

Magazine Rack

Art in Your Face

CONDÉ NAST, watch out: Art scenester and handsome devil Iké Udé has charmed New York with his witty, elegant, self-portrait fakes of Vogue, Town & Country, and Harper's Bazaar, and will bring his show to Los Angeles's Otis Parsons Gallery in February. "I don't care about their policies and practices of exclusion," he says of the magazine industry, "but it's stale and boring." Look for aRUDE, Udé's magazine of "authentic rudeness," debuting in late February with contributors Carrie Mae Weems and Jennie Livingston.

VOGUE

The New MC on the Rap Scene is a Boy Waif

Red is Always in Season

Are Women Fashion Victims?

Who is Afraid of OJ?

Secrets of a Famous Holly Bombshell

TOWN & COUNTRY

The Noble Savage is Dead

L.A. Harris Reports from Lagos

What Experts Do

Ex-P

Admits to

Investing

For the

Year

& Their

BILLY HOLLIDAY'S LAST DAYS

Farewell to Fashion, to Sex and to Health

THE ART OF AUTO-BIOGRAPHY & LYING

Disadvantages of Happiness: A child's story

THE ETHICS & ESTHETICS OF THE DANDY REDEFINED