

In House Lawyer
(4-6 years M&A / Securities experience)

Anson Funds manages a collection of privately-held offshore investment entities investing primarily in publicly-traded equity and debt securities on a global basis with offices in downtown Toronto and in Texas. Founded in 2003, Anson Funds has enjoyed steady growth and now has four hedge funds and one separately managed account.

To support this growth, Anson Funds is now prepared to hire its first in house lawyer. The practice will be varied with this person providing legal support across the whole organization on transactions, day to day corporate / commercial matters, corporate governance needs and regulatory / compliance issues (both from the OSC and SEC perspective). This person will be working closely with senior management as well as the Chief Compliance Officer, supporting high level discussions. In addition, this individual will be interacting with external counsel. This position will report to the Chief Operating Officer.

The ideal candidate will have 4-6 years of investment funds, M&A or securities experience gained at a major law firm or organization. Any experience with the regulations of the United States Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) will be important because the investment manager of the investment entities is an SEC Registered Investment Adviser, and because many of the issues and transactions are cross-border in nature. Experience with the investment fund industry will be attractive but not essential, especially if the candidate has experience with the SEC. Although this person will have daily access to senior management, it will be important that this person be self-motivated and able to work autonomously.

This is a unique opportunity to join an organization as its first in house counsel. With 17 people in the Toronto office and 7 in Dallas, this is a close-knit team that provides the opportunity to interact with all levels of management.
