

HP is using Paybox to help its enterprise customers manage their multiple IT suppliers with their multiple complex IT resources that they consume across their global enterprise.

Business Challenge

Consolidating IT service invoicing and consumption reporting across multiple global IT suppliers is a huge challenge, especially when you are a provider as large as HP Enterprise Services.

HP Enterprise Services must monitor the delivery and consumption of IT services and the associated IT software and hardware assets across multiple suppliers and geographic locations. These assets can then be levered across business processes so HP and their customers get the full business value from each service and component.

Solution

HP utilizes Paybox's e-invoicing suite as the management platform for its multi-supplier integration service. HP selected Invoices On-Line for its ability to integrate with any ERP or financial system, and its rich data management and reporting capabilities.

Paybox provides invoice presentation, validation, remediation, and recharge/cross-charge functionality for several of HP's largest Enterprise Services customers, including:

- A global auto manufacturer
- Europe's largest pension fund
- A global petroleum company
- A global consumer goods company

Results

The combination of Paybox and HP's framework provides HP customers worldwide with significant cost savings through improved financial viability. Paybox assists HP's customers in tracking and controlling supplier contractual obligations.

Paybox provides HP customers with a single source of truth for accessing critical information across multiple locations and systems.

Paybox provides Hewlett Packard's customers with:

- Multi-Supplier invoice and service management platform
- Consolidated Invoice and service delivery validation
- Complex consumption based recharge capabilities
- Streamlined and consolidated reporting
- Dispute Resolution and workflow

"We are very proud of Paybox's track record in supporting HP's business process and the pursuit and support of their Enterprise Services clients."

Matthew E. Oakes,
President & CEO of Paybox Corp.
