asking for just one little thing...

CHARLIE
(overlapping)
Oh, all right! All right! All right!

They emerge from the kitchen, beaming.

KATE
(after a beat)
We forgot the dessert.

CHARLIE
You know,... I don't know if I mentioned it,... but that is one fine looking suit.

INT. KATE'S BEDROOM - 6:30 A. M.

Radio alarm clock -- 7:45 a.m. Louis Armstrong begins to sing, "Let's Call the Whole Thing Off." Dressed in yoga clothes Kate sits on her bed in the lotus position. She bangs the gong and closes her eyes. A bell rings. Kate flinches but does not open her eyes.

KATE
(too sweetly)
What is it, Leopold?

The bell rings louder, interrupting Kate's routine.

KATE
(eyes closed, screaming like a fishwife)
WHAT IS IT, LEOPOLD?!

Leopold's bell rings with determination. Kate is off the bed and out of the room.

INT. KITCHEN - MORNING

Kate enters and stops short. Leopold sits at the table ringing a BELL. The dishwasher is open and SPRAYING WILDLY, the blender has spread breakfast shake EVERYWHERE, water is BOILING OVER on the stove, refrigerator, freezer, and every cupboard door is OPEN. Garbage disposal runs FULL BLAST.

LEOPOLD
(calmly amidst the chaos)
I cannot seem to find the tea...

CLOSE UP: Leopold's hand rings a bell with irritation.

INT. CHARLIE'S BEDROOM - EVENING

Leopold, Kate, and Charlie stand in front of Charlie's open closet. Leopold selects clothes from Charlie's wardrobe.

LEOPOLD
No... No... No. Good God, no!... Perhaps...

He tosses them aside carelessly as Charlie seethes.

CLOSE UP: Leopold rings his bell.

INT. HALLWAY - EARLY MORNING
Kate and Charlie form a line to the bathroom. Kate checks her schedule and bangs on the door.

KATE

Leopold, your time is up! What's he got, a girl in there?

INT. BATHROOM - EARLY MORNING

Leopold Luxuriates in the bathtub wearing a "Whitecap" marveling at the whirlpool and the instant hot water. He picks up a can of shaving cream and inspects it in wonder.

It SPRAYS.

CLOSE UP: Leopold rings his bell. Nothing happens. He discovers the clapper has been stolen.

INT. KATE'S STUDY - AFTERNOON

Kate types, talks and researches simultaneously. She looks up and stops suddenly.

Leopold appears wearing MANY oddly assorted layers of Charlie's clothes, a bandanna bow tie, Irish woolen cap, bicycle gloves, aluminum baseball bat walking stick. He poses foppishly.

LEOPOLD

I should like to read about modern currency during my bath tonight. See that the tub and basin are scrubbed up. Remnants remain of this afternoons shave.

Kate nods at him stupefied. Due to the many layers of clothing, he imperiously leaves the room walking as if wearing skis.

INT. BEDROOM - NIGHT

Leopold rings a BIG NEW COWBELL. No one responds.

INT. CHARLIE'S WORKROOM - NIGHT (CONTINIOUS)
He discovers Kate at her computer, Charlie reading a book. Each are wearing a walkman.

He stands in front of them and rings his cowbell furiously until they look up.

INT. STUDY – DAY

Leopold studies his questionnaire, Kate researches Victorian customs. They simultaneously look up and gaze at the other. A beat.

Embarrassed, Kate dons her glasses and Leopold shuffles papers. They look up again. Then down. Then get back to work.

INT. KATE’S BEDROOM – NIGHT

Kate sits on her bed with her laptop watching David Letterman. She glances up, laughs out loud. She looks at the dark empty computer, and then at the dark empty room. No one is there to share it with. Closing her eyes, she holds her pillow close to her. She slowly moves to the window and looks out.

INT. LEOPOLD’S BEDROOM – NIGHT

A text book with Leopold’s picture inside. Leopold reads the brief summary of his life with heartbreaking astonishment. He moves to the window and looks out.

EXT. N.Y.C. APARTMENT BUILDING – NIGHT

Kate and Leopold gaze out of their windows. The camera slowly pulls back until they are swallowed up by the city.

INT. KATE’S STUDY – AFTERNOON

Kate scans her notes as Leopold paces dully about the room.

KATE
In our last session you intimated there was a symmetrical system regulating the social order of conformity spanning your era. I found this particularly intriguing If I can just find it in my notes...

A fire engine races by. Leopold dashes to the window then turns back, excited.

LEOPOLD

The fire brigade!

Kate stares at him blankly. She munches RICE CAKES and drinks water FROM THE BOTTLE. A beat. She returns to her notes.

LEOPOLD

This is insufferable! I refuse to be spied upon, skipped over, or shuffled about any longer. I have yet to venture outside this cell. Before I go mad a more suitable arrangement must be found.

KATE

Found it.

LEOPOLD

(startled)
A resolution?

KATE

No I meant I found my notes.

LEOPOLD

Dr. Coles! Changes are in order.

KATE

I can hear you.

LEOPOLD

(under control now)
Miss Coles, as we are to remain here together, there are certain conditions I insist are met and maintained. I no longer wish to be peeped at, mocked...

KATE
I never...

LEOPOLD
(calmy)
Or interrupted. Jot this down.
Breakfast at 12. Luncheon at 4. Diner at 8. A horse should be made available from 1 to 3.

KATE
A horse? In New York City?

LEOPOLD
Yes. Also, I feel very strongly about your style of dress. I do not care for it.
(Kate looks up)
I cannot believe it is the prevailing taste for women to appear masculine and unkempt. If this is the fashion, have it altered.

Kate rises.

LEOPOLD
That is all for the present.

He grandly hands her a napkin.

LEOPOLD
CRUMBS, my dear!

KATE
(infuriated)
Thank you!

Brushing herself off, she heads to the door.

LEOPOLD
Dr. Coles. I have been acquainted with many women in my time, yet I am compelled to say that the modern woman is by far the least attractive
I have ever encountered.

KATE
(rising to the occasion)
And I have a news flash of my own.

Leopold waits.

KATE
You sir, are no Ronald Coleman!

She storms out.

INT. LAB - EARLY MORNING

Dr. Drake enters Dr. Kau's office with two pints of Haagen Dazs.

DR. DRAKE
Chocolate Peanut Butter Cookie Dough Swirl or Peach?

DR. KAÚ
Peach.

They dig in.

DR. DRAKE
Any luck?

DR. KAÚ
Yea. Lots of luck. All bad. No information exists detailing what happened to Carlson. I've been working for weeks and I'm not any closer than when I began... How are you doing?

DR. DRAKE
My cholesterol level is up 70 points.

Kate enters, exhausted, deposits an armful of papers on Dr. Drake's desk. Kate has pencils tucked behind her ear, through her hair, and in her mouth.

DR. DRAKE
Thank you, Kate... How're you managing with Leopold?

KATE
Fine. Fine... Why? What did you hear?

DR. DRAKE
Nothing. I was just asking.

KATE
Oh. Well, it's fine. He's a delight. Everything's under control.
DR. KAU
Keep up the good work.
(after she's gone)
She seemed a little scattered. Do you think everything's all right?

DR. DRAKE
Katherine Coles is the most capable person we have on this project. If anyone can handle the delicacy of this situation, Kate can.

DR. KAU
So there's nothing to worry about?

DR. DRAKE
Absolutely not.

INT. CHARLIE'S STUDIO - EARLY EVENING

KATE GONE? GONE WHERE?!
(Charlie shrugs)
Charlie we've got to find him!

CHARLIE
(work on a VERY STERN portrait of Kate at her computer)
Are you crazy? This is the first time all week my eyes aren't darting to the top of my sockets every five minutes.

KATE
When did he leave?

CHARLIE
I don't know. An hour ago? He said he wanted to take a walk.

KATE
And you let him?? He's not allowed to go outside!

CHARLIE
Is he being punished?

KATE
We've got to find him! You stay here in case he finds his way back. And while you wait you'd better pray he's all right. If anything happens to him, anything at all, EVERYTHING we've worked for will have been destroyed.

She heads out the door. Charlie follows.

INT. LIVING ROOM - EARLY EVENING

CHARLIE
Kate, calm down.

KATE
And YOU'LL be responsible. Understand?
(she grabs her coat and purse)

CHARLIE
What's the big deal? Who is this guy?

Kate takes a LONG pause.

KATE
Leopold... is not really from Canada.

EXT. KATE'S APARTMENT BUILDING - LATE AFTERNOON

Peaceful. The sun sets. Pigeons rest on window sills. Suddenly:

CHARLIE (V.O.)
OH MY GOD!!!

The pigeons take flight.

EXT. CENTRAL PARK - EVENING

Leopold leaves Central Park profoundly lost. Looking both ways in the wrong direction, he crosses the street. SCREECHING brakes, HONKING horns, FURIOUS shouts with Leopold, horrified, caught in the middle. He makes it across shaking and dazed.

WOMAN MOTORIST
You stupid fucking son of a bitch. Next time I'll hit ya. Fucking moron.
Leopold GAPES, appalled. A Hansom carriage slowly treads into Central Park. Leopold watches until it disappears.

INT. KATE'S GREEN A.M.C. PACER - NIGHT

Kate drives slowly, searching for Leopold. Cars honk with mounting anger.

CABBY
What're ya waiting for lady? An invitation?

KATE
I'm sorry! I'm sorry!

She continues searching, trying hard to remain calm.

EXT. TIMES SQUARE - NIGHT

Huge buildings. Neon lights flashing. Garbage in bundles. Calvin Klein Ads. In the center of it all, Leopold, jostled BADLY by the crowd, tipping his hat to all the ladies. He enters a deli.

INT. DELI - NIGHT

Leopold, appalled by the prices searches for money. He has none.

LEOPOLD
(to the counter man)
$7.95 for a sandwich? Is that correct?

COUNTER MAN
You gotta problem with that?

LEOPOLD
It seems rather pricey to me.

COUNTER MAN
So don't buy one.

LEOPOLD
I shan't.
COUNTER MAN
So shan't!

He moves on.

LEOPOLD
Yes, I... I would be happy to sample one however I'm afraid I haven't the finance with me just now. If I could establish a credit with you, I will have someone come round with the funds tomorrow.

COUNTER MAN
You will gladly pay me Tuesday for a hamburger today, is that it?

LEOPOLD
(a little confused)
I believe so. Yes.

COUNTER MAN
Get the fuck outta here.

LEOPOLD
I beg your pardon?

COUNTER MAN
Get out. Fuckin' Wimpys piss me off.

LEOPOLD
May I remind you, merchant, that I am the customer in this establishment and as such require your attention and the utmost respect. I do not accept this modern convention of desecrating one's patrons with such contemptuous disregard.

YUPPIE WOMAN
You tell him.

LEOPOLD
Need I add that without our patronage you would not own that unwashed counter behind which you spew your filthy mouth?

COUNTER MAN
Where do you get off? You don't even have any money.
LEOPOLD
Don't be irrelevant... I'm browsing.

