

Beneath a Tree - Baroque to Folk explores the interrelationships found between classical baroque music and folk music, from traditional fiddle music through American bluegrass practices. Realizing how ingrained folk music is in all music genres throughout history and how this relationship has flourished through time, Beneath a Tree brings these idioms together with historical performance practices. The group was co-founded in 2017 by violinist Gail Hernández Rosa and double bassist Daniel Turkos, and established in California in 2018.
