Windsor clears out summer schedule

Record Staff

Looking ahead to summer, the Town of Windsor announced several cancellations or modifications to regular summer programming schedule on Friday. Made in order to conform to requirements from the Provincial Government, the decisions impact all public events until August 31.

The annual Fête de la famille, musical performances at du Centenaire Park, and the film screenings at Camping Watopeka have all been cancelled, but the conversation is ongoing with regard to the town's summer day camp and municipal pool. According to a press release issued by the town, Windsor's municipal administration is operating in planning mode with regard to the camp while waiting for more information from the Province.

If the camp is allowed to open as hoped on June 29, the town advises parents to keep in mind that the services will need to be adjusted to meet social distancing and sanitary guidelines. Those who are interested in having a child participate are invited to register on the town's website at <http://www.villedewindsor.qc.ca/espace-citoyen/>

With regard to the pool and splashpad, nothing is certain at this point, but citizens are once again advised to expect limitations and restrictions on capacity and schedule if the services are allowed to open at all.

In the meantime all parks, playgrounds, dog parks, sports fields and areas in the community remains closed until further notice.

Porch portraits

or weekly, short music videos with the faces of volunteers, neighbours, staff and townfolk as another way of keeping in touch during this time of physical isolation.

In March a video entitled, "Bridge over Troubled Waters" was shared and featured many youth displaying through rainbow creations, their heartfelt words of hope and care to the seniors in isolation during this pandemic. This video received many comments of positive feedback and appreciation. It can be viewed on the CABMN website at www.cabmn.org

Recently, the CABMN sent out a message encouraging people to take "porch portraits" and send them in to the CABMN. The portraits were to include whoever lives in your home, taken out on the porch as a way to let friends and neighbours know that each family and individual are doing okay and that the quarantine or distance, while being respected, has not diminished the spirits of those faces being missed by many in each community.

These photos sent in to the CAB Missisquoi North are used each evening in with the daily happening photos and are sent out in an evening video as a way to stay connected, spread some positivity and to emphasize a strong community resilience that stays ever present through this difficult time.

Some neighbours and those delivering medication have taken the time, from a distance, to snap photos of neighbours as they deliver medication, groceries or as a stop by solely to snap the photo to be shared. For those receiving the videos in the evening, this has meant a lot.

"I just want to say how much I appreciate the porch portraits shared each night in your videos," said one Potton resident, Sharon Fewtrell. "I miss seeing all these friends and acquaintances and it is so nice to see their photos."

The CABMN continues to find ways to keep the communities it serves connected and informed through the Covid-19 Pandemic that seems to strive to isolate people. For more information or to view the videos done by the CABMN thus far, visit their website at www.cabmn.org

If you have a porch portrait to share of your family, send it to: m.hastings@cabmn.org Regardless of where you are from, we are all in this together.
