Table of Contents

(Note: We have not used the Table of Contents Outlining function in MS Word® to create this table. Normally we would. However some users are unfamiliar with that function and without training it can create frustration and scramble page numbers, etc. If you wish to use it, and have the training, once you have created your numbered sections in the body of the document you can easily delete this manual table and replace it with an automated one. By the time you add text, charts, tables and add or delete optional sections this table will need updating.
