

Statement on Worker Safety on Campus

APUS would like to offer our condolences to the family, friends and colleagues of Tim DesGrosseilliers, who died while working at a construction site on the St George campus this past Friday, September 8. We acknowledge the value that all workers bring to our campus by creating and maintaining the spaces that allow all of us to study, teach and work. APUS is committed to the health and safety of the entire University of Toronto community, and we will continue to work in solidarity with student, labour and community groups to promote workers' rights on campus.