COUNTER MAN
Not in my store you're not.

He comes out from behind the counter. He's big.

LEOPOLD
(very superior)
Do you intend to physically escort me out...?

EXT. STREET - NIGHT

Leopold is thrown out of the store and on to the street.

LEOPOLD
Did you see what he did? Did you see that?

No one responds. Leopold is left sprawled on the street.

Thunder is heard.

EXT. N.Y.C. - NIGHT

Gargoyles at New York City Library, The Dakota, the Bowery, Alphabet City.

EXT. CLAIRMOUNT STABLES - 4 A.M.

Pouring rain. Leopold stands in front of the stables beaten and drenched. A car drives by, screeches to a stop, and hastily backs up along side Leopold.

KATE
Leopold! Leopold, get in.

Leopold stares at the car. Kate runs out, opens the door and helps him in. She dashes back into the drivers seat.

INT. CAR - 4 A.M.

KATE
(nearly in tears, trying to dry him off)
Leopold! Oh, Leopold thank God you're all right. I didn't think I'd ever find you. You had us all so worried. Oh, Leopold!

She hits him hard.

KATE

Don't you ever go out again without my permission, do you hear me? I was frantic. You could have been killed a hundred times over. I never would have known.

She rests her head on the steering wheel, exhausted. She pulls herself together and looks at him.

KATE

Leopold, are you all right?

LEOPOLD

(looking deep into her eyes for the first time)

I wish to go home.

KATE

Okay. I'll get you home in a jiffy.

LEOPOLD

(badly shaken)

No... I wish to go home.

Kate gently observes Leopold who stares rigidly straight ahead.

INT. LIVING ROOM - NIGHT

CHARLIE

(on the phone)

I don't know. It's just Leopold.

Like Cher. Or Goofy.

Kate and Leopold walk in wet and exhausted.

CHARLIE

KATE
Charlie, don't start. I haven't been this angry at you since you got me into that pyramid thing last year. If you make a wisecrack I'm going to burst into flame.

CHARLIE
It wasn't a wisecrack. You do look horrible.

KATE
I'm too tired for this now. I'll just save it up and kill you tomorrow. Help Leopold out of his things and let's get him to bed.

LEOPOLD
I've something to say. To the both of you. I... Nothing is what it seems. After witnessing mere weeks of this age it is painfully apparent I am outside of my acquaintance... I don't know how to proceed. I frankly... am in need of assistance. I'm sorry. I'm not very good at this. In the event you have missed it, I am apologizing.

There is a long pause.

CHARLIE
About time.
(he shakes Leopold's hand reluctantly)
Welcome back.
(he leaves)

KATE
Don't mind him. His heart would be in the right place if he had a heart. Surliness runs in my family.

LEOPOLD
I understand. It practically races through mine.

KATE
(shocked)
Leopold, you made a joke. I mean one that's not at my expense. That's good.
They look at each other just a second too long.

LEOPOLD
We'd better get to bed... That is...

KATE
Yes... I start work...
(she looks at her watch)
in three and a half hours.

LEOPOLD
Oh, dear.

They self-consciously head to their respective rooms.

KATE
It's fine. I'm used to it.

LEOPOLD
You mustn't get too used to it. You'll find life passes you by awfully quickly.

Kate is struck by his vulnerability for the first time and is moved. She catches herself quickly however.

LEOPOLD
Thank you for...

KATE
(waving it away)
Oh!

They stand at their bedroom doors.

LEOPOLD
Well, goodnight then.

KATE
Leopold?... I don't have a clear handle on this. Perhaps I was wrong keeping you confined to the apartment all this time. I don't know when you'll be able return home... Tomorrow I'll start preparing you for the outside world. And... We'll find your way back. I promise.

Leopold smiles, still shaken. A beat. They slowly close the doors to their respective rooms.

INT. HALLWAY - BRIGHT SUNNY MORNING

Leopold, dressed for an outing knocks on Kate's bedroom door.

KATE (V.O.)
ENTS

Yes?

Leopold enters. Kate stands in a slip calmly looking at Leopold. Leopold immediately turns, facing the door.

LEOPOLD

Oh! I beg your pardon. I, I, I, was merely... I didn't...

KATE

Is there something you want, Leopold?

LEOPOLD

I merely wanted to see... that is, inquire, on your availability, for an outing... My assimilation and so forth.

KATE

Yes, we have a lot of work ahead of us. I'll be out in a minute.

LEOPOLD

Yes, of course. Splendid.

He reaches around behind his back and fumbles for the knob.

He finally finds it and goes out.

Kate smiles.

CUT TO:

EXT. N.Y.C. - DAY

the Brooklyn Bridge, the Chrysler Building, Rockefeller Center, 5th Avenue.

EXT. 5TH AVENUE - DAY

Kate and Leopold exit The Gap. Leopold awkwardly wears Gap casual clothes, a baseball cap on his head.
LEOPOLD
Are you certain this is correct?

Kate places the cap backwards on his head. She nods approvingly.

KATE
Certainly I'm certain.

Leopold watches himself in store windows. He CAN'T comprehend it. Kate leads him into Barney's.

INT. BARNEY'S - DAY

Leopold stands before the mirror wearing a classic dark suit. He looks FANTASTIC. A fact that is not lost on Kate.

LEOPOLD
Now really. Isn't this better?

Kate nods back begrudgingly, her breath taken away.

EXT. N.Y.C. - DAY

Lincoln Center, Columbus Circle, Gristedes.

INT. GRISTEDES MARKET - DAY

Kate selects a shopping cart, begins to push it.

LEOPOLD
Allow me.

Kate walks ahead. Leopold, maneuvering a cart with a broken wheel, hasn't the knack and bangs into everyone and everything in the aisle.

LEOPOLD
Sorry. Oops! Careful there. So sorry.

CUT TO:

CLOSE UPS: Leopold scrutinizing vegetables in cans, cereals for kids, bottled water, instant soup, feminine hygiene supplies.
CUT TO:
The check out line. As their groceries are being rung up, Leopold spots The Sun, a newspaper with the headline: Woman Sees Satan in her Microwave Oven. Leopold eagerly shows Kate.

LEOPOLD
Have you seen today's paper?

KATE
Put it back.

LEOPOLD
But...

KATE Back!

Leopold reads the paper totally enthralled.

EXT. STREET - DAY
Kate and Leopold walk down the street, a bag in each arm. Leopold eyes Kate suspiciously.

LEOPOLD
Dr. Coles, why is it you are not married?

KATE
Women are longer defined by the men they're married to, Leopold. I have a career. I haven't found a man who fits in with that yet.

LEOPOLD
Yet people still marry?

KATE
(defensively)
I've heard of cases.

They continue to walk, Leopold noticeably studies Kate. Finally:

LEOPOLD
I suspect there is something wrong with you.

KATE
There's nothing wrong with me!

LEOPOLD
Perhaps it is the way you present yourself.

KATE
I don't know what you're talking about.

LEOPOLD
There is some sort of problem when a woman reaches thirty and insists on remaining single.

KATE
You think I'm THIRTY?!

LEOPOLD
What?

KATE
Do I look THIRTY to you?

LEOPOLD
It was an arbitrary number.

KATE
You chose it specifically opposed to a lower number.

LEOPOLD
I didn't mean it.

KATE
...Thirty!

LEOPOLD
I apologize... How old are you?

KATE
(sharply)
I'm thirty! But you're the first person whoever told me I looked it!

LEOPOLD
I'm sorry.
Leopold spots a formal dress in a store window. He takes a good long look at Kate, smiles, then quickly walks inside. Kate continues down the block.

KATE
And it's not that I insist on remaining single. Believe me. Everyone dreams of finding somebody to share their life with. To give someone all the love they've been hoarding since they were a kid. I'm no different. But one has to be sensible. I have a career and a life that's filled with...

She looks around. Leopold is gone.

KATE
Not again...

She starts off down the street, stops, and enters ROBERTA'S, an upscale boutique.

INT. ROBERTA'S - DAY
Kate races in. Leopold talks with a saleslady.

KATE
What do I have to do? Put a leash around your neck?

LEOPOLD
(to the saleslady)
She is the woman to whom I was referring. You see the problem?

SALESLADY
(giving Kate the once over) Yep.

KATE
(staring down at her clothes then back at the two of them)
What?... What?

INT. ROBERTA'S - DAY
From behind the dressing room door, Kate shouts to the others with irritation.

KATE
This is ridiculous. I don't have time to...
(she shrieks)
Do you know what this dress costs?
Let's get this over with. I'm coming out. Nobody laugh.

Kate leaves the dressing room in a huff COMPLETELY UNAWARE that she is STUNNING.

KATE
Satisfied?

Leopold and the saleslady stare at her with pleasure.

KATE
...What?

She turns and looks at herself in the mirror. Leopold stands behind her, pulls back her hair, brushes away her bangs.

LEOPOLD
You have a lovely face.

Even Kate cannot deny that she is lovely. She stares at herself for a long while.

LEOPOLD
(quietly)
We'll take the dress.

They become aware of their close proximity. They nervously part.

INT. LIVING ROOM - LATE AFTERNOON

Kate sits Leopold down on the sofa. She turns on the TV and hands him the remote control.

LEOPOLD
What is this?
KATE

The drug of the 20th century.

She aims the remote at the TV, changing channels. He's spellbound.

INT. DINING ROOM - EARLY EVENING

Dinner is served. Kate waits patiently for Leopold who sits on the sofa watching the TV.

KATE

Leopold, your dinner's getting cold.

LEOPOLD

I'm coming.

He does not move a muscle.

INT. LIVING ROOM - NIGHT

Kate and Leopold sit on the sofa eating their dinner and watching TV. On the screen, a Looney Tune. Leopold enjoys this especially. Kate reaches for the remote but grabs it territorially, refusing to relinquish it.

KATE

(making notes)

It's a guy thing.

INT. LIVING ROOM - NIGHT

Leopold asleep on the sofa still clutching the remote control. Kate comes in with a blanket and settles it over Leopold. She glances around the room, then slowly bends down close to capture a better look at his face. After a moment she catches herself, takes herself in hand and sits down at her computer. She opens her notes and types. Her fingers slow down to a crawl and come to a stop. She looks up at Leopold lost in thought. She smiles.
Reaching for a soda, she accidentally knocks a picture to the floor. In a SMASHED frame, Kate and CARLSON drunkenly mug for the camera. Kate pales noticeably. She looks from the picture to Leopold. Slowly, she begins pecking away at the keys. She does not look up again.

INT. LAB - LATE AFTERNOON

Kate gives Leopold a tour of the lab stopping by Dr. Drakes area. Hidden behind chalk boards, calculator paper, and several empty Haagen Dazs containers, Dr. Drake searches for solutions.

KATE

...now within that astronomical structure, Dr. Drake here is searching for a pathway between your time and the present. He'll find it too if his arteries don't harden first.

LEOPOLD

Astounding.

KATE

Once that is discovered, the search begins for the exact time and date travel will be possible.

They move to Dr. Kau's area.

