

LITTLE STEPS KINDY

Little Steps Kindy (LSK) is therapeutic small group preparation program.

Speech and language pathologists and occupational therapists trained in a developmental and relationship based approach work directly with the children at a therapist to child ratio of one therapist to two children. The group size is between 4 to 6 children. The principles used in this program incorporate best practice guidelines for early intervention (ECIA) LSK is well suited for those children taking the first steps of separation from the family unit into a group setting who need therapeutic support in a smaller group space as a stepping stone to school. The sensory, regulatory, communication and social emotional needs of the children are the major focus of LSK. Children have the experience of a safe and comfortable environment where their strengths are nurtured while they receive targeted support on areas of challenge.

Feedback from Little Steps parents about the important things that the program has provided for their child and family:

- A safe and comfortable place for my child to be themselves around other children and to help their confidence grow.
- An environment that really values my child and is fully accepting
- Improved ability to focus attention on activities and what others are doing around them
- Increased language around feelings and noticing others as well as their own emotions
- Getting practice with the routines that will help them transition into school
- Improved motor and self-care skills and learning a wider range of play skills
- Knowledge that their social skills are being supported to improve and seeing this for ourselves outside of LSK is so reassuring
- Such a great support to ease my child's transition from life at home to school
- A place to meet other families who are in the same situation
