

IMPACTFUL

Those who heard you will never be the same on the drug issue again.

President, CBS News

Robert Stutman, formerly “the most famous narc in America” (New York Magazine), made a 25-year career as one of America’s highest profile DEA Special Agents, five of which he worked undercover. As head of DEA’s largest office in the world, New York, Bob became so visible; Pablo Escobar had at one time targeted him for assassination. He has been a Special Consultant on substance abuse for CBS & PBS News, has appeared frequently on hundreds of national television shows and has been a drug consultant on a number of films. His autobiography, “Dead on Delivery” was published by Warner Books and was the basis for the television movie “Mob Justice”. During his career with the DEA, Bob traveled to 73 countries, and met and discussed the drug issue with First Lady Nancy Reagan and two sitting Presidents; George H.W. Bush, and Bill Clinton. Bob provides presentations throughout the country annually to corporations, medical & dental professionals, schools and parents. Recent presentations include MD Anderson Cancer Hospital and the Florida Medical Association Opioid Summit as co-keynote speaker with Governor Rick Scott.

HOW DRUGS CHANGED AMERICAN CULTURE

At the end of the 20th century, the drug problem in America drastically changed. Why did this happen, when did this happen and what are the results? Who are the substance abusers? How is this directly affecting America both culturally and in the workplace? Why is the American drug problem of the 21st century so different than previous drug epidemics?

Where are we headed?

Bob Stutman will bring to life the best research available showing us what we’re up against and how we can empower and protect our families and work environment from, what he believes, to be the greatest health issue in our world today.