LEOPOLD

(to Dr. Kau)

How are you proceeding?

Dr. Kau merely grunts. Leopold looks at Kate.

KATE

Don't take it personally. Once Dr. Kau starts working, you just have to wait until her batteries run down. We're all pretty much like that.

They head into Kate's office.

INT. KATE'S OFFICE - DAY
Kate gathers her belongings, Leopold snoops at her notes.

LEOPOLD
The complexity of this equation is astonishing? Can you really comprehend all that?

KATE
(simply. Almost apologetically)
I'm a genius.

LEOPOLD
You're quite exceptional Dr. Coles. (a beat)
That is to say, you all are.

KATE
Thank you. And may I say that sometimes, in DIM light, you're not so bad yourself.

They stand together, Leopold grinning sheepishly.

KATE
Oh my God! Is that the time? I'm late. Therapy. Every Tuesday night.

LEOPOLD
May I accompany you?

KATE
You mayn't.

LEOPOLD
I am not certain I understand therapy.

KATE
No one does. That's why therapists can charge so much.

As she gathers her belongings, Leopold spots a very high heeled red shoe in Kate's bag.

LEOPOLD
What exactly transpires during therapy?

KATE
Leopold. A gentleman does not ask those questions. Come on, we'll get you home.

LEOPOLD
I am perfectly able to travel homeward myself.

Kate looks at him skeptically.

LEOPOLD
Really! I have finance and our address. I shall take a cabbie.

Kate hesitates.

LEOPOLD
You are late. I insist. I am NOT a child. Dr. Coles.

KATE
All right. Don't bite my head off.

She shakes her head and walks out the door.

EXT. N.Y.C. STREET - LATE AFTERNOON
Kate heads down the stairs of a subway station. A few feet behind, Leopold cautiously follows.

INT. SUBWAY STATION - RUSH HOUR
Kate waits in line at the turnstile. Leopold, a ways back, grimaces noticeably at the smell.
Kate heads through. Leopold follows banging painfully into the bar. A NUN hurriedly bumps into him from behind.
He tries pushing the bar but it doesn't budge. He turns around to step out of line but it is already too long. He stands NOSE to NOSE with the nun.

LEOPOLD
I can't seem to...

NUN (impatiently)
Oh, for heaven's sake...
The nun deposits her token and SQUEEZES them both through as the train arrives at a deafening pitch, startling Leopold.

He spots Kate entering the train and jumps into the car in the nick of time. The train departs, Leopold pressed awkwardly against the glass.

EXT. N.Y.C. STREET - EARLY EVENING

Kate races from the subway station, entering the Arthur Murray Dance Studio. Leopold, thoroughly disheveled, follows at a distance.

INT. DANCE STUDIO - EVENING

Elderly Blue haired couples chat amongst themselves, men on the right, women on the left. Kate, in dance clothes, out of breath, stumbles in, making a b-line for the women's side.

MRS. PINCUS

I was worried. I thought you weren't going to make it.

KATE

(smiling happily)

Miss my lesson? This is the only thing I have to look forward to all week. Is that a new dress Mrs. Pincus?

Mrs. Pincus executes a fancy spin, proudly showing off her purchase. Across the room, MR. Pincus beams in anticipation.

An elderly, overly made up dance instructor enters. She claps her hands together loudly.

INSTRUCTOR

All right, kids. Pair up!
The men slick back their hair. The women straighten their gowns. Kate stands to the side, self-consciously studying the floor.

The men take their places on the dance floor. They flick their hand twice, inviting their women to dance. Coolly, elegantly, the women approach their partners. After a while Kate looks up, relieved. She stands alone. Ballroom music plays.

The couples effortlessly shift between steps and turns. Kate dances with an imaginary partner, stumbling, more than a beat behind, counting, animated, a concentrated YEARNING look spread across her face.

The instructor approaches with a look of resignation.

INSTRUCTOR
Don't think so much, Katie. FEEL the music.

KATE
(sweating)
I am!

INSTRUCTOR
Dancing should not be work. It should be a vacation the body takes from the mind. Let the music wash over you.

KATE
(frustrated)
It is!

INSTRUCTOR
Repeat after me: I've got the muusic in me.

KATE
I've got the muusic in me.

INSTRUCTOR & KATE
(overlapping)
I've got the muusic in me!

INSTRUCTOR
Keep telling yourself that.

Kate does. Her instructor shakes her head and moves away.

Across the room, through the window, Leopold watches, moved.

LEOPOLD'S P.O.V. -- Over the music, beyond the swirling couples, Kate remains in the corner, dancing with her imaginary partner, fighting valiantly for the right steps, muttering to herself, dancing alone.

INT. LAB - MORNING

Dr. Kau SLAMS a large book on Dr. Plodder's desk startling him.

DR. KAU
I've located her.

DR. PLODDER
You didn't! Is she all right?

DR. KAU
No. She's really not.

Photograph of a SWEATSHOP 1896. The conditions are APPALLING. Positioned among the workers, Julia Carlson, thin, ragged, worn out, stares helplessly into the camera.

DR. KAU
It was taken a year after she arrived. Look at her face! We have to get her back.

DR. PLODDER
Christine, this morning I spoke with the head of funding. They're talking about canceling the project.

DR. KAU
What?! They can't do that!

DR. PLODDER
There's still time. Nothing has happened yet that can't be undone. We'll get her back. We'll put this behind us and we'll get her back.

The doctors stare at the photograph. Powerless.

CUT TO:

INT. CHARLIE'S STUDIO - DAY

Charlie and Leopold work at their easels. Leopold sighs HEAVILY.

CHARLIE
Is there something on your mind?

There is a pause.

LEOPOLD
This is rather difficult for me.

CHARLIE
...Uh huh...?

LEOPOLD
I have been in the salon contemplating the reception I have received by the various tradesmen I have visited. I've determined I am lacking the dexterity of modern intercourse.

CHARLIE
Of what??

LEOPOLD
Social skills.

CHARLIE
Oh.

LEOPOLD
I realize our association has been rather distant and I bear you no ill will.

CHARLIE
You can imagine my relief.

LEOPOLD
The fact is... I need help.
CHARLIE
Why not ask Kate?

LEOPOLD
I would appreciate the masculine point of view.

CHARLIE
Why not ask Kate?... That was a joke.

Leopold looks worried. Charlie puts down his brush.

CHARLIE
Well? Let's see... I guess we could start by removing that great big stick from up your... Let's start with your walk.

LEOPOLD
My walk?

CHARLIE
You don't walk right.
   (gently)
You strut.

LEOPOLD
(very defensive) STRUT?

CHARLIE
Strut strut strut. You walk into the bathroom it's like I'm watching a parade. Walk across the room.

LEOPOLD
I will not.

CHARLIE
I know you won't. You'll STRUT. You asked for my help. Trust me on this.

As Leopold struts across the room Charlie shakes his head and spontaneously begins to hum Sousa's Stars and Stripes song. Leopold becomes more and more agitated. As the crescendos:

LEOPOLD
That's enough! Really! You walk.

Charlie hops up, casually walks around the room and begins to hum a more relaxed version of Stars and Stripes.

CHARLIE
(between choruses)

Leopold begins humming the more casual version of the song and mimics Charlie.

CHARLIE
That's better. Now, try to enjoy your walk. It's a beautiful day. The sun is shining, the peasants are singing.

INT. LIVING ROOM - DAY

VOICE OVER: Charlie and Leopold joyously singing The Stars and Stripes. As the song builds:

Charlie enters leading Leopold throughout the room.

Leopold matches Charlie EXACTLY step by step so tightly they appear to be one person marching happily about.

CUT TO:

EXT. N.Y.C. - DAY

Chinatown, Little Italy, chess in Washington Square Park.

Leopold and Charlie explore the city. Leopold works diligently on his walk. A beautiful woman walks by in a revealing outfit. Charlie catches Leopold watching her and smiles broadly.

CHARLIE Interesting?

CHARLIE
What the hell is that?

LEOPOLD
What?

CHARLIE
Leopold, are you wearing a corset?

LEOPOLD
Naturally.

Cracking up, Charlie good-naturedly puts an arm around Leopold's shoulder. Leopold attempts the same pulls away.

INT. BLOCKBUSTER RECORDS - NIGHT

With a headset on, Charlie listens to music. Leopold watches.

CHARLIE
What'd ya say was the name of this number?

LEOPOLD
Tchaikovsky. Waltz of the Flowers.

CHARLIE
(deadpan) Pretty.

Charlie stops the music and places a headset over Leopold's ears. Leopold watches calmly. Charlie selects a song. Instantly, Leopold's shoulders rise up to his ears. His mouth opens wide.

CHARLIE
Megadeath. High Speed Dirt.

After a bit, Charlie turns the music off. Leopold's shoulders go down but his mouth stays wide open. Astonished.

EXT. CENTRAL PARK - DAY
Charlie and Leopold walk through the park. A rubber softball hits Leopold squarely on the head.

LEOPOLD
What in the world...?

A couple race over. The man is BLACK. The woman is WHITE. Their child, ELIZABETH, 7, follows wide eyed and apprehensive.

MAN
Sorry! We're so sorry. Are you hurt?

WOMAN
She's another Babe Ruth. We had no idea. Are you okay?

Leopold regards them curiously.

WOMAN
What do you have to say for yourself, Elizabeth?

ELIZABETH
I'm sorry!

Leopold stares hard at the modern familial scene. He doesn't speak. After a long moment:

LEOPOLD
Is this your child?

MAN
Yes.

Charlie braces for the worst. The little girl stares at Leopold.

LEOPOLD
I see.

WOMAN
C'mon honey, lets go.

ELIZABETH
I want my ball.

LEOPOLD
Just a moment!
(bending down to Elizabeth, firmly)
Pick a hand.

She picks his right hand. Nothing. She picks his left. Nothing. Leopold looks surprised then pulls the ball from his ear. She takes the ball and smiles at him.

LEOPOLD
My mother's name was Elizabeth.
(then to her parents)
She's a beautiful child. You're very lucky.

MAN
What do you say, Elizabeth?

Elizabeth makes an embarrassed face.

MAN
Thank you.

Charlie and Leopold continue through the park, Leopold lost in thought. Charlie watches him in surprise. They walk on.

INT. DINING ROOM - NIGHT

Leopold talks animatedly. On the table -- Pumpkin pies, pizza pies, and pot pies.

LEOPOLD
I understand pumpkin pies, pizza pies, and pot pies. But I wish someone would explain Eskimo pies.

He eats a large spoonful of pudding. Kate and Charlie exchange a worried look.

LEOPOLD
You smoke Camel's, you wear Old Spices, and you drink Mountains Dew. It's revolting.
(to Kate)
The pudding tonight is excellent. Another thing I've noticed, everyone is in a great rush today. Instant
Oatmeal, Instant Coffee, Speed Stick, Minute Maid. You'll find there's much to be said for moderation and languor.

He eats another spoonful.

LEOPOLD
Mmmm. Is it tapioca?

KATE
It's margarine.

