IICRC Opens Nominations for the Keith Williams Award

Las Vegas – Feb. 29, 2016 – Do you know an individual who has made a significant technical contribution to the advancement of the science of inspection, cleaning and restoration? The Institute of Inspection, Cleaning and Restoration Certification (IICRC) is now accepting nominations for the Keith Williams Award.

The Keith Williams Award was created to honor its namesake, an industry pioneer who volunteered his time and technical abilities to the IICRC for many years. It honors individuals who have made significant technical contributions to the inspection, cleaning and restoration industry.

Presented annually during the IICRC's fall meetings, the Keith Williams award winner will receive a special plaque and will be recognized in the IICRC Today eNewsletter. To submit a nomination, visit <http://tinyurl.com/keithwilliams16> to download a nomination form. The deadline for submissions is April 1.

“The Keith Williams Award honors an individual whose contributions will have a lasting impact on our industry,” said IICRC Chairman Pete Duncanson. “We hope the award encourages industry innovation by honoring our brightest and most dedicated leaders.”
