GENERAL STUDIES

The comprehensive college preparatory general studies program is designed to prepare students for entry into college and the workplace. Our teaching staff works collaboratively to create a learning environment tailored to meet the needs of all students. Courses are regularly reviewed to enhance the content and the staff is provided with resources to ensure that teachers are applying best strategies in the classroom. Recently, 9th and 10th grade computer courses have been updated to include programming in JavaScript.

Every year students take classes in English, history, mathematics, science, and computer applications. In addition, Bais Yaakov has partnered with Quincy College to offer dual enrolment courses in American History, Western Civilization, Computer Graphics Applications, Anatomy & Physiology, and Accounting. Junior and senior students may opt to receive both high school and college credit for successfully completing those courses.