LEOPOLD
(taking the spoon out of his mouth)
It's marvelous.

CHARLIE
Well, I'm off.

KATE
Me too. Work to do. Where are you going?

CHARLIE
I'm meeting everyone over at Caffeine. It's this coffee house we go to.

KATE
Say hello to Dennis for me.

LEOPOLD
Who is that?

CHARLIE
Dennis is this really good looking friend of mine who doesn't know Kate's alive because SHE doesn't know how to flirt.

KATE
As a rule I don't like to associate with really good looking people. It makes me feel really... I don't know... Smart. But Dennis is a nice guy.

CHARLIE
And he always picks up the check.
Sounds enjoyable. I shall join you.

CHARLIE What?

KATE
That's a wonderful idea! Leopold mentioned how he wanted to meet...
People of quality was it?

CHARLIE Ahhhh?

LEOPOLD
If you'd rather I didn't go...

KATE
Nonsense! Charlie, you don't want to hurt Leopold's feelings. He's going to think you don't want him to go.

CHARLIE
Oh it's not that. It's just that it's sort of a vulgar crowd, is all.
I'm not sure you'd have such a good time.

LEOPOLD
A little ribald humor? I'm not as big a stick in the mud as you might think! I'd enjoy a gay night out, kicking up my heels.

There is an awkward pause. Leopold is so enthusiastic and sincere that despite a feeling of disaster Charlie relents.

CHARLIE
Finish off your Parquet and we'll go.

Charlie gives Kate a look of death as we:

CUT TO:

EXT. CAFFEINE - NIGHT

Charlie and Leopold approach Caffeine, a trendy coffee house.

Charlie looks in the window.
CHARLIE
There they all are. Now one more thing. Throw the words "like" and "you know" into a sentence whenever possible. It's how people talk today.

LEOPOLD
Proper speech does not cease to exist simply because it is ignored.

CHARLIE
Please?

LEOPOLD
Charles, you needn't fret. I have the walk down pat. I will not give myself away. Like.

CHARLIE
(looking in the window)
Oh shit!
(correcting himself) Shoot.

LEOPOLD
What is it?

CHARLIE
Patrice. See that girl? The blonde one? She's so inconceivably hot.

INT. CAFFEINE - NIGHT
Patrice, a tall blonde sits at a large round table, talking.
She is very beautiful.

EXT. CAFFEINE - NIGHT

LEOPOLD
She's very pretty.

CHARLIE
She's mine.

LEOPOLD
Congratulations.

CHARLIE
Ok not exactly mine. But I saw her first.
LEOPOLD
I understand.

CHARLIE
Okay. I guess we should go in. I don't suppose we could tell everyone you don't speak English?

LEOPOLD
Of course not. Let's go inside.

Leopold walks his casual walk inside, followed by a very reluctant Charlie.

INT. CAFFEINE - NIGHT

Charlie's friends are sitting at a table talking. They are a relaxed and friendly group. Charlie and Leopold approach.

ALL
(ad lib greetings)
Charlie! Where've you been? etc.

CHARLIE
Hi. Uh everyone, this is my friend, Leo.

BILL Hey.

LEOPOLD Hey.

DENNIS Waz up?

LEOPOLD
Waz up?

PATRICE
How are ya?

LEOPOLD
How are ya?

CHARLIE
(after a beat)
Leo's staying with us for a while.
Charlie pulls out a chair for Leopold but Leopold sits next to Patrice instead. Patrice takes out her cigarettes.

LEOPOLD

May I?

PATRICE

Help yourself.

Leopold takes a cigarette, lights one for Patrice, then his own.

LEOPOLD

Thank you, my dear.

CHARLIE

(at a loss)

Um?...

(all look at Charlie)

...I have nothing to say.

LEOPOLD

You did not tell the truth about Patrice, Charles.

DENNIS AND BILL

CHARLES??

CHARLIE

What did I tell you, LEO?

LEOPOLD

He informed me you were inconceivably HOT, but I think you're lovely. Exceptionally lovely.

PATRICE

Thank you, Leo.

CHARLIE

(to the waitress)

Check please.

INT. SUBWAY - NIGHT

The subway car is inhabited solely by Leopold, Charlie, and the oldest Ukrainian woman in New York City. Despite fact that the train is empty, they are all seated on the same bench.

Charlie stares straight ahead refusing to even look at Leopold. The Ukrainian woman hangs on every word.

CHARLIE

Just drop it Leopold.

LEOPOLD

But Charles, it is so ridiculous. I am not interested in her.

CHARLIE

Hah!

LEOPOLD

In any case the problem is not with me but with you.

(quietly)

You have no idea what it takes to go about courting a woman. From what I've witnessed tonight, it is symptomatic of your entire generation.

CHARLIE

(almost speechless)

You are some piece of work, Leopold.

LEOPOLD

Now I do not wish to get personal...

Charlie bursts into ironic laughter and looks at the old woman. She rolls her eyes.

LEOPOLD

But you have been of great assistance to me and I feel this is one area where I can be of some real help.

CHARLIE

I'm fascinated. Go on.

LEOPOLD

Now, why was I successful with this young lady and why did you so miserably fail?

CHARLIE

What makes you think she likes you?
LEOPOLD
Well she gave me the number of her telephone and I assumed it meant...

CHARLIE Go on.

LEOPOLD
As I see it, the girl hasn't an inkling of your intentions. And it's no wonder. You, Charles, are a Merry Andrew.

CHARLIE
A what?

LEOPOLD
A Merry Andrew.

CHARLIE
I am not!!

LEOPOLD
Everything plays like a farce to you. The more wit, the less courage. I believe the modern woman desires passion, protection, sensitivity. No woman wants to be romanced by a buffoon.

   (the old woman shakes her head)

Banter and repartee are fine but you must add to that a different sort of playfulness.

CHARLIE
You think I should pounce?

LEOPOLD
I'm saying you must treat her with respect. Any oaf can attempt a crude pass. A woman of Kate's stature would never respond to an artificial tactic.

CHARLIE
Kate?

LEOPOLD What?

CHARLIE
You said Kate.

LEOPOLD
I did not.

CHARLIE
Yes you did. Didn't he say Kate?

The old woman nods.

LEOPOLD
We are discussing your problem.

CHARLIE
Not anymore. You like my sister.

LEOPOLD Charles...

CHARLIE
She has trouble with men, you know.

LEOPOLD
Perhaps she has not met the right one.

CHARLIE
She has met the right one. HUNDREDS of times. But she pulls back. She cuts herself off. You turn around and suddenly you're dating a Sphinx.

LEOPOLD
One never can tell.

CHARLIE
Does Kate know how you feel?

LEOPOLD
No...

CHARLIE
Have you made your intentions known to her?

LEOPOLD
No...

CHARLIE
Who's the Merry Andrew now?! I think you're all talk and no action. What are you waiting for?
LEOPOLD
I do not know if there is a future in it.

CHARLIE
Well Leopold, no one ever does...

CUT TO:

INT. LEOPOLD'S BEDROOM - NIGHT

Kate enters with an arm load of Leopold's discarded clothes.
She drops them on his bed and begins to hang them in his closet.

A notebook falls from his pants pocket. She puts it on the bureau. A beat. She quickly picks it up, sits on the edge of the bed and starts to read.

KATE
(reading out loud)
Royal family -- Uncouth. Making Out -- slow soulful kissing... Woman as equals??

She flips a page.

KATE
Who drove the Chevy to the levy and why was it dry?

Kate smiles. She flips the page.

KATE
Eyes shine when she talks about... science. Raises her voice when she knows she's wrong. BOSSY, BOSSY, BOSSY. Lose my train of thought when I see her smile. Most beautiful when she's angry. Honorable heart... Peasant feet.

The front door is heard slamming. Kate, alarmed, stuffs the notebook back in Leopold's pocket. She races to the door; glances back at the notebook, turns off the light and scurries from the room.

INT. HALLWAY - LATER THAT NIGHT

The corridor is darkly lit. Kate leaves the bathroom as Leopold enters. They collide and separate but remain close together. Both are dressed in pajamas and speak softly.

KATE
Ooops. Bread and butter.

LEOPOLD
What's that?

KATE
Bread and butter. It's an old saying... Well not to you I guess.
You say it when you pass someone in a cramped space. As close as bread and butter.

LEOPOLD
I see.

KATE
So. Did you have a good time last night?

LEOPOLD
It was very interesting.

KATE
Did you find that person of quality?

Leopold looks at her a moment.

LEOPOLD
Yes. I did.

KATE
Well... fine.
   (there is a pause)
I guess it's time to turn in.

LEOPOLD
Yes.

KATE
Goodnight.
She reaches her door. Leopold stops her.

LEOPOLD

Kate?

She turns. Leopold grasps for the words but the habit of inaction returns.

LEOPOLD

Goodnight.

(he slowly closes the door)

INT. PATRICE'S APARTMENT BUILDING - DAY

Charlie stands at Patrice's door with a large painting. He looks over at Leopold hiding the next doorway over. Charlie knocks. She opens the door.

CHARLIE

Hi. I brought you some flowers.

He hands her the flower filled painting.

PATRICE

Charlie!

CHARLIE

Miss Wochuchowski? I was wondering if you would do me the great honor of accompanying me to the cinema tonight. And allowing me the privilege of escorting you to dinner afterwards.

Patrice shyly studies the painting.

PATRICE

It's beautiful.

Charlie quickly looks at Leopold pleadingly. He really does not want to say this next part. Leopold, however, is adamant.

CHARLIE

(deadpan)

Gracing me with your conversation and company would mean the world to
There is a long pause. Patrice watches Charlie in disbelief.

PATRICE
Um... 7:00?

CHARLIE
7:00 is fine. I'll call for you then.

They smile at each other for a long moment.

LEOPOLD
(silently mouthing)
Goodbye.

CHARLIE
Goodbye.
(she closes the door)
It worked!

LEOPOLD
Of course it did.

CHARLIE
Leopold, I... I'm... I have no idea what to do next!

LEOPOLD
Charles. Leave everything to me.

CHARLIE
Not so fast, buddy. You're next.

INT. LIVING ROOM - DAY

Kate is by the bookshelf gathering reference books on time and space. Leopold enters. He is suddenly embarrassed doesn't know how to proceed.

LEOPOLD
Good morning.

KATE
Good morning. You're up early.

She moves to her computer on the other side of the room.
Leopold follows. Before she can sit down, Leopold pulls out her chair. She falls to the ground. He rushes to her immediately.

LEOPOLD
I'm terribly sorry!!

KATE
Happens all the time...

She opens a reference book and slowly begins typing at her computer. There is a pause.

LEOPOLD
Dr. Coles?... ah, Kate? I was wondering...

She stops working and looks at Leopold.

LEOPOLD
What it is you're working on.

KATE
Oh. It's my computer.

She resumes her work.

LEOPOLD
I see. Actually I meant the work itself.

KATE
I'm researching the correlations between your time and the present.

Leopold stares blankly.

KATE
I'm TRYING to get you home, Leopold.

LEOPOLD
Oh.

Charlie peaks in, signaling Leopold, spurring him on.

LEOPOLD
I have never seen a woman work as diligently and extensively before.
KATE
It's made me the man I am today.

LEOPOLD
It's quite a beautiful day, have you noticed? Perhaps you would permit yourself some time off and grant me the privilege of escorting you around the city this fine Spring afternoon.

KATE
Oh, I'd love to but I can't. I've got too much work to do. Ask Charlie though. He'll go with you.

LEOPOLD
I'm afraid it really wouldn't be the same. It is YOUR company I am seeking.

Surprised, Kate turns around and looks at Leopold.

KATE
(gently)
Oh, Leopold. I'm so sorry. I can't.

LEOPOLD
I see. Some other time then.

KATE
Yes... Thank you.

Leopold sits at the far end of the room. Kate takes a moment then resumes typing. She STOPS and sits back in her chair. After a long moment, she subtly unplugs the computer with her foot and starts banging on the top of it.

KATE
Oh for crying out loud. Would you look at this? Leopold? The computer's on the blink again.
   (she bangs harder)
Cheap piece of equipment. I can't...

LEOPOLD
Maybe if you...

KATE
NO, no, it does this all the time. Just have to wait it out.
LEOPOLD

I see.

KATE

Darn.

LEOPOLD

...Perhaps it is a sign?

KATE

Oh, you think?
    (she smiles at Leopold)

EXT. CENTRAL PARK - DAY

Leopold trots his horse expertly along the horse path. Kate follows, clutching the horses neck, bouncing like a clown.

KATE

I... I must have gotten a funny horse...

Leopold turns and rides around Kate.

LEOPOLD

Allow me.

EXT. CENTRAL PARK - DAY

Holding the reins of Kate's horse in one hand, Leopold grasps Kate's waist with the other as they ride a single horse through the greenery of Central Park.

EXT. MOVIE THEATRE - THE THALIA - DAY

A revival house. On the Marquee: "The Tenuous Duke" starring Ronald Coleman.

INT. MOVIE THEATER - DAY

Kate and Leopold eat popcorn, Milk Duds, M & M's, and large drinks. The lights go down and the movie begins.
The enormity of the medium strikes Leopold at once. He involuntarily leans back in his chair grabbing Kate's shoulder, watching attentively. After a bit:

LEOPOLD

Is that supposed to be my hair? Do you see how they think my hair looks?

Kate looks over at Leopold and nods. Through his eyes, she too experiences movies for the first time. She moves close to him.

EXT. N.Y.C. - DAY

EXT. METROPOLITAN MUSEUM - DAY

Kate and Leopold bound up the steps, entering the museum.

INT. MUSEUM - DAY

Modern art exhibit. Leopold stares blankly at an empty white canvas. He turns to Kate questioningly.

KATE

Leopold eyes the painting skeptically. They move to the next object d'art. A toilet.

LEOPOLD

Aaand this represents...?

They burst into giddy laughter.

KATE

Absolutely nothing.
They round the corner, moving to the next room.

Leopold's smile fades.

CLOSE UP: A painting of privileged Victorian society.

Shaken, he gazes at a painting in a dream-like state.

LEOPOLD
(very quietly)
I'd almost forgotten how beautiful it was. Truly. Beautiful.

Kate smiles sadly at Leopold. They slowly walk out.

INT. LIVING ROOM - NIGHT

We hear keys in the lock and laughter outside as Kate and Leopold enter.

LEOPOLD
(laughing)
M & M's, CBS, FBI.

KATE
VIP, VHS, VCR.

They collapse on the couch.

LEOPOLD
Ah, JFK, PDQ, XYZ.

KATE
I don't know. K.D. Lang.

LEOPOLD
I don't know how you keep up with it. I'm exhausted.

KATE
So am I.

LEOPOLD
I'll tell you what. Why don't I prepare dinner tomorrow night? I never have before. I mean even before I hit town. "Hit town" How's that? I can't imagine what it'll taste like, but I don't think it will be any worse than your cooking.
KATE
Leopold, I have a date tomorrow night.

LEOPOLD
I see.

KATE
A blind date.

LEOPOLD
Oh, I'm so sorry.

KATE
No, that just means I haven't met him before. It was set up through friends.

LEOPOLD Ah!

KATE
A hazard of single life... I'm turning in.

Kate gets up. Leopold automatically stands.

LEOPOLD
Another time then.

KATE
I'm sorry.

LEOPOLD
It's quite all right.

As she gets to the door, she stops.

KATE
Leopold? I had a wonderful time today. I can't remember the last time I took the day off and just played. I'd forgotten how beautiful this city can be... I want to thank you for that.

LEOPOLD
The pleasure was mine.

Kate smiles at Leopold and goes out.

INT. LIVING ROOM - NIGHT
Charlie, in a tie, is standing with Leopold at the dining room table. Kate wearing too much makeup for her date, runs into the bathroom in a BRIGHT RED DRESS.

CHARLIE
It's a very fancy restaurant, Leopold. Are you sure you can teach me everything there is to know?

KATE
(from the bathroom)
Just don't swipe the silverware and give yourself away.

CHARLIE
Nobody's talking to you.

LEOPOLD
It is very simple. I will be your date. Just behave as you normally would and I'll correct you along the way. Now, escort me in.

Charlie and Leopold move across the room. After a beat, Charlie magnanimously gestures for Leopold to go first. Leopold gives his approval. Kate rushes out of the bathroom in a tight BLACK dress.

CHARLIE
Now what?

Leopold takes a cloth napkin, hits Charlie upside the head. Hard.

LEOPOLD
Pull the chair for a lady! Clod.

KATE (V.O.)
No name calling.

LEOPOLD
(to Kate)
Well, really!
Charlie stands up and pulls out the chair. As Leopold sits, Charlie pushes the chair in to hard.

LEOPOLD
You're not shoveling coal into a furnace, Charles. Glide the chair in gently. Gently. Try it again.

Charlie gently glides Leopold to the table. He remains standing, not sure what to do next.

LEOPOLD
Well, sit down!

CHARLIE
Now don't burst a vein or anything, but there are quite a few knives and forks here. How do I know what each one's for?

LEOPOLD
Merely start from the outside and work your way in.

CHARLIE
What kind of beer should I order?

LEOPOLD
Beer!

CHARLIE
I WAS KIDDING!

KATE
How do I look?

Leopold and Charlie stand. Kate poses in the gown picked out by Leopold. Leopold smiles brightly.

LEOPOLD
You look exquisite, Katherine.

KATE
(almost sadly)
Thank you, Leopold.

She looks at Leopold not knowing what to say. Finally

CHARLIE
This is a tie I'm wearing.
KATE
You look very nice, Charlie.

CHARLIE
Yes. I know.

The doorbell rings.

KATE
That must be him.

LEOPOLD
Your bland date?

KATE
Blind date.

CHARLIE
Remember to breathe, Kate. And don't use to many big words. You'll scare the poor slob away.

KATE
(moving to the door)
This is always the scary part.
(she sings)
"Open the door to my, Mystery Date."

She opens the door and looks straight up. Leopold and peer in closer to get a better look. In the doorway stands LARRY, great looking, very tall, a winner.

LARRY
Hi. Kate?

KATE
Larry?

Kate turns back to the others with a frozen smile.

KATE
Well, I'm off.

LEOPOLD
(giving Larry the once over)
Kate, may I have a word with you?

KATE
Now?

LEOPOLD
Yes.
(as they cross the room)
I DON'T like the look of him.

KATE
What are you talking about?

LEOPOLD
Cad. I can spot one a mile away.
(he helps her with her coat)
I shall escort you out myself. I will act as your chaperone.

KATE
That isn't necessary. I'll be fine.

LEOPOLD
It is no trouble.

KATE
Goodnight, Leopold.

LEOPOLD
But...

KATE
Goodnight.

She is gone. Leopold stares after her, dejected.

INT. SPORTS BAR - NIGHT
Kate and Larry are led to their table. Larry sits down. Kate remains standing.

LARRY (friendly) Sit down.

KATE
(sighs)
Thank you.
(she sits)

LARRY
So. How am I doing?
KATE
I beg your pardon?

LARRY
How am I doing? First date. You pleased? You disappointed?

KATE Undecided.

LARRY
I see.

He snaps his fingers to get the waiter's attention startling Kate. She laughs nervously.

LARRY
So. What did Jeannie say about me?

KATE
About you? Ah, she said you were tall.

LARRY 6'3.

KATE
And nice looking.

LARRY
Thank you.

KATE
Thank her. And that you persevere ardently on Wall Street.

LARRY
Well, I work there...

KATE
(after a beat)
That must be very interesting.

LARRY
(laughing)
You've obviously never worked on Wall Street.

KATE
(laughing along for the hell of it)
No.

Their laughter subsides. After a beat:

LARRY
What else did Jeannie say about me?

INT. THE FOUR SEASONS - NIGHT

The Maitre d' of this very fancy restaurant shows and Patrice to their seats. Charlie motions Patrice to first just as Leopold has instructed.

The Maitre de pulls out Patrice's chair. Charlie gives him a look to back off. Charlie effortlessly glides Patrice to the table and takes his seat.

PATRICE
Have I told you how much I liked your painting?

CHARLIE
(beaming) Twice.

PATRICE
If you get tired of hearing about it, let me know. I have to admit I was sort of surprised when you called. I didn't think you liked me, Charlie.

CHARLIE
When I first saw you, I thought...

(he makes his jaw drop down to the floor)

PATRICE
What do you think now?

Charlie smiles and places her hand over his heart. Then he makes his jaw drop again. Patrice laughs happily.

INT. SPORTS BAR - NIGHT
Kate and Larry are eating their dinner.
KATE
Aaand that's about all Jeannie said.
What did Jeannie say about me?

LARRY
(smiling)
She said you were enormously sexy, had a great body, but you don't put out.

KATE
Quite a compelling portrait.

LARRY
(turning on the charm)
Would you say it's an accurate portrait?

KATE
(leaning into Larry)
A masterpiece.

INT. LIVING ROOM - NIGHT

Leopold slowly carries a dinner tray to the dining table. He moves to the window and looks out. After a while he pours a glass of wine.

INT. SPORTS BAR - NIGHT

As they eat their dinner Larry drones on.

LARRY
So this guy wants to invest $50,000 in a stock that's no good. Here's what I do...

Kate stares absentmindedly at Larry, her mind somewhere else. She looks down at the fork in her hand. She switches to the proper one, reflecting on Leopold's etiquette. She notices her napkin lying flat on the table. She reaches for it.

INT. LIVING ROOM - NIGHT

Leopold unfolds his napkin and puts it on his lap. He begins

INT. SPORTS BAR - NIGHT

Kate places the napkin on her lap. She stares at it a long while. Finally she looks up at Larry.

EXTREME CLOSE UP OF LARRY

LARRY
I'm telling you the guy was a DICK! A total ASSHOLE!

KATE
(jarred awake)
Who?

LARRY
Jeff Murray. The guy I've been talking about. Hello?

KATE
(realizing her feelings for Leopold, smiling radiantly at Larry)
Goodbye.

Then as she leaves, a parting shot.

KATE
Don't get up.

INT. LIVING ROOM - NIGHT

Sound of keys in the lock, then Kate bursts through the door.

KATE
Leopold?

The living room is dark and empty. She goes through the living room, past the hallway, into the bedroom.

KATE
Leopold?

His bedroom is empty. He is not there.

KATE
Oh, Leopold...
She runs into Charlie's studio and stops short.

Next to Charlie's stern paintings, Leopold's portrait of Kate shines in the moonlight. She wears an antique dress. She is lovely. Kate sees herself as Leopold sees her and is touched. She turns and collides head on with Leopold.

KATE

Oh!

LEOPOLD

Bread and butter.

He is wearing gloves and an apron. He rubs his bruised head, inadvertently leaving a trail of suds along his face.

LEOPOLD

You're back early. Did you enjoy your date?

KATE

(happily)

No.

She moves in close, trying to remove the soap from his face.

KATE

Here, you've got some...

He wipes his face making it much worse.

LEOPOLD

Is it gone?

KATE

(laughing)

No.

She uses the apron to wipe away the soap. They gaze at each other and become serious.

KATE

(softly)

A funny thing happened to me on my bland date this evening, Leopold. I really can't explain it. This puffed-up, puritanical, blundering, greenhorn kept popping into my mind all night long at the most inopportune times. I couldn't get rid of him.

LEOPOLD
How inconsiderate.

KATE
Yeah, it was. The harder I tried, the more persistent he became. He's conceited and inflated and unseasoned and it doesn't seem to matter... He's 134 years old but I can't get him out of my head.

LEOPOLD
Is he there right now?

KATE
Right here. Larger than life.

LEOPOLD
I'll protect you...

They kiss. A long romantic passionate kiss.

LEOPOLD
Dr. Coles, would you grant me license to dine with you tomorrow evening at eight o'clock?

KATE
Permission granted.

LEOPOLD
Until tomorrow, then.

They separate. A beat. Leopold gestures for Kate to go first. They head down the hallway together into their separate rooms.

INT. LIVING ROOM - NIGHT

The table clock chimes eight times. Leopold enters from the kitchen dressed perfectly in the most UP TO DATE style. He carries a casserole dish.
A second later Kate enters from the hallway. She is wearing an OLD FASHIONED, ANTIQUE DRESS. She looks lovely.

LEOPOLD
(a little startled)
You look beautiful.

KATE
YOU do. What have you got there?

Leopold opens the casserole dish.

KATE
Hamburger Helper!

LEOPOLD
I know you like it.

Kate smiles. She looks behind him into the kitchen. A COLOSSAL MESS. Leopold lights the candles and pulls out her chair. This time she's prepared. He slides her chair to the table.

INT. LIVING ROOM, LATER THAT NIGHT

The candles have burned down, casting a romantic glow throughout the apartment. Louis Armstrong's "What a Wonderful World" plays. Kate and Leopold sit on the couch sipping wine.

LEOPOLD
Tell me more.

KATE
Um, where was I? So after my father died I had to go to work.

LEOPOLD
Have you had many jobs?

KATE
Many. I got fired from all of them. I'm the most unskilled person I know. But they were just survival jobs while I was still in school. I always knew I wanted to go into science like my father. And I did.
LEOPOLD
Do you miss him?

KATE
I think about him every day. He was courtly, just like you.

LEOPOLD
I think you are a remarkable woman Katherine Coles.

KATE
You just don't get out much. You'd be surprised how remarkable I'm not.

LEOPOLD
No, it is you who would be surprised.

They kiss. Anxiously they stare into each other's eyes.
They kiss again. Slowly, Kate leads him to her bedroom door.
They look at each other, deciding.
Deliberately, cautiously, Kate opens the door.

LEOPOLD
Kate...

Kate puts her fingers over Leopold's lips. Gently she leads him inside. They slowly embrace as the door closes.

INT. BEDROOM - THE NEXT MORNING

Sunlight floods the room. Clothes are scattered about.
Two figures lie curled up together sleeping in bed. One of the figures rolls around. The covers are pulled back revealing:

CHARLIE
Good morning.

PATRICE Morning.

They kiss.

CUT TO:
INT. LIVING ROOM - MORNING

Leopold wearing a bathrobe is pouring coffee. The table is set for a huge breakfast. Kate also in a robe enters the hallway. There is a moment of awkwardness as they see each other for the first time.

  KATE Morning.

  LEOPOLD
  Good morning.

They kiss shyly. Kate notices the feast.

  KATE
  Look what you've done!

  LEOPOLD
  It's nothing.

  KATE
  Nothing? My own mother never made me a breakfast like this.

  LEOPOLD
  I will have to have a talk with her.

  KATE
  Leopold...

  LEOPOLD
  Kate...

  KATE
  About last night...

  LEOPOLD
  Please sit down.

He pulls out a chair for her and kneels beside her.

  LEOPOLD
  Kate, I had never before been a considerate man. I had, with astonishing complacency, squandered my life, waiting for some incentive to force me into action. You have made me see how rare our time here really is. I am most beholden to you Kate. And always will be.

KATE
I sense the word "BUT" entering into this any minute now.

Leopold takes her hands in his. She looks at him defensively, bracing for worst.

LEOPOLD
Do me the honor Katherine, of becoming my wife.

Kate lets out a very girlish, high pitched scream

LEOPOLD
Shall I take that as a "yes"?

KATE
Leopold! Did you just ask me to marry you?

LEOPOLD
I love you, Kate.

KATE
That's entirely beside the point... You're moving way too fast here. Shouldn't we date first? I mean it's obvious the first one went well...

LEOPOLD
Where I come from that's pretty much the way it works.

KATE
Leopold, even though last night we... loved each other, that doesn't mean this morning we're engaged. It just doesn't work that way now.

LEOPOLD
(taking a ring off his fingers and placing it on hers)
I have loved you since I first set eyes on you. I cannot imagine my life without you beside me. I want to marry you, Kate and make an honest woman of you.

KATE
Oh Leopold, sit down.

They switch places. Leopold sits and Kate kneels beside him.

KATE
Relationships these days are much more complicated than that. Women today have certain freedoms that men have been taking advantage of for centuries. You must have been aware of that. If you think about it clearly, it should be obvious to you that marriage between us is out of the question.

LEOPOLD
Do you not love me Kate?

KATE
(almost inaudible)
Don't ever think that...

LEOPOLD
Then consider my proposal.

KATE
I'll think it over but I can tell you now the answer is...

He kisses her. It's impressive.

KATE (out of breath)
Possibly.

LEOPOLD
(a knowing smile)
I need you beside me. I will not give up easily.

KATE
(smiling)
Do what you have to do...

Charlie enters. Kate and Leopold become extremely selfconscious.

CHARLIE
Morning.

LEOPOLD AND KATE
(too casual and too chipper)
Morning!

Charlie is immediately aware that something is not quite right. He studies the two of them and nonchalantly sits at the table. Kate and Leopold serve themselves breakfast.

LEOPOLD
(to Kate)
Coffee?

Kate nods. As Leopold pours, they look at each other shyly.

CHARLIE
(after a pause)
I would like some coffee.

KATE
Of course. Say when.

She pours Charlie's coffee until it overflows.

CHARLIE
(deadpan)
When.

KATE
Sorry.

As Kate wipes up the table, Charlie notices her ring. He eyes Leopold suspiciously. Leopold concentrates on his plate.

Charlie gives Kate a questioning glance. She smiles at him, looking both innocent and guilty at the same time.

After a beat:

CHARLIE
Uh huh.

All smile privately and sip their coffee without Buried behind open books and crumpled up paper, Kate labors in earnest.

She stops suddenly, almost violently, and studies the notes in front of her. The coffee cup falls from her hand and breaks.

DR. KAY
(calling from her office)
Kate, are you all right?

KATE
Fine! I'm fine.

She covers her papers and self consciously cleans up her mess. She sits down slowly and peeks at her notes. She has SOLVED THE PUZZLE that will send Leopold back.

She looks up in disbelief and glances through her window around the lab. Everyone is hard at work. Helplessly, she stares back at the paper on her desk.

She pulls open her drawer and takes out the picture of Carlson. She stares at it for a long time. She opens her mouth to call for the others, stops, and looks at the paper.

Slowly, with great indecision, Kate crumples up the moment, miles away.

INT. KATE'S BEDROOM - NIGHT
Leopold and Kate sit on her bed watching David Lettering. Kate clutches her pillow close to her. She looks over at Leopold concentrating on the TV with furrowed brow. She smiles sadly. She takes her pillow and flings it off her bed. She snuggles up to Leopold. They watch TV. Together.

EXT. N.Y.C. - DAY

INT. RESTAURANT - DAY

Leopold and Kate eat lunch. Leopold scans a newspaper. On the TV over the bar, Bob Dole is speaking out against gun control.

LEOPOLD

Public office is apparently still the last refuge for the incompetent. Show me a man who does not want his gun registered and I'll show you a man who should not own a gun. What is a pee-pee girl?

KATE

What are you reading?

LEOPOLD

The Village Voice. After much consideration, I have decided it is time I join the work force.

KATE

As a pee-pee girl?

LEOPOLD

Perhaps not that, but I am determined to acquire honest employment.

KATE

Leopold, I don't know if that's such a good idea.

LEOPOLD
Kate, my life back home was beneficial to no one. I want my new life to have value. I won't make the same mistakes twice.

KATE
You have to be patient.

LEOPOLD
I could conceivably wait my whole life away.

KATE
You're awfully cute when you get causey.

LEOPOLD
I will not waste any more time. I must make a difference.

INT. BLOOMINGDALES - DAY

Customers fill the aisles. In the center of it all, Leopold is hard at work. He holds a bottle of perfume.

LEOPOLD
Try our fragrance? Would you like to try our new fragrance today?

RICH CUSTOMER
What is it?

LEOPOLD
It is called, POISON.

He squirts some at her.

RICH CUSTOMER
Oh! I don't think so. Have you got PASSION?

LEOPOLD
I beg your pardon?

RICH CUSTOMER
Elizabeth Taylor's Passion?

LEOPOLD
Next aisle over.

She leaves. Leopold looks after her.
LEOPOLD
(after a beat)
Give your mother-in-law what she really deserves this season. Give her some POISON.

INT. KATE'S LABORATORY OFFICE - MORNING

The doctors enter Kate's office and closes the door.

KATE
Hi.
(the doctors remain silent)
What's the matter?

There is a long pause. Slowly Kate realizes the doctors are on to her. She puts down her pen.

KATE
So you know.

DR. KAU
We had to go through your computer to access information. Your calculations have been verified and the final course has been set. Leopold goes back a week from Friday 1:17 a.m.

DR. PLODDER
How long were you going to keep it a secret, Kate?

DR. DRAKE
Were you even going to tell us at all?

KATE
I'm not sure.

DR. PLODDER
Not sure? What can you be thinking? You can't alter the course of history and assume everything will be okay. It won't be. He has his own destiny to fulfill in his own time.

KATE
(quietly)
You don't understand.

DR. DRAKE
(gently)
He's going back, Kate.

DR. PLODDER
It's over.

Kate nods. The doctors slowly leave the room and close the door. Just the sound of the clock ticking.
Kate sits at her desk very still.

KATE
No... No, no, no.

INT. KATE'S BEDROOM - EARLY EVENING
Charlie knocks and enters.

CHARLIE
There you are. I've only been hollering for the last...
He sees her face. Kate's eyes are red and swollen. She lays out Leopold's belongings.

CHARLIE
Kate? What is it? What happened?

KATE
(very detached)
It's time. Leopold's going back.

CHARLIE
Kate...

KATE
Yup. I'll get his things together. Tell him tonight.
He goes to her.

CHARLIE
Are you all right?

KATE
(pulling away)
I'm fine.
CHARLIE
You don't look so fine.

KATE
Well I am. It was wonderful having him here, Charlie. He was of invaluable assistance to the project.
(she shrugs)
I'll miss him.

CHARLIE
You'll miss him?

KATE
I will.

CHARLIE
Goddamnit Kate, you love the guy!

Kate remains silent.

CHARLIE
Kate, don't do this. Please. It's not right.

KATE
What am I supposed to DO, Charlie?? I can't go back. He can't stay. I can't let him go. I'm not equipped to deal with this, Charlie. I don't know how.

CHARLIE
Listen to me, Kate. Don't! Don't be the ice princess.

KATE
(beginning to tear up)
I'm not!

CHARLIE
You are. You can't live your whole life under a microscope. You've got to tell him how you feel.

KATE
(breaking down in his arms)
It's too much, Charlie. It's just too much.
CHARLIE
You owe it to him.

KATE
I didn't know I could feel like this. I really didn't know.

INT. FANCY FRENCH RESTAURANT - NIGHT

LEOPOLD
So I looked him right in the eye and said, 'Ego is nature's compensation for mediocrity.' I turned and I walked. He never said a word... He probably didn't understand it... Kate?

KATE
(cold)
What?

LEOPOLD
Are you all right? You're awfully quiet.

KATE
I'm fine.

LEOPOLD
How was your day?

KATE
(taking a long pause)
It's time.

Leopold looks at her.

KATE
We're sending you back.

LEOPOLD
(slowly pushing his plate away)
When?

KATE
A week from Friday, early morning.

LEOPOLD
No!

KATE
It was a mistake, Leopold. It's out of our hands. We can't POCKET people from history like stolen jewels. We haven't the right... I'm sorry. We'll miss you.

LEOPOLD
Is that all?

KATE
What do you want me to do, fall apart? You'd still be leaving. It wouldn't solve anything.

LEOPOLD
Who is this woman sitting across from me?

KATE
What do you want me to say, Leopold?

LEOPOLD
Tell me that you love me as I love you. Let me hear you say it.

Kate remains silent. Leopold abruptly throws money on the table.

LEOPOLD
I will not do this. I'm sorry.

We starts out.

KATE
Leopold!

EXT. STREET - NIGHT

Leopold walks out of the restaurant trying to remain calm. His emotions get the best of him. Finally, exhausted, he slowly walks along Central Park South. Hansom Carriages wait to be taken out. He approaches a cab and strokes the horse's head.
He looks at the horse for a long time. Then he looks at the skyscrapers surrounding him, deciding what to do. He lays his face against the horse's head, torn.

CUT TO:

INT. LIVING ROOM – EARLY MORNING

Kate sits at the dinning room table behind empty Sara Lee boxes, pints of ice cream, beer bottles, and is working her way through the cookie dough. Leopold enters through the front door, DISHEVELED.

LEOPOLD
Good God. Look at you. You look awful.

KATE
You should see what I'm looking at.

LEOPOLD
I went back to the restaurant. They told me you went out looking for me right after I left.

KATE
That was pound cakes ago. Where were you?

LEOPOLD
I had a lot to think over.

KATE
Such as?

LEOPOLD
Just where I stand around here.

There is a long pause.

KATE
(quietly)
We should have come up with something together. I might have been spared ten or seventy pounds.

LEOPOLD
Is that an apology?

KATE
I'm sorry for what I said.

Leopold goes to her. He gently prys cookie dough from her hands.

LEOPOLD
I'm not going anywhere.

KATE
Yes you are...

LEOPOLD
I'm not going. I'm staying here with you.

KATE
But? You can't! We have no right to...

LEOPOLD
It is my destiny. It is my decision.

KATE
Have you thought about what you'd be sacrificing? Your influence? Your authority?

They kiss.

KATE
Your family, your whole way of life, everything?

They kiss.

KATE
You're not just feeling sorry for me because I ate the contents of the refrigerator, are you?

They kiss.

LEOPOLD
I love you, Kate. The single most miraculous event in my life was not how I arrived here, but that when I did, I found you.
KATE
(overwhelmed)
Here comes the mushy part!

LEOPOLD
After much consideration I've come to the conclusion I no longer desire a large estate with a full staff and ornate grounds.

KATE
That's good, because if you're staying I'll probably get fired again. What do you desire?

LEOPOLD
A beautiful wife, a small home in the middle of nowhere, lots of children, and fine schools with PMS meetings every other Sunday.

KATE
...PTA?

LEOPOLD
PTA.

KATE
I love you too. I do, Leopold. I love you, too.

They kiss.

INT. LABORATORY - DAY

Leopold and Kate sit calm and resolute. The doctors are in an uproar.

DR. PLODDER
This is outrageous! I won't allow it!

LEOPOLD
The decision is not yours to make.

DR. PLODDER
Do you realize what you're saying?
You're tampering with fate, preordaince, and God himself.

LEOPOLD
We do that every day, doctor. It is called CHOICE.

DR. KAU

Dr. Carlson is still over there. You can't simply abandon her. We have to get her back.

KATE

Do you think I'm not aware of that? Do you think a minute goes by that I don't feel responsible for her? But SOMEONE ELSE CAN GO.

DR. KAU

Only one person can return. The capsule accommodates only one person. Leopold has to find her.

LEOPOLD

Perhaps she does not wish to return. Perhaps she's found greater happiness in her new life. It happened to me.

KATE

Maybe this is her destiny. Maybe she's of more important use back there.

DR. KAU

Julia Carlson died in the Center Factory fire of 1897, two years after she arrived. She was 37 years old.

There is a stunned silence.

DR. DRAKE

Dear lord.

DR. KAU

She was a friend, Kate. She was never expected to sacrifice her life for this experiment. I won't be a party to it. I know what I'm asking... There's no way we can force you to go. Just think it over.

INT. BEDROOM – 2:30 A.M.

A clock is ticking loudly. Kate and Leopold lie back to back.
KATE
You're going back aren't you?

LEOPOLD
I keep seeing that poor woman's face.
She was terrified.

KATE
You said you wouldn't leave me...
I've never been lucky. Not one time.

LEOPOLD
Six months ago I wouldn't have given it another thought. I wouldn't have lost a moment's sleep. You've changed me, Kate. There is no turning back.

KATE
I wouldn't WANT you to change. That's what's tearing me up inside. Either way I lose... You've changed me too. I can't go back to my old life anymore. I can't live like that again. God my heart is pounding like a drum. I've never been so scared in my life. Take me with you, Leopold. God. Take me with you.

LEOPOLD
You don't realize what you're saying! You don't understand the kind of life you'd lead. What you'd be giving up.

KATE
I'd be with you.

LEOPOLD
I can't ask that of you.

KATE
Just ask me... Just ask.

LEOPOLD
Come back with me.

She slowly turns. She embraces him.

KATE
Yes!

EXT. N.Y.C. STREET - NIGHT
Dressed to the nines, Leopold leads a blindfolded Kate through the street. She is clumsier than usual.

KATE
Where are you taking me?

LEOPOLD
This is something I've wanted to do for a long time.

She takes off her blindfold and looks up at the sign: ROSELAND.

KATE
Leopold?

LEOPOLD
This will be very therapeutic.

He takes her arm and escorts her in.

INT. ROSELAND - NIGHT

Leopold leads Kate to the dance floor. He opens his arms and pulls her close.

This time there is no pretending. Partnered together, they shine. They move beautifully, effortlessly. It's almost more than they can bear. As the music plays, they stop. Leopold holds Kate tightly. They look at each other for the longest time.

CUT TO:

INT. LABORATORY - EARLY MORNING

Large screen computers are working overtime. Kate, Leopold, and Charlie accompany the doctors to the capsule. It is nearly time.
DR. DRAKE
The time tables have been set. Just strap yourself in and you'll be fine.

DR. PLODDER
You have only a twenty four hour leeway before the machine is set to return to us. You must find Carlson within that time frame and get her on board or there will be little chance of her finding a way back.

LEOPOLD
I understand.

DR. DRAKE
It's been a real pleasure. You have a much nicer smile than Ronald Coleman.

LEOPOLD
The privilege was mine.

DR. KAU
Goodbye Leopold, and thank you. (she gives him a kiss)

LEOPOLD
Oh, my.

DR. KAU
Don't worry. We'll send Kate to you... as soon as possible. I'll see to it myself.

LEOPOLD
See that you do.

DR. KAU
You have my word on it.

The doctors leave.

DR. DRAKE
Four minutes and counting.

CHARLIE
Well? I'll make this quick. Goodbye.

He sticks out his hand.

LEOPOLD
Goodbye.
(impulsively Leopold embraces Charlie)
I shall miss you Charles, more than you know.

CHARLIE
I'll miss you too, Leopold... You're the only one who knows how to program the VCR... Take care of my sister.

LEOPOLD
I will.

CARLSON
You better. Take care of yourself too while you're at it... So long.

KATE
I don't have any words for this.

LEOPOLD
I will see you soon.

KATE
I know.

LEOPOLD
You'll be with me all the time.

KATE
I know. I brought you something.

She takes out a ring and slips it on his finger.

KATE
So you wouldn't forget me.

LEOPOLD
Kate...

KATE
So you wouldn't think this was all a dream.

They kiss.

KATE
Don't forget about me.

LEOPOLD
I love you, Kate.
KATE
Wait for me.

LEOPOLD
For as long as it takes.

KATE
I will come back to you! I will!

LEOPOLD
I'll be waiting.

They kiss again for the last time.

DR. DRAKE
It's time Leopold.

Leopold holds Kate's face in his hands. Very slowly they part.

Leopold takes his place in the machine and straps himself in. He places one hand on the red lever and the other against the glass pane on the door. Kate comes over and places her hand over his. Wordlessly, they say goodbye.

After a moment, Dr. Kau gently moves Kate away. Dr. Plodder silently raises his arm, signaling Leopold.

DR. PLODDER
9 8 7 6 5 4...

Leopold shifts in his seat, his eyes never leaving Kate's, his hand still against the glass.

Kate smiles tenderly at Leopold.

DR. PLODDER
3 2 1!

Dr. Plodder drops his arm signaling Leopold. Leopold pulls the lever, still gazing at Kate. There is a blinding flash of light, then darkness.
INT. LAB - MONTHS LATER

Kate raises her head. She sits at her desk surrounded by the doctors.

DR. PLODDER
I cannot in good conscience let you go. It's out of the question.

DR. DRAKE
I can't be a part of it either Kate. I'm sorry.

DR. KAU
It's too big a risk.

Kate rises and moves to the window. She is a full NINE MONTHS PREGNANT.

DR. PLODDER
We cannot guarantee your child's safety. It's that simple.

KATE
He's waiting for me. I can feel it. Oh, Leopold...

She gazes out the window, searching the horizon.

CUT TO:

EXT. A SMALL FARM HOUSE - EVENING

Down from the horizon, a farm house. LEO COLES, 5 years old, rocks on his front porch swing. Using his bare hands as puppets he carries on a conversation. JULIA CARLSON pulls up in her car.

CARLSON
Hi. Does Katherine Coles live here?

LEO
Yeah. (yelling inside) MOM??

CARLSON
You're Leo aren't you? You don't remember me but I knew you when you were yea big.
   (she holds her hands an inch apart)

LEO Yeah.

CARLSON
I'm Julia. I'm an old friend of your mothers.

LEO
(proudly)
We had spaghetti at our house 4 times this week.

Kate comes out on the porch. She looks lovely.

KATE
Leo you don't have to holler like that. I'm not deaf...

CARLSON
Kate?

KATE
...Carlson?!

The two women scream, run to each other and embrace.

KATE
Carlson, I don't believe it. It's been... I don't know how many years. What are you doing here.

CARLSON
I came to see you, sweetie.

KATE
You remember my son, Leo?

CARLSON
We've just been getting acquainted.

KATE
Well, come inside. Come inside.

INT. KATE'S HOUSE - NIGHT
Kate heads straight for the kitchen. Carlson scans the living room before joining her.

Although rustic on the outside, the inside of the house is furnished with antiques and is Victorian in style.

KATE

(covering her agitation)
Would you like some tea? I wish you had called before you come over. It would have given me a chance to straighten up the house... myself... my life. Tell me what you've been up to. Catch me up on everyone. I heard you received some big endowment or something. I was going to write, then call, but...

She picks up the cup and saucer but it shakes so violently she has to put it down.

CARLSON

It's all right, Kate. I understand.

There is a LONG PAUSE. Carlson gets the tea ready.

Finally:

CARLSON

You'd leave in 9 days. That's not a lot of time to get your affairs in order... And I warn you, it's nearly impossible for an intelligent woman back there.

Kate stands by the back door, looking out at Leo.

CARLSON

He's a fine boy Kate. Leopold would be proud. We're aware of your situation but we felt when the time came, you deserved the option.

Kate nods, trembling slightly.

INT. FARM HOUSE - NIGHT

Kate stands in the doorway as Carlson drives off.

LEO
Who was that lady?

KATE
Just an old friend.

LEO
What she want?

KATE
(she looks at Leo)
Nothing important. You brush your teeth?

Leo shows off his teeth.

KATE
Then give your old mom a hug and go to bed.

(Leo gives her a hug and a kiss)
Good night, cookie.

LEO
Good night.

Kate wraps herself in an old blanket and moves through the house turning off the lights. It is very quiet. All we hear are Kate's footsteps and the sound of the clock ticking.

She makes her way upstairs, enters her bedroom. She sits down by the window at her desk. She sits a long time lost in thought.

She slowly pulls open a drawer and from deep inside pulls out an old photo album. She opens it and begins to look through.

CUT TO:

THE PHOTO ALBUM

Inside, old black and white photographs, newspaper clippings, magazine articles trace Leopold throughout his life.
A photograph of Leopold looking as he did the night he departed this world. He stands stiffly beside his family for a formal portrait. Very discreetly, he points to a ring. It is the same ring Kate gave him.

A newspaper article shows Leopold donating $100,000 to establish a scientific center researching studies in time and space.

A magazine picture shows Leopold, the sole male figure, marching to give women the vote.

A photograph of a large formal wedding. Leopold, around FIFTY, stands alone in the wedding party, surreptitiously pointing to his ring.

A magazine article shows Leopold in his SIXTIES establishing a scholarship program for studies in physics. He is surrounded by academia and subtly points to his ring.

A photograph of Leopold around SEVENTY shaking hands with Albert Einstein and smiling broadly for the cameras.

A professional photograph of Leopold at SEVENTY FIVE, sitting regally in a chair. Beside him, an EMPTY chair. He rests one hand on the back of the chair. The other he holds against his chest, showing off the ring.

An obituary with the headline, "Philanthropist, 80, dies in bombings."

A tear falls on the page.

Kate cries silently, looking out the window. The camera follows her gaze past her property...

CUT TO:

INT. BANQUET ROOM - YEARS LATER
LEO, 24 and his BRIDE take to the floor for the first time as husband and wife and are greeted with applause. Older, beautiful, hair cut short, looks on in wonder. Charlie, standing with Patrice and their 6 blonde children, approaches Kate and leads her to the dance floor.

KATE
He's so YOUNG, Charlie.

CHARLIE
He's old enough.

KATE
Look at that idiotic expression on his face.

CHARLIE
He's happy.

KATE
Of course he's happy. All weddings are happy. It's the living together afterwards that causes all the trouble.

Julia Carlson, under dressed, over anxious, enters the banquet hall. She stands at the back of the large room, searching. Couples fill the dance floor. Across the expansive room, over the tops of heads, Charlie and Kate bob amongst the guests. Leo cuts in. As they spin, in the briefest of seconds, Kate spots Carlson. She pales. They TURN. Kate peers over Leo's shoulder. Her eyes lock with Julia's. Not Julia's.

KATE
Oh, you're so young... I love you, Leo. Always remember that...
From behind, her shoulders shake as she cries.

LEO
Mom, we're only moving to Denver.

KATE
I know, cookie. I know.

INT. CONTROL BOOTH - NIGHT

From behind a glass partition, Carlson works at her console. A monitor counts away the seconds. 59, 58, 57... In the darkened lab, Kate, dressed in early 1920s attire, straps herself in and smiles tearfully. Their voices echo in the lab.

KATE Well...

CHARLIE
I know. Me too.

They embrace each other for the last time.

KATE
What will I do without you, Charlie?

CHARLIE
(softly)
Live happily ever after.

CARLSON
(pushing the intercom button)
Kate, it's time.

LEO
(emotionally)
Here. It's a letter for my father. Tell him about me... um, tell him I love him. I want him to know me.

KATE
Leo...

LEO
Mom, I want you to go.
KATE

But...

He puts his finger to her lips. He looks to his wife then back at Kate. He nods his head.

LEO

Go.

They force themselves to smile, trying to get through the moment.

CARLSON

Ready!

Charlie, Leo and his new bride stand back. Inside the craft, Carlson raises her arm, signaling Kate. Then to her staff:

CARLSON

9, 8, 7...

Kate presses her hand against the glass as a final goodbye. She grabs the lever with her other hand and turns away, staring straight ahead. Charlie puts his arm around Leo.

CARLSON

3, 2, 1!

There is a BRIGHT WHITE FLASH. Kate is gone. The others stand there motionless, stunned.

The screen is BLACK.

EXT. A LARGE VICTORIAN ESTATE - 1924 - NIGHT

A FLASH of light illuminates the forest at the Albany estate. A BEAT. Kate races from the forest onto a massive lawn, stumbling in mud as she hurries to the mansion's entrance.

INT. BALLROOM - NIGHT
Huge double doors open to reveal -- AN ORNATE BALLROOM. The creme de la creme have gathered and dance. Kate rushes down an elaborate staircase. Half way down she looses a shoe. She hesitates briefly then continues to the floor.

In the center of the floor, Leopold, looking very distinguished and attractive, dances with a flirtatious woman. Try as she might, Leopold keeps her at a distance.

FLIRT
(brushing his shirt front)
I just love a starched white shirt.
It's so elegant.

LEOPOLD
Thank you.

FLIRT
Skeeky.

LEOPOLD
Yes. You dance like an angel Miss Beall. You light up the room around you. I thank you.

FLIRT
(with a big smile)
Thank YOU.

The music changes: A LIVELY CHARLESTON. Leopold heaves a sigh of relief and makes his way through the crowd, up the staircase. The dancers become an intricate maze, a dead end at every turn as Kate searches each male face.

In the foreground, Leopold is stopped by a woman midway up the stairs. As they chat, Leopold reaches down and picks up the muddy slipper, offering it to her. She turns in a huff, flouncing down the stairs.

Simultaneously, in the background, Kate desperately looks for Leopold.

Leopold studies the slipper as he makes his way up the stairs. He slows down, hesitates and STOPS. Very slowly he turns around. He becomes very still. TEARS well up in his eyes.

The ballroom clock strikes MIDNIGHT.

Kate climbs an opposite staircase to get a better view then STOPS. In her heart SHE KNOWS. Slowly she turns. Leopold stands quietly at the bottom of the stairs, gazing up at her. He extends his arm, showing her THE RING. He offers her his hand.

The crowd, the room, THE WORLD AROUND THEM, DISAPPEAR. Their eyes lock. As she descends the staircase, THE YEARS MELT AWAY. Kate's short hair grows long, cascading around her shoulders. The fine lines around Leopold's face are gone. They see themselves through each other's eyes, at the moment of youth, when they fell in love.

Leopold bends down, places the slipper on Kate's foot. He rises, looks down at his hands and then up at Kate. His hands are caked with mud. She smiles helplessly. Not caring, he wraps his arms tightly around her.

MUSIC begins to play, a slow waltz. He nods to her. She takes a deep breath. Her head bobs in rhythm. She begins to count silently. Leopold smiles, counting along.
THEY DANCE...

An elderly couple watch Leopold with interest.

LORD WHITEHEAD
Who is that dancing with Leopold?

LADY WHITEHEAD
I've never seen her before.

Kate and Leopold dance past. They are older. As they gaze into each other's eyes, they twirl. THE LOOK OF YOUTH RETURNS.

At the center of the floor they stop dancing. THEY KISS. The rest of the world dances around them.

Over this background... THE SCRAPBOOK PICTURES BLEED ONTO SCREEN.

The old formal wedding photo becomes a photograph of Kate and Leopold the perfect bride and groom, both discreetly point to their rings.

Kate stands with Leopold as he establishes a scholarship for studies in physics.

The old photograph of Leopold and Albert Einstein changes to include Kate, waving and smiling broadly for the camera.

The professional photograph becomes a double portrait. It shows the two in their 70's, sitting regally in matching chairs. They hold hands and smile serenely. Staring directly into the camera, they show off their rings.

SLOWLY the scrapbook closes...

Kate and Leopold dance, the music swells as they become lost in the crowd. The clock CHIMES. Slowly we...
OUT:

FADE

THE END